Cheltenham Festival 2024 Bring it on!

Four days that pack one hell of a punc

Racing writer of the year Chris Cook sets the scene for a wonderful four days

HEN vou reach a peak, it's fun to look back and reflect on what you saw along the way. Jump racing's Christmas is once more upon us in the form of the Cheltenham Festival, meaning it is now 60 years since Arkle's first Gold Cup victory, when he surprised those who had sent off Mill House at odds-on.

Perhaps your memory doesn't go back that far but you'll have heard Peter O'Sullevan's commentary: "This is the champion, this is the best we've seen for a long time." Sixty years ago, that It's 35 years since one of the most dramatic weeks of all, when Beech Road somehow landed the Champion Hurdle at 50-1 and then Desert Orchid overcame his aversion to Cheltenham by winning his Gold Cup two days later. This is also the 20th anniversary of Best Mate's hat-trick.

Big Buck's got the first of his four victories in the Stayers' Hurdle 15 years ago. And it's five years since that golden hour of emotional outcomes, when Frodon and Paisley Park were the big winners on day

Most significantly of all, it is now a full century since the Cheltenham Gold Cup. You can expect to see and hear a flurry of references during these festivities to Red Splash, the race's first winner back in

It was a modest beginning, with a winner's purse of £685, about half what the National Hunt Chase was worth. In those early days the Gold Cup was seen as a prep-race for the Grand National and Conjuror, beaten just a head by Red Splash, was sent off at 5-2 at Aintree a fortnight later, Alas for his backers, he got no further than Becher's.

Chris Pitt's excellent new book on the Gold Cup, Let No Memories Fade, says it took those repeat winners Easter Hero and Golden Miller to raise the race's standing and popularity in the 1930s. Its creators may have had high hopes but they can have had little idea of what they had begun.

Arkle, Dawn Run, Kauto v Denman, preview nights and the Guinness Village, all such madness was part of an unimaginably distant future back in the days when Ramsay MacDonald was prime minister (NB for coincidence-backers: he was born in Lossiemouth).

We can't be blind to the fact that the festival is facing some headwinds these days. Depth

'There will be unexpected triumphs, inexplicable flops, ecstasy and agony, all the extremes that occur naturally when top-class sport takes place' of competition is not what it was 15 or 20 years ago. Attendance figures fell last year, which was blamed on train strikes, although I should think it was also closely connected with harsh economic realities - comfortingly, TV viewing figures were strong.

But if you take the long view, such problems need not be the end of the world. The great wheel will keep turning and a day will come when we're all feeling more flush than at present.

In the meantime, what matters is to party like it's 1924, celebrating that spirit of bringing the big-name horses together at Cheltenham with the aim of finding out who's best. As I recall writing after last year's festivities, this week still packs one hell of a punch. A quiet winter of small fields and low-octane racedays does not prepare you for what's coming.

HERE will be unexpected triumphs, inexplicable flops, ecstasy and agony, all the extremes that naturally occur where top-class sport takes place. The trick is to end up on the right side of it, as peril-strewn a challenge as it ever was, especially if you're having a go in the handicaps.

Are you with me when I say that Galopin Des Champs is a special talent who should not be opposed as he seeks a second Gold Cup? We saw some vulnerability from him after last year's success, which was followed by back-to-back defeats at Punchestown.

The crown appeared to be slipping - but it now looks as though he had excuses. A bit of late-season form, a bit of early-season form ... not to be taken too seriously. In the Fastorslow, who turned him over twice at Punchestown, will have his supporters. Martin Brassil might be a Grand National-winning trainer with the enviable support of Sean Mulryan but he counts as the underdog whenever he's taking on Willie Mullins.

A Gold Cup success for him would be very popular. But a glance at the form book reminds me that Fastorslow has been second at the last two festivals and I reckon he can get up the hat-trick. No disrespect intended to good old, enigmatic Shishkin, who adds colour to everything but is surely not a Gold Cup winner in waiting, or even a Gold Cup runner-up in waiting.

Constitution Hill will be the star on day one if he's recovered from his recent dirty scope, when even Mullins might struggle to mount an effective resistance. Surely the reigning champ will keep his title for another year if he's fully fit, but there's every chance of a challenger emerging from that hotlooking Supreme that opens proceedings.

El Fabiolo and Jonbon will renew their rivalry on Wednesday, when Minella Indo is expected to add a deal of class to the Cross Country. The Ryanair and the Stayers' Hurdle both look dangerously open on Thursday.

Make of it what you will, with the help of sage advice truffled out from the following pages. Cheltenham week is here again and, until the Midlands National comes along, all other considerations are secondary.

Unlimited boundaries and more than a few certainties – just don't ask vexing questions

Top jockey and Racing Post writer Patrick Mullins is raring for the off

OES freedom come from unlimited boundaries or are we happier when housed within certainties? A question that has vexed philosophers for centuries. They could have just asked Willie. Ballyburn for the Supreme or the Baring Bingham? Gaelic Warrior/ Facile Vega the Arkle or the Turners, or even the Brown Advisory? Marmalade or jam this morning?

Some people need certainties. They need flights and hotels booked, ante-post bets placed, childminders prepared, bags packed. Certainty. Willie does not. And that's why he can handle 300-plus horses and 100-plus owners. It's weirdly why he is where he is.

But it's still hugely annoying.

Where does Ballyburn go? I don't know. Willie doesn't know. The horse doesn't know. Is he good enough to win either race? Yes. Is he an outand-out two-miler? No. But War Of Attrition found only Brave Inca too good in the Supreme. Vautour wasn't one either but he won one. Champagne Fever didn't have speed to burn but, ridden appropriately, he too won the Supreme. The main issue with him running in the Supreme, I think, is people telling Willie to run him in the Supreme. I'm continually amazed that people haven't realised that Willie's natural reaction to being told something, is to do the opposite.

Mystical Power looks fast, on the track at least, because he doesn't really show that at home. He scraped through in a Balinrobe bumper, then won a novice at the Galway festival before routing the Moscow Flyer field nearly six months later. It was hugely impressive. But then Tullyhill beat the second there by even further, despite his jumping technique being similar to Gertrude Stein's writing.

Readin Tommy Wrong won the Lawlor's at Naas. Willie thought he mugged ${\bf Ile}$ Atlantique. I thought he beat a horse who got to set mostly his own fractions and would upgrade the performance. Same reality, different truths. He isn't as sexy as some of ours but he could be every bit as good as any of them. Ile Atlantique could well be suited by the tight Old course though, he's been out-somethinged at Naas and Fairyhouse, two long-straighted galloping flat tracks. I adore him and can't wait to see him over fences. More jumps will get him over the line in front more often.

Predators Gold has been like Goldilocks recently.
Slightly too slow over two miles, slightly two keen over two and three-quarters but the 2m5f of the Baring Bingham could be just right.

Dancing City kept him at bay at Leopardstown and the further, the better for this fine strong chestnut. He'll gallop and jump and settle and that's everything you need for an Albert Bartlett. High Class Hero is five from five but he has been flying in lower leagues than this. Five from five is five from five, though

The Triumph Hurdle is still going and Willie is still buying lots for it. They all look like what you'd expect, except Majborough. I don't really care what he does this year. But I can't wait to see him over the next two years-plus.

There are two islands of certainty in an ocean of novice chasers with unlimited boundaries. Il Etait Temps is small. He's narrow. He ain't exactly pretty. But he is tough He is fast. He is a dual Grade 1-winning hurdler and chaser. And he'll go to the Arkle, surely to God? He was well beat in the Supreme but things didn't go to plan there and he could well be a better chaser. Fact To File goes to the Brown Advisory, it seems. He is like riding an armchair. Comfortable. Safe. Flawless.

The same cannot be said for Gaelic Warrior. Six defeats from 12 runs. All when going left-handed. He hasn't run badly, just not been at his best. And his best is absolutely spellbindingly electric. Last time was something more than the direction, no doubt, but it wasn't physical, thankfully. Maybe fences can help him improve on his two hurdling seconds at the festival. All I know is, I'd never say there's something this horse can't do.

Facile Vega has disappointed the last twice. I think neither race played to his strengths. His jumping has been careful rather than fast when judged at two-mile speed. I'd love to see him step up in trip, his mother won six times at Cheltenham over two and a half miles and four times at Punchestown over three miles. He'll prove the doubters wrong, and I can't wait for when he does. I still expect to see him in a Gold Cup in the future and I would absolutely love to ride him. Hopefully Willie doesn't read this.

Embassy Gardens looks set to go for the National Hunt Chase, so all the press at our open day tell me. He was too keen in the Albert Bartlett last year but this is usually a smaller field and a more relaxed start, which should help.

Lossiemouth has built up quite the reputation. The rule with reputations is extinction, but she could be one of the exceptions to prove the rule. I think I'll be on Ashroe
Diamond in the Mares'
Hurdle. The only six horses to beat her over hurdles are all Grade 1-winning geldings. I fancy her to reinforce the rule.

The Bumper is murky.

Jasmin Du Veux was visually impressive, Argento Boy has the pedigree, You Oughta

Know has the best form,

Cantico the best home work and Maugheen probably has the best average score in all four. I'll wait to see how they're working before I choose the wrong one again.

State Man has to hope the real Constitution Hill doesn't turn up, while El Fabiolo's opponents have to hope the real El Fabiolo doesn't turn up. Galopin Des Champs bids to emulate Al Boum Photo and defend the crown of jump racing. And that race will set things up nicely for the main event, Billaway at 12 years old bidding to regain that humongous, gargantuan Foxhunter trophy. Lots of unlimited boundaries, and more than a few certainties. But Cheltenham has a habit of turning certainty inside out, doesn't it?

Interview Gordon Elliott

'Cheltenham is the be-all and end-all so it's pressure – yes, real pressure'

The leading trainer talks to deputy Ireland editor

David
Jennings

TAY tuned for a deep dive into a festival team the trainer himself describes as "under the radar, but stronger than you might think". Before we get to that, a rant. Not just any old rant either, a proper and passionate harangue about his fierce rival.

"It drives me potty that every time you pick up a paper or listen to a podcast that it's Willie Mullins this and Willie Mullins that. People complaining about what he's doing to the game. It's nonsense," says Gordon Elliott, who has finished runner-up to the Closutton colossus in the Irish trainers' championship for the last 11 seasons in a row, soon to become 12.

Still, no begrudging the fact. Just pure, unadulterated admiration.

Elliott says: "I take my hat off to Willie Mullins. I look up to him. We're making him hungrier and he's making us better.

"What drives me mad is the small-mindedness of people. Of course, everybody would love to have all the horses Willie does, but he hasn't got them because he's an idiot. He's got these horses because he is one of the greatest trainers of all time, if not the greatest. And I'm just unlucky to have been born in the same era as him.

"It just boils my blood to hear people, and other trainers even, saying we should cap the amount of horses that people can train. I admire Willie Mullins and everything he does. He's the one who gets me up in the morning and drives me on. He sets the standard. He's the one we have to chase. He's the reason we all have to get better."

One winner at the 2024 Cheltenham Festival won't do Elliott because he knows Mullins won't be too far off double digits. He got three last year compared to Mullins' six, but both camps will expect more this year. The teams are stronger, the expectations higher.

"It's pressure, yes, real pressure," he says of the four-day extravaganza. "The lads in here will tell you I start to get a bit antsy at this time of year. I love it, though, and I've got a great team around me.

"I love going to Cheltenham, it's the best week of the year. I can't have anyone saying Cheltenham is not the be-all and end-all. It is. It definitely is. If I don't come out without a couple of winners, I'll have the tail between my legs going home."

On last year's tally, he adds: "We had three winners and, to be honest, we were probably unlucky we didn't have six or seven. We were beaten a head or a neck in three or four other races, and most of the horses ran really well, but we just didn't get the bounce of the ball in a few of the races.

"It's hard to win over there. You need everything to go your way and all the ducks to line up in a row. Sometimes the horses can run great, everything goes according to plan, they peak on the day, but for whatever reason they're just beaten in photos or tight finishes. That can happen.

"I came away from Cheltenham last year frustrated, because we could have had a lot more than three winners, but also delighted at the same time as so many of the horses ran really well. That's all you can ask for."

Elliott has 37 winners on his festival CV and you get the impression he will be disillusioned if that figure does not reach 40 in 2024. Mullins might have the best team, containing a whole host of odds-on shots, but his fierce rival down the road in County Meath has assembled a strong squad that will span across almost every race. Elliott won't be represented in the Champion Chase, and unless Irish Point turns up, he might not be involved in the Champion Hurdle either, but the chances are he will be involved in the remaining 26.

LLIOTT says: "We're coming in under the radar, but we have a stronger team than you might think. I'd like to think we might be able to win the Cross Country again, as we have a few great chances in that, and we could run four in the Stayers' Hurdle. Teahupoo and Irish Point are joint-favourites, and don't forget Sire Du Berlais. He worked real well the other day at Fairyhouse. We'll probably run Beacon Edge as well. You'd be hoping one of them might be good enough in that. Teahupoo is in great form

"Teahupoo is in great form and we've been training him for this all season. We decided to do things differently this time and keep him fresh after the Hatton's Grace at Fairyhouse. That could make the difference this year. I'll be shocked if Jack [Kennedy] doesn't ride him. The horse ran a huge race in it last year and was a bit unlucky.

"We aren't sure what we're going to do with Irish Point yet. If the ground came up soft, the Champion Hurdle is a possibility, but at the moment I'd say the Stayers' Hurdle is where he's going. He's very laid-back and I don't have any great stamina concerns for the staying trip. The better the ground, the better his chance in it."

And don't dare discount Sire Du Berlais. Elliott cannot understand why the build-up to this year's festival has contained such little chat about last year's 33-1 winner of the Stayers' Hurdle. He almost completed the spring festival treble, too. He followed up at Aintree, but was collared late at Punchestown having hit the front at the second-last.

Elliott says of the evergreen 12-year-old: "He won it last year and then he won at Aintree and was just beaten at Punchestown. He actually worked very well at Fairyhouse on Saturday and I was delighted with him. He likes it when the sun comes out and he likes Cheltenham as well.

"We have to ride him out twice a day, and he swims twice a day as well. He's just so laid-back and we've got to do that to keep the weight off him. He's been the horse of a lifetime."

You get the impression Elliott thinks we will be describing Brighterdaysahead as a "horse of a lifetime" in a decade's time if she stays injury free. She has a long way to go, and a hell of a lot of races to win, before she can enter the same conversations as Sire Du Berlais but the early signs are very positive and I have never heard him talk about any horse the way he talks about her. This is true love, there is nothing fake about it.

"We think she's very good and I've always loved her," he says of the favourite for the Ryanair Mares' Novices' Hurdle, who takes on the unbeaten pair Jade De Grugy and Dysart Enos in what promises to be one of the most riveting races of the entire week.

Elaborating on why he is so fond of her, Elliott adds: "Shane McCann, who is as good a judge as we have here in the yard, rides her every day and he thinks she's as good as anything we've ever had here. That would include we like what she does. She pleases us the whole time. She has got a great chance."

Elliott is a realist, not a dreamer. He realises a second Boodles Cheltenham Gold
Cup, eight years after Don Cossack provided him with his

Don Cossack, everything,

"She does her own talking on the track, so I don't need to do it for her, but we think she's very good. She knows how to win and she has got a great attitude. She's not flashy, but first, is unlikely.

"I think Galopin Des Champs has been awesome this season and I don't know how we're going to beat him, to be perfectly honest with you," is his synopsis of the arduous task facing Gerri Colombe

"But I do think we're better than we were at Leopardstown over Christmas. He didn't run his race that day. He wouldn't have been second in another 100 yards and that's just not him. He's better than that and we know that for sure.

"We always labelled him as a bit of a mud-lover, but I actually think the better the ground, the better chance he has in the Gold Cup. He stays Brighterdaysahead (left), who is bound for the mares' novice hurdle, is the apple of her trainer's eye; (above) Gordon Elliott holds court in his office; (from top right) Stayers' Hurdle hope Teahupoo and Salvador Ziggy, who goes in the National Hunt Chase well so the trip will suit. He has been really good at home since Leopardstown, he's not flashy at home or anything, but he looks great and I've trained him for one day and one day only this season."

Firefox has already beaten Ballyburn and he will be sent out to the crease to bat first in the Sky Bet Supreme Novices' Hurdle, a race Elliott and Kennedy teamed up to win with the mercurial Labaik back in 2017.

"The Supreme is his target. He wasn't right after Naas and he's better than he showed there. I eased off him for a few weeks after that and he got tired in his first bit of work since about two weeks ago, but he worked very nicely at Fairyhouse the other day and looks to be coming right. He has beaten Ballyburn already, so I don't see why he couldn't beat him again. He's a very good horse. One of my best."

OW that's a big claim. Another big claim is that Kennedy might ride The Yellow Clay over Jalon D'Oudairies and Romeo Coolio in the Champion Bumper, despite being a bigger price than both.

He says: "I think The Yellow Clay is coming in under the radar. He doesn't do anything flashy at home, but he'll come on a lot from the last day. He might not have beaten the winner but he'd have been a good second if he'd had another race under his belt, and there's improvement in him. It wouldn't shock me if lack rode him.

"Jalon D'Oudairies is a nice horse with a good attitude. He wants to win, while Romeo Coolio is a horse who has always shown up very well at home. He pulled a muscle, which slowed us down a little bit. I put myself under a bit of pressure to get a run into him in January and he'll come on a stone from that. I think he's a very good horse."

Found A Fifty has already proven himself to be a very good horse. He's a Grade 1 winner, having landed the Racing Post Novice Chase at Leopardstown over Christmas, and in one of the most open Arkles in recent memory, it wouldn't shock you were he to emerge victorious. He's

SHANE McCANN, WHO IS AS GOOD A JUDGE
YARD, RIDES HER AND
GOOD AS ANYTHING
HERE. THAT WOULD
COSSACK,

battle-hardened, jumps well and stays.

"Found A Fifty is very much on track for the Arkle," the trainer says. "He ran really well when just nabbed at Leopardstown last time and he's maturing all the while. He was much more professional that day and I think he'll continue to get better."

Elliott has already won the National Hunt Chase four times, most recently with Ravenhill in 2020, and he put one aside for it very early this season. Take the hint.

"The National Hunt Chase has always been the plan for Salvador Ziggy," he explains. "He has plenty of experience, which is always key in that race. The better the ground, the better chance he has, that's for sure."

American Mike is set to be supplemented for the Brown Advisory Novices' Chase, while My Trump Card could outrun his odds in the Albert Bartlett. There are fascinating handicappers, too, the likes of Ndawwi and Wodhooh in the Boodles Juvenile Handicap Hurdle, The Goffer in the Ultima, Cleatus Poolaw in the Pertemps Final, and Pied Piper will be back to try to call the tune in the County Hurdle under claimer Danny Gilligan. having gone so close last year.

Elliott might not be Willie Mullins, but he remains as ravenous as ever and wants to gobble up every single scrap his arch nemesis leaves behind him in the Cotswolds.

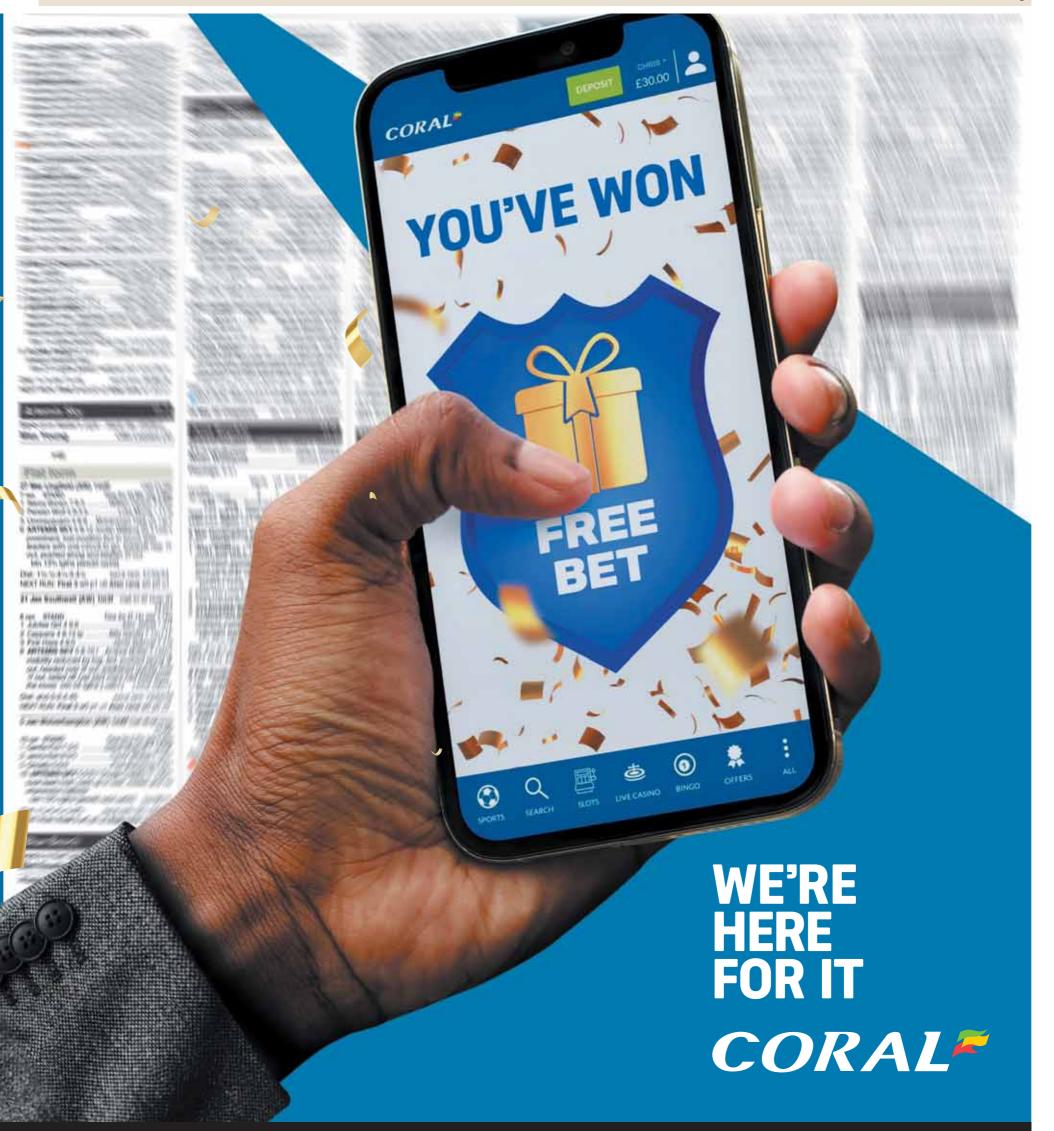

May battle commence.

Tuesday

Constitution Hill has been the main talking point in the run-up to this year's Cheltenham Festival and even before his recent dirty scope I thought State Man would give him plenty to think about in the Champion Hurdle.

However, I'm not sure I want to back either of them at their prices and better bets for the opening day might come in the novice chases.

Marine Nationale looks one to be wary of after his moderate effort at the Dublin Racing Festival while the rest are much of a muchness. Consequently, I think there is every chance of an upset in the Arkle and the strong-travelling My Mate Mozzie might be the one to provide it.

His form with Found A Fifty and Facile Vega from over Christmas puts him right in the mix and he also has Cheltenham form from earlier in the season as well.

Embassy Gardens and Corbetts Cross head the betting for the National Hunt Chase but Salvador Ziggy's form is of a similar level and he has previous here, having run so well under a big weight in the Pertemps last year.

As for the handicaps, the Ultima is always a great race and Chianti Classico and The Goffer have lots going for them. The one I like, though, is Theatre Man, who stormed up the hill quicker than any other horse over fences on Trials day and he will surely be suited by stepping back up in trip.

Wednesday

The Champion Chase is the race I'm most looking forward to at the whole meeting because I'm expecting a proper performance from El Fabiolo. In my opinion, he's the best chaser in training and the fact that Edwardstone is going to make it a strong pace will only help him. He's too short for most people to back but expect to see something special.

Hopefully Dan Skelton will hold his nerve and stick to the original plan of running Grey Dawning in the Brown Advisory and not switch him to the Turners. The way he hit the line at Warwick when upped to three miles was a big step up on what he'd achieved previously and I believe the longer trip helps his jumping.

Fact To File is clearly a big danger, but he's far from unbeatable and I think Grey Dawning is more than capable of getting the better of

The Coral Cup is, as always, going to be competitive, although the word on the street is that the Willie Mullins-trained Sa Majeste has more than a few pounds up his sleeve. Doddiethegreat will appreciate the step up in trip and is dangerous, while one who could go well at a big price is Da Capo Glory.

However, a better bet might be Harper's Brook in the Grand Annual. Ben Pauling

Snowden ace can lay down law in Ryanair

TOM SEGA Pricewise with his best bets for each day of the Cheltenham Festival

won the race in 2022 with a similar type and while Harper's Brook has been called plenty of names in the past and has some huge quirks, he jumps brilliantly and didn't come off the bridle when dropped back to the minimum $(1m7\frac{1}{2}f)$ for the first time over fences at Sandown last

The Grand Annual is a good race for horses who like to race up with the pace and he has the talent to be a long way clear jumping the last. He might give up the ghost then, but he has his confidence up now and he might just have been a two-miler all along.

Thursday

Gordon Elliott looks to have a stranglehold on the Stayers' Hurdle but ground conditions will dictate whether Teahupoo or Irish Point is the most fancied one of his. On a decent surface, Irish Point would have a massive chance, while if it's soft Teahupoo would come to the fore, although he couldn't get the job done last season.

Home By The Lee is worth a second glance at a big price but I always feel the Thursday provides the best chance for punters to back a big-priced winner and I do like the look of Springwell Bay in the Pertemps Final. He was unlucky not to win the Musselburgh qualifier and can race off only a 2lb higher mark.

Like Irish Point, Springwell Bay wouldn't want the ground to be too testing but he's unexposed at three miles and the race has a habit of going to the classier types at the top of the weights.

Banbridge is the standout horse in the Ryanair if the ground is decent but he's vulnerable on a soft surface, while last year's winner Envoi Allen is ten years old now. Consequently, there could be a turn-up and Jamie Snowden has suggested he may supplement Ga Law, who jumped and travelled better than he ever has before when winning on Trials day.

Ga Law wasn't beaten far in the race last season when he never got into it but that run came off the back of a heavy fall and he has his confidence

Good Time Jonny has been all the rage for the Kim Muir but I don't like backing horses who haven't jumped that well in limited opportunities and are usually held up out the back at short prices in handicaps

He is handicapped to win but there are lots of others in the race who make just as much appeal, most notably Perceval Legallois, who looked to be coming with a winning run when hitting the deck at the last at Leopardstown. The Kim Muir is his only entry at Cheltenham and it's likely that Derek O'Connor will take the mount.

Friday

Forget El Fabiolo and forget Galopin Des Champs, as far as I'm concerned the biggest certainty at this year's Cheltenham Festival is Sir Gino in the Triumph Hurdle. The thing is, I think he's running in a weakish race and he doesn't have fences that could get in the way of El Fabiolo.

Sir Gino was devastatingly impressive on Trials day and he ran up the hill faster than Lossiemouth carrying more weight. There is plenty more improvement in him and I expect him to win the Triumph

As for the Gold Cup, I think it's much more open than the market suggests and Galopin

The pause that refreshes - the best route to peak at Cheltenhan

FAIL to prepare and you should prepare to fail. This maxim applies more widely than in sport but is a reminder of how races are won and lost long before raceday.

At the Cheltenham Festival, preparation is a season-long obsession for every trainer who knows they have a horse capable of winning at the sport's greatest showcase. An individual approach tailored to the horse's needs must dominate, but is there a trend in how horses perform according to the date of their warm-up race? In general, do horses do better at the big meeting off long or short rests?

When trying to answer a specific question with data that may be limited in size, modern statistical inference encourages the use of 'priors'. We should try to answer a more general question for which more evidence exists: how do jumps horses perform according to their absence before all meetings?

Actually, a better question is how jumps horses perform in all races in March. Before Christmas, we might be comparing classier horses returning to action with lessertalented rivals who have been on the go since summer. We also know that going conditions can become a fair bit faster in March.

Table 1 shows the strike-rate (SR) and impact value (IV) of horses in races in March over hurdles and fences in Britain since the 2013-14 season. The results are placed in different buckets according to the number of weeks since a horse's most recent race. The data is limited to a maximum number of 20 completed weeks. Also, as a reminder, impact value is simply strikerate relative to the number of opponents faced.

Problem of the missing variable

The evidence - taken from British jump races over the last ten seasons - seems unequivocal: a lengthy absence is not a good sign. Notice in Table 1 how both SR and IV decline sharply for number of weeks off the track.

But comparing two variables like weeks of rest and IV in isolation can be misleading. Such a relationship - known as bivariate - can be confounded by the presence of factors not accounted for. Here, the column 'Mean SP' gives a big clue: the cohort of runners reappearing within a week includes horses well in under a penalty or running off an old handicap mark who were much more strongly fancied.

If we exclude this first-week cohort, we can see the pattern in the data more clearly in a graph. The graphic (above) displays this, with a comparison made with the same data for jumps races in all months, including March.

There is a ton of interesting evidence in this graphic. Think of an impact value of 1.00 as a break-even point - horses win at a rate equal to expectation.

suddenly find peak form. After 15 weeks off the track, impact value declines sharply.

because the ground changes and horses laid off on purpose

This may be partly down to fitness but also because this length of absence suggests some kind of problem.

Data informed by 'prior beliefs'

Before we look at the Cheltenham Festival data isolated from the rest of March, let us summarise our 'prior beliefs': 1) Bearing in mind their SP, jumps horses generally find it tough to make a quick reappearance (weeks 1-4) and the effect seems greater in March; 2) Performance tends to decline after an absence, particularly over 15 weeks.

Table 2 shows the same information in similar fashion as Table 1, but just for runners at the festival.

The shaded area in Table 2 ('OTHER' are hunter chasers and overseas runners for whom 'weeks rest' is not known) shows the four consecutive cohorts that collectively have the best record. This is the shaded zone of performance for the Cheltenham Festival - a rest of eight to 11 weeks is associated with the best performance. The word associated is carefully employed here as will be discussed underneath.

Notice the pattern of mean SP $\,$ (for the technically minded, this is the geometric mean of SP that should always be used because SP is a ratio) in Table 2 - many horses with leading chances seem to be deliberately rested. But is this reflected by their market prices? Table 3 attempts to answer this question.

Table 3 splits and collects the Cheltenham Festival data of Table 2 into two buckets, corresponding with shaded area and non-shaded area rest. Measured against unbiased SP (actual SPs with the favouritelongshot bias - the tendency of longer-priced horses to produce a successively poorer return on investment removed, so they are more like Betfair SPs), horses with between eight and 11 weeks' rest have performed better than their SPs predict.

This information is contained in the ROI (return on investment) column.

What study says about runners this year

The best way to use the findings in this study - or any study for that matter - is to think about what they imply, rather than to construct betting rules or formulate dogma.

Statistical inference is based on association. We cannot know that weeks of rest causes different levels of performance because to be sure of that requires an experiment where we hold everything else constant and manipulate this variable. Instead, racing data is observational and to isolate a cause independently of a mess of effects is extremely difficult.

Statistics are best interpreted in concert with the underlying science or logic. Many winners at the forthcoming Cheltenham Festival will win off shorter breaks than eight weeks or longer absences than 11 weeks. But the data provides justification for the caution of trainers like Nicky Henderson in exposing certain horses to the rigours of a hard winter campaign - if a Cheltenham win is more important than any other consideration.

It is likely that the effects seen in this data arise because, all other things being equal, there is merit in freshness and giving a horse 'the pause that refreshes.' Most horses need to run the race of their lives to win at the Cheltenham Festival, rather than just back up a big effort three weeks earlier. To do this, they need to have been brought to a peak, and a succession of hard races in the mud is no way to do this.

Still, the concept of freshness needs to be applied to each horse in a different way. What has his/her campaign, and career, suggested about the stress levels each individual has encountered? Are they foundational? That is, are they likely to build strength, power and endurance? Or could a hard race or two have taken that away?

If you know nothing else, bet on freshness. But, as ever, a flexible, intuitive mind will likely produce a lot better insight than one which is bound by a small number of rigid ideas.

Upping The Ante Top tipster David Jennings and bookie-turned-propunter Johnny Dineen answer your questions

Who is your banker of the week? And the one horse who could make or break your festival?

Johnny Dineen I always think that getting off to a good start is so important at any festival and, should Ballyburn turn up in the Supreme and get the job done, that would be an ideal start for me. Sir Gino is a horse I'm very keen on and it's highly likely I will be wearing a rather long face should he be turned over on Friday.

David Jennings Corbetts Cross in the National Hunt Chase. I've come to the conclusion he's different class to this lot and I could see him lobbing along for three and a half miles in second gear. His stamina is unproven over this far, but he was doing all his best work late against Grangeclare West over 3m1/2f at Leopardstown in a Grade 1 in December and I think he'll be fine. It hasn't been a smooth season for him by any means, but he still has a touch of class. This is his for Could State Man beat Constitution Hill this year? What chance of an upset in the Champion Hurdle?

Johnny Dineen Constitution Hill is without a doubt the best hurdler I've seen in about 40 years watching jump racing. Recent events mean it's hard to have total faith in him, but if he turns up he's still my selection even though State Man is a formidable opponent and a brilliant horse in his

David Jennings The Closutton camp seem unusually optimistic that State Man can get considerably closer to Constitution Hill, but I don't share that optimism. Nicky Henderson's star is the best hurdler I've clapped eyes on and I expect another glorious procession if he turns up fully fit.

Is Galopin Des Champs the bulletproof banker of the whole week?

Johnny Dineen Galopin Des Champs is one of the more vulnerable favourites of the entire week and, with plenty of potent opposition against him, I definitely don't see this as a walk in the park for last season's winner. It's unlikely he will get it all his own way like his previous two starts either and I fancy him to come unstuck this time.

David Jennings Come up for air,

Johnny. How could he be among the most vulnerable favourites of the entire week? He's a sensational staying chaser who has been just flawless on his last two starts, and I'll be surprised if he's beaten. I do fancy Fastorslow to give him a fright,

Who is the lay of the meeting?

Johnny Dineen Gold Cups are not easily won and I really do feel Galopin Des Champs has very little margin for error and, at around evens, he simply has to be opposed. There will be plenty of competition for a positive position in this year's race and he will have to Johnny Dineen I would go non-runner no bet on these four, just in case: Inthepocket (Arkle), Crebilly (Plate), Facile Vega (Turners), Corbetts Cross (National Hunt Chase).

David Jennings Corbetts Cross (National Hunt Chase), Dysart Enos (Mares' Novices' Hurdle), Amirite (Ultima), Ndawwi (Boodles).

Who is your strongest fancy out of all the handicaps?

Johnny Dineen I'm very keen on Crebilly in the TrustATrader Plate at 8-1. He looks to have arrived here with a very workable mark of 140 and, considering he had leading Turners fancy Ginny's Destiny stone cold when unluckily falling at the second-last back in November, he may still have quite a nice bit up his sleeve over the larger obstacles. He has got a terrific chance.

David Jennings Probably Amirite in the Ultima. Ireland have an atrocious record in it, with no win since Dun Doire in 2006, but this Henry de Bromhead-trained stayer looks the perfect type for it. He travelled strongly through a handicap chase on the Old course back in October and I presume De Bromhead has had this race at the back of his mind ever since. Amirite's a really good jumper who remains unexposed over fences and looks nicely treated too. I also like Ndawwi in the

And, finally, what has been your best tip during the current series of Upping The Ante?

Johnny Dineen I suppose Ballyburn, provided he goes for the Supreme. I chanced putting him up at 14-1 back in January when he looked more likely to go for the Baring Bingham, so that's a nice enough position to be in. Dinoblue is another who looks to have a decent chance. She was 11-2 when I tipped her for the Mrs Paddy Power Mares' Chase and she has continued to contract since early in the season. She should be very hard to beat, barring accidents.

David Jennings Ashroe Diamond at 9-1 for the Close Brothers Mares' Hurdle, and Dysart Enos at 8-1 for the Ryanair Mares' Novices' Hurdle would both appear to have rock-solid each-way claims and are half the price now. Of the bigger prices, My Trump Card at 50-1 might have a small squeak in the Albert Bartlett.

Dinoblue: great chance in the Mrs Paddy Power Mares' Chase

CHELTENHAM PUNTING TALES

Johnny Dineen on his most forgettable festival when the betting gods were against him in every possible way

HOW'S your luck? It's the most frequently asked question among punters and mine was brutal at the 2020 Cheltenham Festival. And, when I say brutal, I mean absolutely brutal. It still sends a shiver down the spine when I think back to those four dirty rotten days. So, if you're feeling like you're luck is out at the moment and need some cheering up, hear me out for the next couple of minutes.

It was my final time to stand as an on-course bookmaker at the meeting and it is fair to say I went out with a bang. A very sore bang that left me battered and bruised.

The festival began with the traditional curtain-raiser, the Supreme Novices' Hurdle, and I had backed Abacadabras to win a nice few quid and laid Shishkin to lose a nice few quid. It was a big swing, but there were 27 more races to come. Don't panic, Johnny.

The Arkle was next. One of the biggest bets ante-post was on Fakir D'Oudairies at 14-1. He went off 3-1, and was absolutely cruising turning for home. Mark Walsh appeared to have everything covered until the horse crashed through the second-last and lost valuable momentum. He couldn't peg back Put The Kettle On after that. Sickening.

Day two was all about the Brown Advisory, or RSA Novices' Chase as it was called at the time. I strongly fancied Minella Indo, and thought the only danger was Allaho. I had a sizeable chunk on the former and a nice saver on the latter. As the pair kicked clear off the final bend, I was rooting for Rachael [Blackmore] on Minella Indo, as it was worth more to me, but Allaho winning would have been a nice consolation prize. You know what happened next.

Champ got new tyres halfway up

Champ left me feeling decidedly the run-in and zo them both to sna iaws of defeat. It' the run-in and zoomed in between them both to snatch victory from the jaws of defeat. It's not too often I'm speechless, but I couldn't speak afterwards. I was like Wayne Mardle.

We rock on to day three and the Marsh (now Turners) Novices' Chase where I had a large chunk of Melon at tasty prices. I didn't fancy Samcro so laid him on course to anybody who wanted to back him with me. He was my worst loser in the race.

I had a crick in my neck as the horses were coming to the finishing line trying to ensure Patrick Mullins would get Melon up when it mattered most and I thought I had a chance as they flashed past the post. I knew he was definitely in front a stride after it and probably a stride before it too, but I wasn't sure who had bobbed right at the death.

Then came the judge's outcome. You cannot be serious, judge? What did I do to you? The fourth and final day was more misery. Goshen was my biggest play on the day. I had got involved ante-post at 5-1 and, as he scooted clear off the final bend, I was just chuffed my luck had finally turned. How premature that was. Good grief.

Billaway couldn't get by 66-1 outsider It Came To Pass in the Foxhunter to add insult to injury, and my final throw of the dice was a hefty each-way wager on Column Of Fire in the concluding Martin Pipe Handicap Hurdle.

That would have retrieved quite a few losses and he appeared to be coming there to win his race when crashing out at the last. It summed up my week.

Don't let anybody tell you luck doesn't play a part in punting. Here's hoping my luck is in at the 2024 festival.

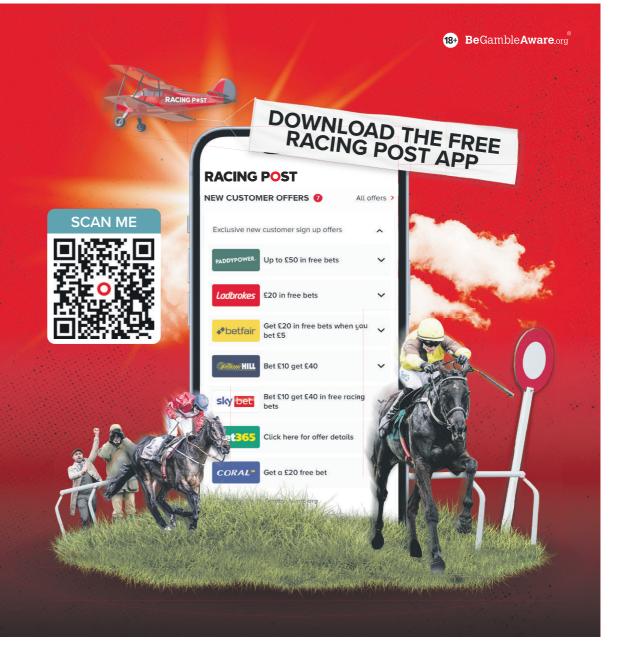

Best of luck, everyone. You're going to need it

RACING POST Stay Ahead Of The Field

Ross Brierley

IT WAS the best of times, it was the worst of times. Charles Dickens' most famous words or the opinion split between racing fans ahead of this year's Cheltenham Festival? While many have Great Expectations, others occupy a more Bleak House ahead of the big meeting.

IT WAS THE BEST OF TIMES

The Cheltenham Festival is the best thing about jump racing, even in a bad year. Heck, what am I talking about, there are no bad years, only those that were less incredible than the last.

The first place to start is always last year's festival and with 21 of last year's heroes set to return to either defend their crown or take on bigger, better rivals elsewhere, including the 2023 winners of the Champion Hurdle, the Stayers' and the Gold Cup, it's a vintage year for returning heroes.

Energumene is out, but the Champion Chase looks a cracker. El Fabiolo has won four Grade 1s over fences by a combined distance of 35 lengths and could be as good as Sprinter Sacre at his peak.

Sure, Champion Hurdle favourite Constitution Hill has seen the track about as much as an oligarch's supercar, but when he puts his foot down, he burns

rubber faster than a fire at a Michelin factory and if State Man runs to his best, even the dust he eats is worth its weight in gold.

You can moan about the Stavers' Hurdle all you like. but last year's race was one of the most exciting of the week and the first five home are all coming back. Irish Point is two from two in Grade 1s since, Crambo won the Long Walk from Stayers' regular Paisley Park, Noble Yeats could take this in en route to the Grand National, Sir Gerhard is a dual festival winner, and one-time Gold Cup hope Monkfish has been reborn in 3m hurdles, so this year will be even better.

The Gold Cup pits the defending champ against the only horse to have beaten him fair and square over fences (sorry Bob Olinger), and Shishkin, Hewick and L'Homme Presse are all genuine top-level challengers figure before he razed his rivals in 2021. Pic D'Orhy and Edwardstone have hardly let the form down, so the stage is set for a tussle with Stage Star.

Lossiemouth and Ashroe Diamond are top-quality contenders for the Mares' Hurdle, while Willie Mullins and Gavin Cromwell have two each in the Mares' Chase, and the novice races are hotting up nicely.

MEGAN NICHOLLS

Broadcaster

There is nothing like the Cheltenham Festival for producing fantastic stories. What headline do you want to see this year?

Donn McClean Hewick would obviously be a racing story for the ages if he could add a Cheltenham Gold Cup to a King George, a Galway Plate, a bet365 Gold Cup and a Grand National Hurdle! Fastorslow winning the Gold Cup for Martin Brassil and JJ Slevin and the Mulryans would be a great story, while it would be brilliant to see Marine Nationale bouncing back for Barry Connell and Michael O'Sullivan.

Gary Moore The Cheltenham Festival may be over four days and comprise 28 races, but there is only one story as long as he makes it - Constitution Hill. He's the one horse everyone wants to see; the one horse everyone wants to talk about. He's unbeaten, and he always wins impressively. It might not be a vintage era for two-mile hurdlers, but that's not Constitution Hill's fault. He's a uniquely special horse.

Megan Nicholls Paisley Park. Wouldn't it just be incredible if he could win the Stayers' Hurdle! I wouldn't be surprised if he was retired there and then, which would be the icing on the cake. He has been a fabulous horse and it would be so special for his connections and racing fans to see him winning the race again.

Jonjo O'Neill Jr It would be pretty mental if Hewick won the Gold Cup. It's everything; the fact he cost €800, what he has done and winning that would top off one of the great racing stories. He's not without a chance too, so perhaps it's not completely fairytale stuff.

Graeme Rodway From a financial point of view, my best

Crambo winning the Stayers' Hurdle, and that would throw up a story of its own. Fergal O'Brien is still searching for his first festival winner and has had four seconds, so there aren't many trainers more deserving. If Crambo doesn't get the job done then Dysart Enos might be the one to break the trainer's duck. She's an outstanding mare and will be nearly favourite for the Mares' Novices' Hurdle

Willie Mullins needs six winners for a festival century. He had six last year, will he reach the milestone in 2024?

Donn McClean It looks odds-on that he will, and it will be some achievement if and when he does. And you talk about stories - there is a small chance he will have exactly five winners on the board going into the Gold Cup, and Galopin Des Champs will be bidding to provide him with his 100th winner, in the 100th year of the Gold Cup.

Gary Moore He'll do it easily. He has so many good horses, and so many good chances. Why is Willie Mullins so good?

Hewick would obviously be a racing story for the ages if he could add a Cheltenham Gold Cup to a King George, a Galway Plate, a bet365 Gold Cup and a Grand National Hurdle'

> Graeme Rodway Constitution Hill - provided he gets there in peak shape - and Galopin Des Champs appear to have outstanding chances of winning their respective races for the second year in a row.

He has got a fantastic team of staff and is clearly some sort of a genius. He has some very good horses, but he certainly knows how to train them and place them in the right races. Megan Nicholls Yes. Willie has another strong team of horses to bring over and I wouldn't be remotely surprised to see him have six or more winners.

Jonjo O'Neill Jr I'd say he'll get it, definitely. The horses he has are just unbelievable. Graeme Rodway He should do, but I thought he would have more than six last year and it's never easy to win races at the festival. It's therefore no certainty, but Ballyburn, El Fabiolo, Lossiemouth and Galopin Des Champs are among his bankers, and he won several races at the Dublin Racing Festival with supposed second and third strings, so his strength in depth should get it done.

How many repeat winners will there be at this year's festival?

Donn McClean There are a lot of horses looking to go back to back such as Marine Nationale, El Fabiolo, Constitution Hill, Delta Work, Stage Star, Envoi Allen, Sire Du Berlais, Lossiemouth, Stay Away Fay and Galopin Des Champs. I think we'll see four repeat winners out of those.

Gary Moore Providing he gets there, Constitution Hill will win the Champion Hurdle once again, and I can't see Galopin Des Champs getting beat in the Gold Cup either. I thought he was really impressive at Leopardstown over Christmas and he backed it up when beating Fastorslow in the Irish Gold Cup.

Megan Nicholls I think there will be four repeat winners. Jonjo O'Neill Jr I like Marine Nationale, Constitution Hill, Lossiemouth, El Fabiolo, Galopin Des Champs, Stage Star and Delta Work. So I'll say

Delta Work is a bigger price than both but might be the

Donn McClean Answer To Kayf if he runs in the Martin

Gary Moore JPR One catches my eye at 10-1 for the Arkle. I'm not convinced the Irish horses at the top of the market should be as short as they are. JPR One looked a decent horse when winning a Grade 2 novice chase at Lingfield in January. I thought he won with more in hand than the official margin and a strong-run race in the Arkle will suit him.

Megan Nicholls Quebecois in the Champion Bumper. He bolted up at Exeter on his debut and this has been the plan since. Dad [Paul Nicholls] doesn't run many in this race, but when he does they usually go well. He definitely warrants respect and 33-1 may be decent each-way value.

Jonjo O'Neill Jr Paisley Park is a bit of value at 16-1 for the Stayers' Hurdle. He has been second three times this season when not beaten very far and, if anything, it's the most consistent he has been for a few years. Teahupoo and Irish Point are more likely to win as they're younger, classier horses, but Paisley Park is way too big a price.

Graeme Rodway I'll give you two, both in the Gold Cup. The Real Whacker caught my eye doing some good late work in the Cotswold Chase on Trials day and appears to be peaking at the right time. Similar comments apply to Protektorat, who hasn't been at his best this season but kept on well in his prep run at Newbury, and has finished third and fifth in this race previously.

Which novices (hurdlers or chasers) are you most looking forward to seeing?

Donn McClean Tullyhill in the Supreme and Monty's Star in the Brown Advisory Chase.

Gary Moore The one who immediately sticks out is Ballyburn in the Supreme. He looked as though he had just joined in when coming clear on the run-in at Leopardstown. You need a horse with a high cruising speed who jumps fluently to win the Supreme, and Ballyburn ticks those boxes. Willie Mullins has any number of top-class horses and Ballyburn looks as though, potentially, he could be one of the best.

Megan Nicholls Ballyburn and Ginny's Destiny (Turners). I'm also looking forward to the clash between Fact To File and Stay Away Fay in the Brown Advisory. They're two horses I

Jonjo O'Neill Jr Iroko is really interesting in the Turners, and I'm looking forward to seeing Fact To File as I love watching him race. I really like Ballyburn - he's such an exciting horse. He looks a relentless galloper. Graeme Rodway This year's novice hurdlers look an exceptional bunch, but it's a guessing game as to where each one might run. Ballyburn, Captain Teague, Gidleigh Park and Jeriko Du Reponet are all on my radar, and at least we know Jeriko Du Reponet will go for the Supreme, his only entry.

If you could make one improvement to the Cheltenham Festival, what would it be?

Donn McClean I think it's time to start looking to prune races. Gary Moore That's easy. Go back to three days

Megan Nicholls Make the whole experience more affordable. It's an incredible four days and no-one wants to miss out, but it's too expensive and this is something that could be improved.

Jonjo O'Neill Jr A few more winners for Britain, but it's not that simple! I'd say the prize-money needs to be looked at, Cheltenham is the pinnacle of jump racing in Britain, Ireland and France, and every race should be worth at least £150,000. The bumper at the Dublin Racing Festival was worth more than the Champion Bumper at Cheltenham. That shouldn't be the case.

Graeme Rodway The Mares' Hurdle needs reform. Racing can't afford its superstars to swerve each other on the biggest stage and it's going to happen for the second time in a row this year. Last season we were robbed of Honeysuckle v Constitution Hill, and this time we won't see Lossiemouth v Constitution Hill. There needs to be a penalty for mares who have beaten the boys in open Grade 1 company and then come back against their own sex - 7lb will do it.

Give us your best festival multiple

Donn McClean Tullyhill, Majborough, Monty's Star.

Gary Moore Constitution Hill, Galopin Des Champs, JPR One and Ballyburn. Four horses for a Cheltenham Festival vankee.

Megan Nicholls Six-fold: Ballyburn (any race), Constitution Hill (Champion Hurdle), El Fabiolo (Champion Chase), Ginny's Destiny (Turners), Sir Gino (Triumph) and Galopin Des Champs (Gold Cup).

Jonjo O'Neill Jr I'll play safe. Constitution Hill (Champion Hurdle), Galopin Des Champs (Gold Cup), Lossiemouth (Mares' Hurdle) and El Fabiolo (Champion Chase).

Graeme Rodway Crambo is my banker for the meeting in the Stayers' Hurdle and I'll throw in Jeriko Du Reponet in the Supreme. Sir Gino looked top-class when winning the Triumph Trial and should prove a class apart in the race itself. The final spot goes to Captain Teague, who will probably line up in the Albert Bartlett, but it's worth taking the non-runner no-bet concession just in case. I'll probably place a Yankee, but a Lucky 15 includes the singles. INTERVIEWS BY RICHARD BIRCH, CONOR FENNELLY AND JAMES STEVENS

The handicaps

Bowtogreatness and Weveallbeencaught both look overpriced

THE CHASES

NEW trends can never be said to have ossified until they have been tested at the Cheltenham Festival. There is an unexpected change in the landscape brewing in the handicap chase scene, although we will not know until after the Kim Muir whether it is signal or noise.

In this space 12 months ago, it was suggested that the handicap chases were the last British stronghold at Cheltenham. In 2022, all four of the regulation handicap chases went to British-trained horses. Last year Ireland took three, but there was no rush to suggest the dam had been breached. Corach Rambler went on to keep the Grand National at home, after all.

This season, what was observed at last year's festival has quietly been built on. Before it had been the handicap hurdles in which Irish runners were most feared. This season, in Class 1 and Class 2 British handicaps, Irish-trained chasers have registered seven wins. Irish-trained hurdlers, from a pretty much identical number of runners, have had six wins.

Once their prices are factored in, something jumps out of the analysis. From SPs, you would have expected 7.2 winners from the Irish-trained hurdlers. Punters have caught up, most of the value has gone.

Over fences, you would have expected to see only 6.8 winners. There might have been some clear examples of the British handicapper dishing out as high a mark as they can get away with on Irish chasers of late. Yet from the results, you could claim the approach is wholly justified.

The Irish horses whose ratings have been raised the most both run over fences. Read To Return is up 11lb, but even then seems uncertain to get a run off 123 in the Kim Muir. In the same race, ante-post second-favourite Good Time Jonny has been put up 10lb. While such a rise is hard to justify on his chase form, those runs have been quiet and the mark he has been given is rational on his hurdles form. He will run off the same mark from which he won last year's Pertemps Final.

Whether Ireland now holds sway in the handicap chases comes down to one overriding question. Is what we have observed this season down to more than increased interest from Gavin Cromwell? His stable has been responsible for three of the seven handicap chase winners mentioned, and all three since the middle of Cheltenham's November meeting.

Cromwell has eight handicap chasers entered at Cheltenham. He could have three favourites, possibly even four. But that would be partly down to his reputation preceding him. The value would lie elsewhere.

Unexposed British-trained novices have a tendency to be overpriced and there are a couple in the staying races of interest. The main difficulty could be in pinning down who will run where.

That problem presents itself in the two staying handicaps, the Ultima and the Kim Muir. Two horses take my eye, but both are doubly entered. Fortunately, non-runner no bet concessions are widespread at this point so you can speculate freely.

First up is Bowtogreatness, who has been my Ultima horse since he showed so much promise at a big price on Trials day. All of a sudden I was thinking back four years to Kildisart. Ben Pauling campaigned that horse similarly after he won the Aintree handicap in which Bowtogreatness was an unlucky second last April. He did not go nearly as close in the Coral Trophy as Bowtogreatness did recently in preparing for Cheltenham.

The Nigel Twiston-Daviestrained Weveallbeencaught has always been campaigned like a good horse. He was even sent to the Dublin Racing Festival for a Grade 1 novice hurdle last year, going off 7-2.

As a chaser, he shaped well a couple of times in novices at this track until running as through something were amiss last December. He has been absent since, but you can bet the festival has been the aim more or less since the day he last ran. His mark of 134 underestimates him and he has shades of Beauport, who was a minor gamble in last year's Kim Muir for the same yard.

The Grand Annual looks the least competitive of the handicap chases. A couple near the top are going the right way and the Cromwell-trained

My Mate Mozzie looks to have been laid out for the race. There is little depth, though, and nothing that should unduly frighten a progressive sort like Libberty Hunter.

He has won in good style the last twice, including at Cheltenham on New Year's Day when he beat the Arkle-bound Matata. A rise of 7lb reflects what he did that day, but you would think Libberty Hunter has more improvement in him.

The final bet comes in the Plate and, like with Bowtogreatness, it is informed by the novice handicap chase on Trials day that almost always turns out to be excellent form. Not for the first time, Ginny's Destiny broke the clock and he did so with fluent jumping on the front. Theatre Man gave him first run and then some, but still stuck on well to take second late on. The experience will not be lost on Theatre Man and he holds as strong a claim as any in the Plate, even among the laser-targeted Irish-trained and/or McManus-owned sorts who crowd the top end of the market.

KEITH MELROSE

THE HURDLES

THE Boodles Juvenile is the first handicap hurdle puzzle of the meeting and is arguably the most difficult to solve.

With little form to go off and the race having a history of producing big-priced winners - the average starting price of the winner in the last ten years is 25-1 – it makes things very tricky from an ante-post perspective.

With just one winning favourite in the past decade - Band Of Outlaws, 2019 - you're much better off taking advantage of the better place terms available on the day of the race so I am going to swerve it here.

The one who does catch the eye is Milan Tino as he was dropped 10lb by the handicapper when the weights were unveiled. His form with Sir Gino and Burdett Road is rock solid.

The Coral Cup is the big handicap hurdle conundrum on the Wednesday and it could pay to keep it simple with last year's winner Langer Dan.

His trainer Dan Skelton is a genius at targeting these handicaps and he will be delighted the handicapper has dropped the eight-year-old down to the same mark of 141 that he won the race off last year.

Langer Dan's form has been pretty dismal this season, beaten a total of 107 lengths in the three starts he has completed, while he was pulled up on the other.

However, his form was not much better last season before he won and Skelton has claimed in recent weeks that Langer Dan is starting to show the spark he usually shows in the spring.

A return to the level of form he showed last season will make him very difficult to beat.

Class can come to the fore in the Pertemps Final on Thursday as I fancy the top two in the weights, Farouk D'Alene and Springwell Bay.

You couldn't exactly describe Farouk D'Alene as well treated as the British handicapper upped him 4lb from his Irish mark to 154 – 9lb higher than his second in a qualifier at Leopardstown.

However, he looked set to challenge L'Homme Presse in the Brown Advisory in 2022 before falling two out and he could simply prove far too good for his handicap mark if returning to that Grade 1 level of form.

Carl Millar, who claims 7lb, rode him last time and I could see Gordon Elliott claiming again here to make life easier for the nine-year-old.

The other I can't resist a play on is Springwell Bay, who impressed me when winning a 2m5f handicap hurdle at Cheltenham's November meeting.

A fourth-place finish over the Pertemps course and distance followed in January before he was beaten a neck when qualifying for this at Musselburgh in February.

He is up 2lb to 145 for that but he could still prove ahead of the handicapper.

Those of you who have taken a few days to get to this piece may well have missed the boat on Under Control, as a lot depends on how she runs in the Morebattle Hurdle at Kelso.

Should she win that – and I fancy her to – she will be on for a £100k bonus should she follow up in the County Hurdle.

I can't see anything other than her going off single figures should she be on for the bonus, while if she is beaten at Kelso, I don't think she'll run, given owner JP McManus has other darts to throw, so that makes the 12-1 available now a no-brainer.

She beat a then 120-rated Iberico Lord at Sandown last season off a mark of 128 and that rates a serious piece of form. She now gets 5lb from her stablemate, who is the ante-post favourite for this having won the Greatwood and Betfair Hurdles this season, and is one of the best handicapped horses in Britain.

I thought she'd be competing in Grade 1s this term, but a wind issue came to light when she stopped rather quickly on her seasonal return at Newbury. She travelled like the winner until the final few furlongs, and was much better last time after a wind op when splitting Ashroe Diamond and Gala Marceau at Doncaster.

That is top-class form and she has plenty of scope for improvement off a mark of

The final race of the meeting is the Martin Pipe Conditional Jockeys' Handicap Hurdle and

The seven-year-old mare ran a stormer in the 2022 mares' novices hurdle to finish fourth to Love Envoi, beaten just four and a half lengths.

That's some serious form considering Love Envoi has been rated as high as 153 and she had the likes of Impervious and Dinoblue behind her.

She was then off the track for 613 days before finishing a well-beaten seventh over fences at Exeter.

Chasing clearly wasn't her game and Skelton quickly reverted her back to hurdling and she has looked really good on her last two starts, winning both in cosy fashion.

She got a sighter for this course and distance in the first of those and she looks to still have tons in hand of the handicapper off a mark of 135.

Skelton has plenty of talented conditionals to choose from too, so you can be sure she'll have one of the more competent riders doing the steering, which can go a long way in a race like this.

Excelsis set to excel in the Grand Annual

West Country

James Steven

Harry Fry looks to have assembled a brilliant team for the Cheltenham Festival and the value from a betting perspective could be the talented In Excelsis Deo in the Johnny Henderson Grand Annual on the Wednesday.

JP McManus's six-year-old has long threatened to win a good race this season, finishing third, then second at Cheltenham and looking dangerous at Sandown in early February before unseating at the last. He looks the type who could thrive for this usually fast-run two-miler.

The Fry-trained Gidleigh Park is among the most exciting young talents in the south-west and he can prove his class in the Baring Bingham Novices' Hurdle (1.30) on the Wednesday.

The classy six-year-old also has the option of the Albert Bartlett two days later but he has displayed a fair level of speed when scoring three times over hurdles and the 2m5f test could be the preferred option. He looked to handle Cheltenham well when successful in a 2m4½f Grade 2 in January, and the manner in which he battled to hold off the useful Lucky Place suggests he has the right attitude to match the talent. He would not be without a chance in the Albert Bartlett, but the Baring Bingham could be the ideal race for him at this stage of his career.

The Arkle (2.10) picture has looked unclear since the Dublin Racing Festival, and the Joe Tizzard-trained JPR One could be a solid selection on the first day of the meeting.

He was unlucky not to post a highly impressive win at the track earlier in the season (unseated last), but his victory in the rescheduled Lightning Novices' Chase at Lingfield is among the best form on offer. He won in a good time with plenty in hand despite the half-length margin of victory, and that performance should make him a live each-way player in an open race.

Champion trainer Paul Nicholls looks set to head into the meeting with a number of chances, and Quebecois could be an interesting outsider in Wednesday's Weatherbys Champion Bumper (5.30).

Stablemate Teeshan is all the rage in the betting but Ouebecois looked extremely good when bolting up at Exete

Shishkin can serve it up to favourite in Gold Cup

Lambourn

James Burn

Galopin Des Champs might be seen as a festival banker, but Shishkin has the talent to deny him in the Boodles Cheltenham Gold Cup.

There has long been a touch of the X-factor about Shishkin, who won the Supreme Novices' Hurdle in 2020 and landed the Arkle the following year.

He looked destined for the top at that stage and prevailed in that epic Clarence House Chase from Energumene, who turned the tables in the Champion Chase when the son of Sholokhov looked like he did not want to know.

A class apart in last term's Ascot Chase, he was beaten into second in the Ryanair but went one better at Aintree. He blotted his copybook when refusing to race at Ascot last November, but then ran a stormer in the King George when he might have won only to unseat Nico de Boinville just after the penultimate fence.

On top in Newbury's Denman Chase most recently, Shishkin has never raced over the Gold Cup trip, but all he does – when in the mood – is find and he is one of the few horses in training who can match Galopin Des Champs in terms of raw ability.

Going left-handed will help him as well.

Iberico Lord, his stablemate at Nicky Henderson's famed Seven Barrows nerve centre, is also expected to play a part on the Friday of the festival in the County Hurdle.

A useful novice last season, he has developed into a fine hurdler and there could still be wiggle room off his mark of

He has got to that rating by winning the Greatwood and Betfair Hurdles and any rain at Cheltenham will boost his chances in the County, which looks an ideal slot for him

Doddiethegreat was behind Iberico Lord in the Betfair Hurdle but was short of room at a crucial stage, so might have improved on his fourth had things worked out kinder

Nonetheless, it was a smashing effort and one befitting his profile as a likeable and talented eight-year-old.

He won his first three but had two years off the track with a nasty tendon injury that threatened his career. Coaxed back to full health by Henderson and his team, he was successful at Ascot in November and lost nothing when second in a warm Cheltenham handicap a month later.

Like Iberico Lord, he could be well treated and stepping up in trip – he holds entries in the Coral Cup and Martin Pipe – should unlock more improvement.

White Rhino can lead charge in Pertemps Final

The North

Androw Diotz

Festival

Joint-trainers Oliver Greenall and Josh Guerriero gained their first Cheltenham Festival success last year, and they can land another with White Rhino in the Pertemps Final.

The eight-year-old showed his liking for the course by finishing first and second in two races at Cheltenham in the winter before ensuring his qualification for the Pertemps with a third-placed finish at Huntingdon.

He will be racing off a workable mark, and his Cheshire stable has proved it is more than capable of executing a plan, most notably with Iroko in last year's Martin Pipe.

Iroko, who was the headline tip in this space last year, heads the Greenall and Guerriero festival challenge and has excellent claims of winning again.

The JP McManus-owned six-year-old (below) has missed a large part of the season through injury, but has returned to fitness in time for a crack at the Turners Novices' Chase.

He came through a post-racing schooling gallop with flying colours at Haydock on February 17 and looked a natural over fences when

Russell could still hold the key to the Ultima – a race the north has won for the last three years – if running smart novice Giovinco here rather than in one of his Grade 1

Regarded by connections as a Grade 1 performer, he would look well capable of exploiting his rating judged on the way he travelled powerfully before being worried out of it by Stay Away Fay at Sandown in December.

It would be some story if Borders trainer Paul Robson, who also works as a funeral director, was to win on the biggest stage of all and he has realistic claims with County Hurdle hope Cannock Park.

Winner of a maiden hurdle at the course in November, Cannock Park ran a mighty race when finishing third in the Grade 1 Formby Novices' Hurdle at Aintree's inaugural Boxing Day fixture and has always been highly regarded by his trainer.

He has not been the easiest to train and his temperament will be tested in the preliminaries, but provided he keeps it all together, he has the ability to run a huge race.

At the time of writing we are still no wiser as to the final destination of Ballyburn, and should he turn up here then he'll be very difficult to oppose. Were he to miss the race I'd be keen on Firefox. who has a victory over Ballyburn this season and is surely much better than he looked at Naas. The British novices look weak and it's highly likely this is going to be a clean sweep for the visitors.

SAM HARDY

1 Firefox 2 Jeriko Du Reponet 3 Ballvburn

While everyone tries to work out where the Mullins novices will run, it may be best to concentrate on the Gordon Elliott-trained Firefox, who has already beaten ante-post favourite Ballyburn at Fairyhouse this season. He was a disappointing fourth at Naas over two and a half miles last time, but I fully expect him to return to winning ways dropped in trip. Jeriko Du Reponet has impressed in each of his three hurdles wins and could prove the main danger.

PAUL KEALY

1 Firefox 2 Tullyhill 3 Slade Steel

Like many, I suspect, I think Ballyburn will probably win whatever race he runs in, but I reckon he'll go for the Baring Bingham. Firefox beat him on his hurdles debut anyway, and while neither horse will have been close to fully fit, Gordon Elliott still rates him after his non-staying run at Naas. His jumping is excellent, and hopefully he'll have the speed to see off the Mullins runners and Slade Steel, who may come here if Ballyburn doesn't.

TOM PARK

l Jeriko Du Reponet 2 Tullyhill 3 Firefox

I'd fancy Ballyburn in whichever race he runs in, but I am predicting - it may be my pocket talking - that he'll go for the Baring Bingham, which paves the way for Jeriko Du Reponet to land the opener. He was workmanlike in winning last time, but the form was given a huge boost when Lump Sum and Fiercely Proud finished first and second in the Dovecote. He will need to improve substantially to beat the Irish runners, but I suspect he's better than we've seen.

1 Ile Atlantique 2 Firefox 3 Jeriko Du Reponet

All of Ballyburn's eggs are in the Baring Bingham basket. Ile Atlantique could go anywhere, but the Supreme would be my favourite landing spot for the Tony Bloom-owned novice. He was outstayed in the Lawlor's of Naas last time, more or less killing the hype train. I like his form, there is substance to it and I'm inclined to forgive his three, heavy, in-running odds-on defeats, for now. Firefox needs to bounce back, and I think he will.

Home or away?

Recent record Marine Nationale last season was the seventh Irish winner since 2013, five of them trained by Willie Mullins, Nicky Henderson has won three of the last eight editions - his stable was not represented last vear or in 2021 - so anything he deems worthy of running needs a second

LAST TEN YEARS

THE BETTING SUGGESTS

This year's challenge

Mullins has an excellent chance of securing an eighth win in this with either Ballyburn, Tullyhill or Annie Power's unbeaten Grade 2-winning son Mystical Power.

Ballyburn won the same Leopardstown Grade 1 that the Mullins-trained Champagne Fever, Vautor, Klassical Dream and Appreciate It landed before following up in the Supreme. Tullyhill beat No Flies On Him by nine lengths in a Punchestown Listed event and, unlike his stablemates, who also have the option of the Baring Bingham, is entered solely in the Supreme.

Ballyburn was beaten by Firefox on his hurdling debut and the winner of that Fairyhouse maiden adds extra strength to the Irish challenge. His trainer, Gordon Elliott, won this race in 2017 with Labaik and may also saddle Royal Bond runner-up King Of Kingsfield.

Nicky Henderson holds the main hope for Britain with Jeriko Du Reponet. who has won all three of his starts under rules, including the Rossington Main. CHARLIE HUGGINS

TRENDS James Hill

It's all about last-time-out winners in the festival opener

There have only been three horses this century who hadn't won their last start before going on to land this, with just one since 2011. That was serial refuser Labaik, and his previous outing could hardly be counted given he'd barely consented to start.

An interesting stat to come out of last year's result was that it was the second year running the winner had had just two previous starts over hurdles. Lightly raced hurdlers used to be a very eyecatching trend in the Supreme with runners coming virtually fresh off the Flat in the 1990s. Could it be back in vogue?

Generally, though, the Supreme is a very different race these days. With fewer former Flat horses victorious the race has been dominated

Verdict

Willie Mullins has won this on five occasions since 2013, so no surprise that both Ballyburn and Mystical Power dominate the trends in this. The latter is owned by IP McManus, whose horses always tend to run well here but I think this is where ${\bf Ballyburn}$ will probably go. He has got all the qualities needed by National Hunt-breds with three of the last four winners

being former pointers.

SUPREME NOVICES' FORM STARTS PAGE 24

Ballyburn can boss the opener

THERE is no other moment in racing quite like it. The thrilling sense of expectation in the final minute as the runners jostle for position ahead of the tapes rising for the Sky Bet Supreme Novices' Hurdle, first of 28 races spread across four wonderful days

The roar from the packed stands reaches a crescendo as a likely double-figure field charges towards the first flight, and jump racing's greatest meeting is finally under way.

Many illustrious names have won the curtain-raiser. The ill-fated Golden Cygnet, successful in 1978 without coming out of cruise control, looked set for super-stardom until tragedy intervened the following month when he fell at the final flight in Ayr's Scottish Champion Hurdle. He appeared to have the measure of hurdling greats Sea Pigeon and Night Nurse at the time.

Constitution Hill, now revered as the greatest hurdler of all time, announced his arrival as a horse of freakish brilliance in the 2022 Supreme, and will bid for a second Champion Hurdle on the opening day provided he recovers in time.

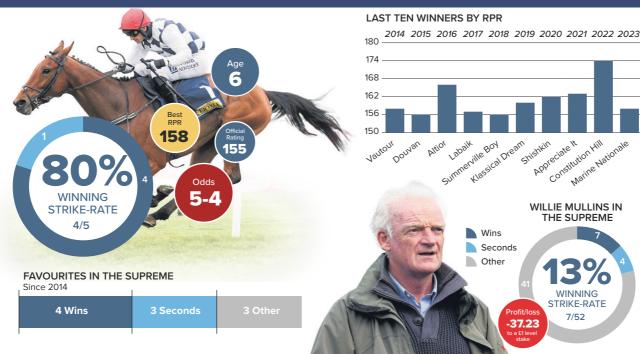

Willie Mullins, successful in this race seven times, inevitably holds a hand of extraordinary power, and there's a strong chance he will add to his tally ahead of dominating this Cheltenham Festival like no trainer has ever done before.

The Dublin Racing Festival appeared to provide a plethora of significant clues towards the outcome of several Cheltenham races this year, and perhaps none more so than Ballyburn's performance in landing a Grade 1 novice hurdle by seven lengths from Slade Steel. Quite simply, the way in which he breezed into the lead after the penultimate flight and quickened clear on the run-in smacked of a Supreme winner, Blessed with a high cruising speed, slick iumping technique and a sharp turn of foot, Ballyburn appears to possess all the attributes associated with the majority of the winners of the Cheltenham opener. As usual, his trainer has an abundance of riches in the novice hurdle department, and his comments after Leopardstown suggest that he rates this son of Flemensfirth

Firefox

6 b g Trainer Gordon Elliott RPR 137 TS 112 OR – 4211-114

Firefox's form at around two miles is exemplary. He beat the Mullins-trained Ile Atlantique, likely to take some beating in the Baring Bingham Novices' Hurdle, in a Fairyhouse bumper last April, and then took the prize scalp of Ballyburn in a maiden hurdle at the same track in December. Subsequent performances suggest the runner-up probably needed the run that day and has definitely improved significantly since. However, it was a terrific display from Firefox, who beat him convincingly. His bubble burst in a Naas Grade 1 in January, but that was over 2m4f. He could still pose the biggest threat to Ballyburn back down

Jeriko Du Reponet

5 b g Trainer Nicky Henderson RPR 132 TS 83 OR 132

An unbeaten horse always fires the imagination. Jeriko Du Reponet, the number one British hope, has always been held in high regard by Nicky Henderson, who has landed the Supreme five times. While his form doesn't stack up - for instance, Secret Squirrel, who he beat at Newbury, has since suffered a Taunton defeat - there is no doubt he possesses enormous untapped potential. The way he flew the final three hurdles off a quickening tempo at Doncaster last time suggests an end-to-end gallop will suit him, and he has been primed for this race since his arrival at Seven Barrows last summer. It's highly likely he will produce a career-best in this race, but whether that will be sufficient to topple the Irish heavyweights remains open to conjecture. His owner, JP McManus, could also be represented by Mystical Power and No Flies On Him.

Mystical Power 5 b q Trainer Willie Mullins

RPR 144 TS 110 OR -

It's possible to argue that Mystical Power, who soared to the top of the market with a stunning Punchestown Grade 2 success in January, has become something of a 'forgotten' horse following the exploits of his stablemate Ballyburn at the DRF. This can happen when so much ammunition can be fired from within a single stable. Mystical Power, unbeaten in three starts, will need to sharpen his jumping based on what we witnessed at Punchestown, but there is little doubt he possesses an enormous amount of ability and class. A son of Galileo out of Annie Power, he's certainly bred to be something special.

No Flies On Him

5 br g Trainer Edward O'Grady RPR 127 TS 111 OR -

Another who will carry the famous green and gold silks of McManus, No Flies On Him landed a Leopardstown novice hurdle on Boxing Day on his first start under rules. The son of Westerner justified market confidence (SP 3-1) with a performance that oozed professionalism and class in beating D B Cooper by a length and three-quarters. He was no match for Tullyhill last time out at Punchestown on heavy ground but still goes to Cheltenham as a horse of high potential. Interestingly, Edward O'Grady, who trained Golden Cygnet all those years ago, was lavish in his praise of No Flies On Him after Leopardstown, and he has never been one to overrate his horses unnecessarily.

Others to consider

Slade Steel, although firmly put in his place by Ballyburn at Leopardstown, still maintains a level of form that might tempt trainer Henry de Bromhead to pitch him into Supreme battle rather than wait for Wednesday's Baring Bingham, for which he trades at much shorter odds.

Billericay Dickie, another of the Mullins battalions, also has the Baring Bingham entry. He created quite a stir when landing a heavy-ground Punchestown maiden hurdle by 11 lengths on his jumps debut in January. It's probable he will encounter much less demanding underfoot conditions at Cheltenham, which will suit him better.

Mullins' embarrassment of riches also includes Mistergif, 18-length winner of a Limerick maiden hurdle in January. He also has the Baring Bingham

Of the British-trained contingent, Fergal O'Brien's highly talented six-year-old mare Dysart Enos is being earmarked for the Ryanair Mares' Novices' Hurdle, but the Ben Pauling-trained Tellherthename looks a likely contender.

The apple of Pauling's eye, Tellherthename has twice won at Huntingdon in impressive fashion, and was ruled out of a tilt at the Betfair Hurdle only owing to unsuitably heavy ground. He looks the type who will relish a strongly run championship race on better terrain, but it's still hard to see him measuring up to the might of the Irish heavyweights

Verdict

The likeable BALLYBURN'S latest performance had 'Supreme winner' written all over it, and he should prove hard to beat. It is a Grade 1 of some depth, though, and few would be surprised if the likes of Jeriko Du Reponet and No Flies On Him produced career-bests by some way on the big day.

Tuesday 2.10 My Pension Expert Arkle Novices' Chase

JOHNNY DINEEN

The waters are somewhat muddied for this season's Arkle and it looks a much more open race than in previous years. Marine Nationale, who has been favourite for some time. suddenly lost his air of invincibility following his below-par effort at the Dublin Racing Festival, and has serious questions to answer now. Inthepocket, who has to be supplemented and will not have had an ideal prep, is reported to be in rude health and is worth a stab to defy most statistics.

SAM HARDY

1 My Mate Mozzie 2 II Etait Temps 3 Found A Fifty

Irish horses dominate the ante-post market and I've had my eye on the Gavin Cromwell-trained My Mate Mozzie for some time. I was impressed with his course-and-distance win in October and even more so with his close second behind Found A Fifty at Leopardstown over Christmas. The form of that race was boosted when the winner was narrowly denied in a photo-finish in the Irish Arkle behind Il Etait Temps.

PAUL KEALY

1 Hunters Yarn 2 Found A Fifty 3 JPR One

I've no idea what is going to run here, either, but Hunters Yarn thrashed a horse who ran really well in a big handicap at the Dublin Racing Festival, and he has at least as much potential as those above him in the betting if he is allowed to take his chance. Found A Fifty jumps to his right, which is a bit of a worry, but he can hold off Il Etait Temps, while JPR One's form is not far off the best in Ireland.

TOM PARK

Marine Nationale 2 Found A Fifty 3 Inthepocket

I am happy to forgive run at Leopardstown. The more I have analysed the race, the more I am warming to the trainer's view of him hating the soft ground. His wheels just span in the mud when the pace picked up and his jockey gave him an easy time once he missed the last. Granted better ground and a stronger pace, I think we will see the real Marine Nationale.

MADDY PLAYLE

1 Found A Fifty 2 Hunters Yarn 3 JPR One

Found A Fifty may have come off second best against Il Etait Temps in the Irish Arkle, but there are reasons to think he can reverse the form at this track, which is sharp and often gives front-runners an advantage. At the prices. he's a solid selection. Hunters Yarn could prove the best of the Willie Mullins bunch, while the strong-travelling, accurate-jumping JPR One can pick up any pieces.

MATT WILLIAMS

1 JPR One 2 Marine Nationale 3 Hunters Yarn

JPR One had a Grade 2 in the bag until unseating at the last. Up until his point of departure, I was blown away by the scope of his jump, when he appeared to find lengths on his rivals at every obstacle. Marine Nationale's DRF run is a tough one to forgive. I'm hoping he bounces back, but I've long thought that when his form goes it's going to fall off a cliff. If he doesn't step up here I'll need some convincing to believe he will ever again repeat his Supreme form.

Mullins' Il Etait Temps fits profile

TRENDS James Hill

Seven of the last nine winners had a rating of 150-plus over hurdles

Of those seven, four of them were rated 160 or higher in that sphere, highlighting the importance of proven quality.

Going back to the start of this century, only four winners had not won a chase before the new year and two of those were trained at Pond House, Martin Pipe managed to get Well Chief to win the Arkle off the back of one chase start in 2004, having not made his debut until February. Then, ten years later, Martin's son David repeated the feat with Western Warhorse (left), who made a winning start over fences in January before following up in the Arkle at 33-1.

Six-year-olds have the best record in this, having won five of the last eight runnings, including El Fabiolo 12 months ago.

Verdict

Willie Mullins has won five of the last nine runnings of this since first successful with Un De Sceaux in 2015, and his pair, Gaelic Warrior and Il Etait Temps, come out best here. The former is more likely to go elsewhere and has to bounce back from a poor run last time, so Il Etait Temps gets the vote. A six-year-old who won the Irish Arkle at Leopardstown last time, he has a solid profile.

Home or away?

Recent record

Britain has fared better than Ireland since the turn of the century with 14 winners, although the balance has shifted since 2015. The Arkle has gone to Ireland in six of the last nine years with Willie Mullins responsible for five of those successes

This year's challenge

Last year's Supreme winner Marine Nationale muddied the Arkle picture by disappointing at the Dublin Racing Festival, finishing a well-beaten fifth behind the Mullins-trained Il Etait Temps, who has failed to make the frame at the last two Cheltenham Festivals.

Two who do bring fine form at this meeting to the table are Facile Vega, the 2022 Champion Bumper winner and last year's Supreme runner-up, and Sharjah, twice second in the Champion Hurdle, who were third and fourth behind their stablemate at Leopardstown.

The Gordon Elliott-trained Found A Fifty defeated My Mate Mozzie - successful over the Arkle course and distance at Cheltenham's October meeting - in a Grade 1 at Leopardstown over Christmas, while Quilixios, the 2021 Triumph Hurdle winner, and fellow Grade 1 winner Inthepocket (will need supplementing) could give trainer Henry de Bromhead a strong hand.

Grade 2 winner JPR One, representing Joe Tizzard, was set to win over the Arkle track and trip in November and leads the home challenge. CHARLIE HUGGINS

Quilixios can hit big time again

NAMED after the greatest steeplechaser of them all, the Arkle remains one of the festival's most exciting races.

Some of the fastest chasers in the land flying along over two miles always gets the pulse racing, and some of the winning performances have stayed long in the memory, not least Sprinter Sacre's breathtaking round of jumping in 2012.

This year's running won't be of the same calibre after Marine Nationale's surprise defeat at the Dublin Racing Festival. What that has done, though, is make it a fascinating betting heat. No longer is this a market about one horse.

Since then he has had just two wins from five. He made a successful chase debut when beating the smart Inthepocket by three and three-quarter lengths at Navan in November, but it was the Leopardstown nightmare revisited over Christmas when, at odds of 1-2, he finished last of four. He was reported in top shape for the Irish Arkle next time and ran much better there, finishing third, beaten just over three lengths behind stablemate Il Etait Temps. Good Cheltenham record, having also finished second in last season's Supreme Novices, season but is already rated 11lb higher as a chaser. Won by eight lengths on his debut over fences at Down Royal in November, before finishing second in a 2m4f Grade 1 behind Irish National winner I Am Maximus, and since then has flourished over 2m1f at Leopardstown, winning a Grade 1 over Christmas and then a neck away from making it two top-level wins on the bounce behind Il Etait Temps in the Irish Arkle last time. Nothing wrong with his attitude and he is clearly progressive

Gaelic Warrior

6 b g Trainer Willie Mullins RPR 160 TS 126 OR -6/332/11121-11U

This 153-rated hurdler initially made a sparkling transition to fences this term. Scooted home by 15 lengths on his chase debut at Punchestown in November, and again jumped well when making all in a Limerick Grade 1 over Christmas, beating Il Etait Temps by five and a half lengths. The runner-up franked the form at the DRF last month but Gaelic Warrior couldn't follow up next time in the tworunner Ladbrokes Novice Chase. He had only stablemate Fact To File to beat, but was out on his feet and 17 lengths in arrears when unshipping Paul Townend at the last. Contrary to some reports, he went through most of that race with his usual zest but stopped very quickly, possibly suggesting something was amiss. Clearly has a preference for going right-handed, while most of his form is over further.

Whippet-like grey who has taken to fences well this term. Grade 1 winner over hurdles and now over fences too following a terrier-like success in the Irish Arkle at the DRF. That was his third start over fences having made a winning debut at Thurles in November and having finished second to Gaelic Warrior over 2m31/2f at Limerick at Christmas. Dropped back to 2m1f at Leopardstown on better ground, he travelled and jumped superbly in the first-time tongue-tie and is now shortest in the betting of the Closutton battalion. Very strong traveller, but has yet to sparkle in two appearances at Cheltenham.

JPR One

7 bb g Trainer Joe Tizzard RPR 155 TS 130 OR 150 12105/15-1U31

Britain's big hope having made a successful transition to fences this term. A 150-1 outsider when fifth in the Supreme Novices' two years ago, he raced only twice last season but is maturing nicely now. Would have won over course and distance in November when unseating at the last and didn't get home in the heavy ground in a Grade 1 at Sandown next time. Again looked a bit of a weak finisher when just holding off Matata at Lingfield in January. What is not in dispute is his jumping, which is very slick, and he looks to have enough pace for this contest, although his form doesn't justify his price. Could be more one for Aintree.

Marine Nationale

7 b g Trainer Barry Connell RPR 156 TS 119 OR -11111-15

Top-class hurdler having won all three starts in that sphere, including the Supreme Novices' last season. Made it six races unbeaten when getting off to a winning start over fences at Leopardstown over Christmas and was made odds-on for this race on the back of that impressive display. Went off 4-7 for the Irish Arkle at the DRF last month, but there the wheels came off as he faded tamely to finish fifth. Looked to have the world at his feet before the DRF, and still tops the market here at 5-2, but he now has a lot of questions to answer.

Quilixios

7 b g Trainer Henry de Bromhead

RPR 142 TS 112 OR -1/1111/7223/161

Bit of a forgotten horse. Landed the Triumph Hurdle in 2021 and had some good form over hurdles before missing last term through injury. Has returned over fences this season and made a winning debut on the back of a 610-day absence at Limerick in October. Was stepped up to three miles after that but was not suited by the longer trip or deep ground at Punchestown. However, much happier dropped back to two miles at Naas last time, jumping with aplomb to beat Sa Fureur by two and a quarter lengths. He's trained by a two-mile chase master in Henry de Bromhead, who has won this race twice before. Has got the ability and could be where the value lies.

Others to consider

The curveball for punters here could be Inthepocket. He was ruled out for the season at the turn of the year but there is talk he could now be supplemented. A Grade 1 winner over hurdles, he finished second on his chase debut at Navan.

Hunters Yarn is potentially an interesting contender for last year's winning connections. He got off the mark over fences at Fairyhouse in January, the form of which has worked out, and he has loads of toe.

My Mate Mozzie split Found A Fifty and Facile Vega at Christmas. He also won at Cheltenham in October and is decent value at 20-1, while of the home team. Matata and Master Chewy represent the Nigel Twiston-Davies stable. The latter has loads of ability, although he isn't the best of Marine Nationale might not be odds-on any more, but he remains favourite. Do we want to be taking 5-2 after such a disappointing display? Personally, I think there's better value elsewhere. Both Il Etait Temps and Found A Fifty have good recent form, but 2021 Triumph Hurdle winner QUILIXIOS comes into this off the back of a win at Naas, where he really impressed with his jumping, and his trainer is the right man to have in your corner for a race like this.

1 Trelawne 2 Famous Bridge 3 Shan Blue

The lightly raced Trelawne is potentially well handicapped on a mark of 143. The eight-year-old was an impressive winner on his chasing debut at Carlisle in November and has since run some cracking races in defeat. His most solid piece of form is his third-place finish behind Ginny's Destiny and Grey Dawning at Cheltenham in December, and a repeat performance here should see him go close.

PAUL KEALY

City Chief 2 Theatre Man 3 Stumptown

City Chief has had two looks at Cheltenham this season and ran well without seeing out the trip, so the 3m1f of this race might suit him better than the 3m2f of the Kim Muir. Theatre Man ran on into second behind Ginny's Destiny on Trials day and will appreciate going back up in trip, while Stumptown won well here in January and nearly won the Kim Muir last season.

TOM PARK

Giovinco 2 Shan Blue 3 The Goffer

Lucinda Russell has won the past two runnings of this with Corach Rambler and has a live chance of making it a hat-trick with Giovinco. Connections made no secret of how highly they think of this seven-year-old and his novice chase form this season is top notch. He looks like he could prove a good bit better than his mark of 146. He has won two handicaps already this season off marks of 143 and 146 - albeit in small fields - but I think he has been crying out for a strongly run race and he'll get that here.

MADDY PLAYLE

1 Chianti Classico 2 Crebilly 3 Meetingofthewaters

The Irish may be dominant at the Cheltenham Festival but they regularly struggle in this contest, which they have not won since 2006. Chianti Classico looks the ideal type for it and his trainer, Kim Bailey, has had the likes of Vinndication and Happygolucky run well in the race in recent years. Crebilly is another live contender for a trainer who has done well in the race, while Meetingofthewaters could be best of the away team.

MATT WILLIAMS

1 The Goffer 2 Ontheropes 3 Weveallbeencaught

The Goffer proved his wellbeing when winning a challenge Flat race at Punchestown last month. Fourth in this race last year, nothing travelled better turning for home, and when you consider he was only six at the time, he ought to do even better this year. granted stronger waiting tactics. Ontheropes is a speculative punt to return to his best. He's a talented plodder on his best day.

JOHNNY DINEEN

It's hard to have total faith in Constitution Hill after his dirty scope, but my feeling is that he will only turn up should connections be satisfied he can do himself complete justice. He's still my selection, but clearly vou can be nowhere near as confident as you would have been last weekend.

SAM HARDY

2 State Man 3 Pied Piper

Many punters will be sweating on the news of Constitution Hill's test results having scoped badly at Kempton after a racecourse gallop, but if he takes his chance he is still the one to beat. Much has been made about the champion's preparation for this year's race, but if connections deem him fit enough to run then he will be my choice. State Man will be ready to pounce if he underperforms or does not run, and is the obvious second choice.

PAUL KEALY

1 Constitution Hill 2 State Man 3 Zanahivr

Constitution Hill is as far clear of State Man as the latter is of the rest and a repeat of last year's one-two is surely the most likely outcome, assuming Nicky Henderson can get him there after his bad scope. He won't be risked if he's not spot on, so I wouldn't oppose him if he runs. Trying to find something else who definitely runs is an issue. However, Zanahiyr doesn't strike me as a horse who jumps well enough for the Arkle over fences, and he has been third past the post in this for the last two years.

TOM PARK

1 State Man 2 Constitution Hill 3 Luccia

I'd be surprised if Constitution Hill turns up after scoping badly following a poor gallop. Even if he does he has had hardly the ideal preparation and he will have missed a key week of work. State Man is an exceptional performer and you simply can't turn up undercooked and expect to beat a horse of that ability - even if you're Constitution Hill

MADDY PLAYLE

1 Constitution Hill 2 State Man 3 Zanahivr

State Man's Irish Champion Hurdle win was a step up on anything he achieved last year on Racing Post Ratings, and connections believe they are better placed to attack Constitution Hill this vear. However, provided Nicky Henderson's shining star gets there in peak shape after his dirty scope at Kempton he should still easily be able to account for him. Zanahiyr appeals for third after failing to take to chasing.

MATT WILLIAM

1 Constitution Hill 2 State Man 3 Luccia

We all want to see Constitution Hill turn up in top nick, but it's up in the air after his well-publicised Kempton workout. I'm looking at it like this - if he turns up, I expect him to win and, if he doesn't, things could get wild. Irish Point might be rerouted he'd be a big runner. Lossiemouth is the same. If both took their chances it would mean Constitution Hill has missed out and nobody wants to see that, I wouldn't be in a rush to back State Man in his absence, though.

Stats say hot favourite all the way

TRENDS James Hill

Since 2007, all but two of the winners had run no more than 12 times over hurdles You have to go back to the days of Hardy Eustace (right) and Brave Inca to find the last winners who busted this number. They don't make 'em like they used to, clearly, but it's important to note than only previous winners Hurricane Fly and Honevsuckle have since defied this stat. That's bad news for State Man, who has had 13 hurdle starts. The Champion Hurdle has been a great race for former winners. As many as 11 struck again before the millennium and a further four have doubled up since. That's very strong signals for Constitution Hill. Also good news for the favourite is what a good recent trial the Christmas Hurdle has been, with four winners of the Kempton Grade 1 having followed up since 2014. including Constitution Hill himself.

Last year Constitution Hill had a 53-year stat to overcome - that was how long since the Supreme Novices' winner had followed up in the Champion the following season - but he smashed that barrier to smithereens, and the trends are much more in his favour this time.

Home or away?

Ireland and Britain have shared the spoils since 2008 with eight victories apiece. Nicky Henderson, with nine wins, is the leading trainer in the race.

This year's challenge

Other than missing the Fighting Fifth Hurdle due to the testing ground - the race having been switched to Sandown due to the cancellation of Newcastle's card the previous weekend Constitution Hill's preparation has been the same as when winning this race last year. Henderson's stable star was a comfortable winner of the Grade 1 Christmas Hurdle and, having won both of his Cheltenham Festival starts by a combined 31 lengths, he will understandably be viewed as the big British banker - if he turns up fit and healthy.

State Man has completed the same Grade 1 hurdles hat-trick of Morgiana, Matheson and Irish Champion as he did before this last race year, but still has nine lengths to find with Constitution Hill. As good as State Man is, it is difficult to see him reversing the form under normal circumstances.

Not So Sleepy won the rearranged Fighting Fifth and Hughie Morrison's 12-year-old will by vying for some place money when he runs in this race for the fifth season in a row.

Irish Point, who has won his last four starts, Colonel Mustard and Echoes In Rain are other potential contenders for Ireland. CHARLIE HUGGINS

March 2024 Cheltenham: The Ultimate Guide

CONSTITUTION HILL V STATE MAN TALE OF THE TAPE

PERHAPS it is just cyclical and the dearth of good horses will be naturally addressed through the passage of time – and believe me, it is not this observer's intention to moan just for the sake of moaning – but it is truly saddening to begin writing an A-to-Z piece about the 2024 Champion Hurdle and only two letters of the alphabet, 'C' and 'S', are relevant, frankly.

The festival's fourth day has been a cash cow for certain self-interests in the sport, but to the racing product's detriment. There is a place for a mares' hurdle, of course, but that contest is a Grade 1 in name only, and should be restricted to horses rated 154 or lower and returned to Grade 2 status. The pinnacle races must be protected from the growing dilution many of us predicted back in the noughties.

Twenty years ago, 14 horses contested the 2004 Champion Hurdle. The winner, Hardy Eustace, was 33-1 and he would return to retain his title as the 7-2 joint-favourite against 13 opponents at the first four-day festival in 2005.

Last year, the admittedly magnificent odds-on shot Constitution Hill faced six opponents, with five of those sent off at 16-1 or bigger.

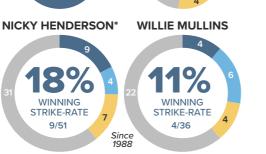

Fast forward to late last month and the Betfair trading market was reading 2-5 Constitution Hill and 100-30 State Man before the late scare regarding the odds-on favourite's participation. The next two in that market were Irish Point at around 40-1 and Lossiemouth at 70-1, who are likely to contest the Stayers' Hurdle and Mares' Hurdle instead. However, if the champion hurdler doesn't make the race then more horses are likely to take their chance.

Constitution Hill

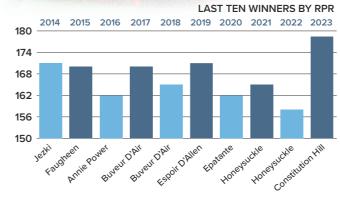

Seven-year-old bay gelding Trainer Nicky Henderson Best hurdles RPR 177 Topspeed 169 Official 175 Jumps form 2/111/1111-1 Purchased by Michael Buckley for £120,000 a month after finishing second in a Tipperary point-to-point in April 2021, Constitution Hill was sent to Seven Barrows to be trained by Nicky Henderson.

The son of French sire Blue Bresil gave an immediate indication of what was to come when making an impressive winning hurdling debut over 2m at Sandown that December. A 14-length success there was swiftly followed by a 12-length Grade 1 Tolworth Hurdle victory over the same course and distance. He then returned from a 66-day break with a 22-length demolition of Jonbon in the Supreme Novices' Hurdle.

A tried-and-tested route back to the festival began with a breathtaking Fighting Fifth Hurdle success at Newcastle on his reappearance in November 2022, defeating 2020 Champion Hurdle winner Epatante by 12 lengths.

Another slamming of stablemate Epatante would follow in the Grade 1 Christmas Hurdle at Kempton, before he returned from a 78-day break to defeat State Man impressively by nine lengths in last year's Champion Hurdle, registering a Racing Post Rating of 177, the highest in the race's history.

He then didn't need to be at his best when winning unchallenged, upped to 2m4f, in the Grade 1 Aintree Hurdle on his final start of last season.

Once again he didn't need his A-game to go back-to-back in Kempton's Christmas Hurdle on his reappearance, with connections having briefly flirted over the summer with the possibility of sending him chasing. The prospect of hurdling domination won out, and he will attempt to retain his Champion Hurdle crown following a 77-day break brandishing one of the best

CVs ever to grace the race.

However, a dirty scope following a lacklustre gallop with two stablemates at Kempton late in February has left his participation in doubt.

Irish Point

6 gr g Trainer Gordon Elliott

RPR 159 TS 137 OR 158 321/122411-11

Won a Grade 1 1m4½ bumper at Saint-Cloud in November 2021 before joining Gordon Elliott ahead of a hurdling campaign.

The son of Joshua Tree went 3-6 last term from 2m-2m4f, including a Grade 1 success over the longer trip at Aintree in the Mersey Novices' Hurdle in April.

The improving six-year-old won a Grade 3 contest at Down Royal on his reappearance in November, before successfully stepping up in trip to win the Grade 1 2m7½f Christmas Hurdle at Leopardstown. He is vying for favouritism for his more likely target, the Stayers' Hurdle, but would have place claims if turning up here instead.

Lossiemouth

5 gr m Trainer Willie Mullins RPR 155 TS 117 OR 155 1/11211-1 Not to be rude. but Lossiemouth is the elephant in the room where this year's Champion Hurdle is concerned – or not in the room, more's the point and pity.

Mares have an excellent recent record in the race owing to the healthy 7lb allowance they receive, but Lossiemouth's connections seem determined to go the Honeysuckle route of Mares' Hurdle first and Champion Hurdle later on.

Ready winner of the Grade 1
Triumph Hurdle at the meeting last year, the five-yearold daughter of Great Pretender has been defeated only once in seven starts over jumps, and dotted up by nine and a half lengths from last year's Mares' Hurdle runnerup Love Envoi in Grade 2 company at Cheltenham on Trials day in January.

Would surely add muchneeded spice to this year's Champion Hurdle but appears destined to swerve the race.

State Man

7 ch g Trainer Willie Mullins RPR 170 TS 151 OR 169 2/F11/111121-111

The high-class Excelebration was the consistent Irish-trained bridesmaid in the era of the great Frankel on the Flat, and State Man is threatening to take up that unwanted role in the Constitution Hill age over hurdles. He has taken a more circuitous route to Champion Hurdle competition than his great rival.

The son of French sire Doctor Dino began his racing life in France, finishing second in a conditions hurdle at Auteuil in May 2020 before joining the Donnellys/Willie Mullins owner-trainer combination of Al Boum Photo fame.

An inauspicious start, falling on his Irish hurdling debut when in with every chance two out at Leopardstown over Christmas in 2021, was quickly eclipsed by an easy 12-length Limerick victory the following February, before he landed the 2022 County Hurdle off a mark of 141 at the Cheltenham Festival. In fact, the only horse to beat him over hurdles since his Irish debut mishap is Constitution Hill at Cheltenham 12 months ago.

Back-to-back victories in the Irish Champion Hurdle (last year at the expense of Honeysuckle and this February, Bob Olinger) came with consummate ease. The seven-year-old registered a personal-best RPR of 170 with that latest easy success, and he has 7lb to find with Constitution Hill on that scale as he attempts to atone for last year's nine-length defeat, although the official ratings make the gap a slightly smaller 6lb.

The Racing Post's Topspeed scale hints at a bigger gulf though, with 151 for State Man and Constitution Hill's 169 their best efforts.

Zarak The Brave

5 b g Trainer Willie Mullins RPR 152 TS 136 OR 152 122-31P1

Joined Willie Mullins for €200,000 after showing a decent level of ability on the Flat in France between November 2021 and May 2022.

The son of French sire Zarak is now 3-7 over hurdles, his victories coming at Fairyhouse, Galway (both over two miles, the latter a Grade 3) and Naas (1m7½f, his latest start in the Limestone Lad). He also finished a close second behind Lossiemouth in the Grade 1 Champion Four Year Old Hurdle at the Punchestown festival in April 2023.

The five-year-old is still improving and this relatively unexposed horse has place claims.

Others to consider

The 12-year-old Not So Sleepy, trained by Hughie Morrison, deserves to take his chance after registering a personal-best RPR of 160 when winning the rescheduled Grade 1 Fighting Fifth Hurdle on heavy ground at Sandown in December.

Nemean Lion dropped to 1m7f on testing ground to win his first Grade 2 in open company in Wincanton's Kingwell Hurdle in February but a follow-up success is unlikely.

Echoes In Rain, Pied Piper and Zanahiyr are rated in the 150s, and represent Mullins (the former) and Gordon Elliott (the last pair), but they, too, are on the periphery as far as winning this is concerned.

Verdict

Connections of CONSTITUTION HILL face an anxious wait to see if he recovers in time to take his chance. His supporters will simply have to wait and see if Nicky Henderson deems him well enough to run but, if such an experienced handler gives him the green light, then he should have the measure of State Man for a second successive year.

Disappointment at the likely absence of Lossiemouth is a consequence of her ability to raise the entire spectacle in the showpiece event on day one, but the relatively unexposed and improving Zarak The Brave is third choice with her out of the equation.

Tuesday 4.10 David Nicholson Mares' Hurdle

JOHNNY DINEEN

1 Lossiemouth 2 Ashroe Diamond 3 Magical Zoe

Lossiemouth is a clear standout here and her main danger in all likelihood is stablemate Ashroe Diamond. People seem to be suggesting she's not a guaranteed stayer, but Triumph Hurdle winners tend to stay much further than two miles as their careers develop and I would be pretty confident she'll get the trip and outclass what is likely to be a big field. Ashroe Diamond will keep her honest, but it's hard to oppose Paul Townend's mount.

SAM HARDY

1 Lossiemouth 2 Marie's Rock 3 Ashroe Diamond

Last season's Triumph Hurdle winner Lossiemouth scored easily on her seasonal debut when routing her rivals at Cheltenham in January. The five-year-old's only defeat came against stablemate Gala Marceau before last season's festival, but she has since beaten that rival twice and has stamped her mark as the stable's leading mare. Marie's Rock won the race in 2022 and comes here on the back of an impressive win at Doncaster. She could be the best British-trained contender.

PAUL KEALY

1 Ashroe Diamond 2 Lossiemouth 3 Marie's Rock

Lossiemouth is the one to beat, but she has to prove she stays 2m4f and I'm in no rush to back anything at a short price without all the boxes ticked. Ashroe Diamond is a high-class mare in her own right who won well at Doncaster last time. She could be the one to upset the favourite, while Marie's Rock has plenty of Cheltenham form

TOM PARK

Ashroe Diamond 2 Lossiemouth 3 Love Envoi

I am willing to take on Lossiemouth for small stakes simply on a price perspective. She was obviously impressive last time, but she pulls hard in her races and is not certain to get the extra half-mile as a result. I'll take a chance on stablemate Ashroe Diamond, who has some top form to her name.

MADDY PLAYLE

1 Lossiemouth 2 Ashroe Diamond 3 Love Envoi

There has to be a concern that Lossiemouth won't get home over this trip. An enthusiastic racer, she could pull her chance away if they don't go quick enough, but then again, if they do, her unproven stamina will be questioned. However, her Unibet Hurdle success pointed towards her being a standout in this division and she looks to have a class edge. Ashroe Diamond and last year's second Love Envoi can be in contention for the places.

MATT WILLIAMS

1 Lossiemouth 2 Love Envoi 3 Ashroe Diamond

Lossiemouth is a nervy pick at skinny odds. On genuine soft going I will oppose her on stamina grounds, as on pedigree there is enough Flat speed to at least ask the question. Harry Fry's Love Envoi has been an incredible mare for connections, and only needs soft ground to spring a mini upset. Owning a tenth of her, it has been a privilege I am unlikely to experience again, but I'm a realist and Lossiemouth is a worthy favourite - but only on good to soft or better.

How to read the Weekender cards

- 1 Boxed reference number of previous race in Weekender results section and in Raceform official form book.
- Saddle-cloth number if final declarations.
- Draw in brackets if Flat final declarations: starting stall position.
- Latest form figures for today's code down to 9th position, most recent on right; bold if All-weather (Flat) or Point-to-point (lumps). Figures to left of hyphen are last season, to left of slash previous seasons.
- Running style: L=Leads, P=Prominent, M=Midfield, H=Held up
- Elimination number: number one eliminated first etc should declarations exceed safety limit.
- Raised prefix reference to mention in Weekender columns:
- T=Training Centres, I=Interview,
- Horse
- Pounds extra (included in weight): penalty in handicap for winning after weights were calculated.
- 10 Days since run (latest in brackets if opposite code or point-to-point)
 11 © = course winner, D = distance winner (to nearest 1/2f 55y for Flat races CD = course & distance winner under a mile; 10% dist for Jumps) BF = beaten favourite in last run, G = gambled on in last run
- 12 Trainer
- 13 RTF: raised number is trainer's Running-To-Form percentage over 14 days, to previous Monday incl, minimum 5 runners. RTF is defined as: running to within 5lb of Racing Post card rating; any placing; finishing within 6L of winner up to 1m, or within extra 1/2L per furlong above 1m.
- 15 Weight to be carried; incl penalty; excludes jockey claim or overweight.
- 16 OR=official rating: determines weight in handicap.
- 17-19 Raised number is best Racing Post Rating (RPR), adjusted for weight.
- 17 Wins-runs on going FIRMER than good (good to firm-hard).
- 18 Wins-runs on going SOFTER than good (good to soft-heavy). If All-weather, Polytrack & Tapeta are shown.
- 19 Wins-runs over distance (Flat: +/-55y up to 1m; +/-110y beyond 1m). (Jumps +/-10% race distance)
- 20 TS=Topspeed (Racing Post time-based rating) latest (L) and best (B), adjusted for weight, top-rated bold.

Best includes previous season if fewer than two runs in current season.

21 RPR=Racing Post Rating (form-based), best from last 6 months Flat Turf, 12 months Jumps and Flat AW, adjusted for weight, top-rated bold.

Raised number is pounds below best of latest run (x=10+).

22 Improver pointer: horse's latest run was best RPR to date; penultimate run was best to that point.

Below the card

Last five runnings:

Raised figure next to RPR is number of pounds below top-rated. Raised figure next to SP (starting price) is position in market.

10-YEAR STATS (winners-placed-runners)

First run since a wind operation

From January 18, 2018 for races in Great Britain a trainer must declare whether a horse is having its first run since undergoing a wind surgery. Racing Post will display a lower case 'w' alongside headgear on its cards, results and form if a horse is running for the first time since a wind surgery but not for subsequent runs unless it undergoes another operation.

Tuesday 4.50 Boodles Juvenile Handicap Hurdle

JOHNNY DINEEN

1 Lark In The Mornin2 Ndaawi3 Milan Tino

A big talking point is whether Lark In The Mornin will creep in near the bottom with his rating of 120. He will look well treated if he does get in and will surely be in the shake up. This invariably throws up a gripping finish and quite often a headscratching result to go with it. I'll take a chance on Lark In The Mornin because I feel he has plenty in hand.

SAM HARDY

1 Milan Tino2 Liari3 Wodhooh

Only one favourite has won this in the last ten years and it may be best to concentrate on the less obvious types. Milan Tino, who is trained in France for JP McManus, has yet to get his head in front in four runs under rules, but is potentially well handicapped on a mark of 126 having finished third behind Sir Gino at this course last time.

PAUL KEALY

1 Pacini 2 Royal Way

3 Milan Tino

I'm sure I won't be any the wiser come the day, but Pacini had three quick runs in November and December, and then a break before reappearing in February for two more quick runs, faring well both times. He might end up being the pick of Gordon Elliott's. Royal Way should settle in a big field and will see out the trip well if he does, while Milan Tino has shown promise in Graded heats.

TOM PARK

1 Milan Tino2 Wodhooh3 Lark In The Mornin

Connections of Milan Tino must have been delighted to see the British handicapper reduce his mark from 136 to 126. He has been chasing the likes of Sir Gino and Burdett Road this season but he doesn't have anywhere near that level of opposition here and he looks well handicapped. Wodhooh must have been a difficult one to handicap as she has won all five starts for Gordon Elliott, but a mark of 130 is more than fair given how easily she won a Listed event at Doncaster last time out.

1 Batman Girac 2 Lark In The Mornin 3 Milan Tino

Lark In The Mornin has been the big talking horse in the last few weeks and his form could look very attractive in this race. However, the same can be said for Batman Girac, who caught the eye with a running-on fourth to Kala Conti in a Grade 2 in December. Milan Tino, representing France, appeals as best of the rest.

MATT WILLIAMS

1 Ose Partir2 Cossack Chach3 Lark In The Mornin

This is earmarked for a boilover, at least on ante-post prices. Martin Brassil is a brilliant, unheralded, target trainer. Ose Partir showed enough on his hurdling debut at Galway when an eyecatching runner-up, and he's worth an each-way nibble at 33-1. The Mulryans hold a strong hand in this with Lark In The Mornin the best backed coming into the race. However, it's the Boodles, a big field, and a lot of luck is needed.

JOHNNY DINEEN

1 Corbetts Cross 2 Three Card Brag 3 Embassy Gardens

The marathon chase will, in all likelihood, be heading to Ireland, and one with a class edge is Corbetts Cross, although his jumping leaves a bit to be desired. He has the services of Derek O'Connor to help him get round without mishap, and he's a solid selection. Embassy Gardens and Three Card Brag are respected, but Corbetts Cross is the most talented in the field and with normal luck he can prove too strong from the back of the last.

SAM HARDY

1 Broadway Bob 2 Salvador Ziggy 3 Embassy Gardens

Although also entered in the Brown Advisory Novices' Chase, I'm hoping Broadway Boy takes his chance here as this race looks tailor-made for him. The form of his penultimate run when an easy winner over 3m2f at Cheltenham looks solid; the runner-up has won since, while the third, Protektorat, finished within four lengths of Shishkin last time. Salvador Ziggy is possibly Gordon Elliott's best chance and he could prove the biggest threat to the selection.

PAUL KEALY

1 Flooring Porter 2 Embassy Gardens 3 Kilbeg King

Flooring Porter hasn't gone on since toying with Broadway Boy at Cheltenham in October, but right-handed at Punchestown was always going to be a disaster. It would have been nice to see a bit more from him at Leopardstown, but Cheltenham in the spring is his bag, and he can serve it up to the favourite. Embassy Gardens heads the betting, jumps really well and has to be feared, while Kilbeg King stays well but isn't so good in the jumping department.

TOM PARK

1 Embassy Gardens 2 Broadway Bob 3 Corbetts Cross

Embassy Gardens has looked a real natural over fences and has been impressive in winning his two chase starts. He beat decent yardsticks Sandor Clegane (a ten-length second) and Letsbeclearabouit (third, eight lengths further back) in a Grade 3 at Naas last time, which is top form. He will also have the services of Patrick Mullins and is a worthy favourite.

MADDY PLAYLE

1 Nick Rockett 2 Embassy Gardens 3 Flooring Porter

This looks set to be the classiest running of the race for many a year and could produce a future Gold Cup contender. Nick Rockett has been on my radar for a long time and, for a Willie Mullins-trained runner, he still seems a bit of a dark horse. He could be a better betting proposition than his short-priced stablemate Embassy Gardens, while dual Stayers' Hurdle hero Flooring Porter will surely be on the premises if on his best behaviour.

MATT WILLIAMS

1 Embassy Gardens 2 Salvador Ziggy 3 Three Card Brag

Embassy Gardens and Salvador Ziggy could make up into top-class staying chasers next season, and it's difficult to split the pair. Slight preference is for Embassy Gardens, just because he might have a stamina edge. Corbetts Cross is a tough one to leave out as I'm a huge fan and a big pot awaits, but his jumping (he's dopey at times) is a slight worry at this stage of his career.

Wednesday 1.30 Baring Bingham Novices' Hurdle

JOHNNY DINEEN

- 1 Ballyburn 2 Slade Steel 3 Mystical Power

Again the shape of the race depends entirely whether Ballyburn takes up this engagement or not, and should he do so then he is sure to go off at odds-on. He does look a class apart and probably has most to fear from some of his stablemates and possibly Slade Steel, who will be better suited to this extra half-mile and the possibility of a less taxing surface. Mystical Power is another who would be very interesting should he turn up here rather than in the festival opener.

SAM HARDY

1 Gidleigh Park 2 Readin Tommy Wrong 3 lle Atlantique

Gidleigh Park may be Harry Fry's best chance of a winner. He beat some useful rivals over 2m41/2f on the New course last time in a Grade 2, but it's the form of his previous nine-length win over Fire Flyer at Newbury that has caught my eye. The runner-up has won his next two starts with ease and Gidleigh Park could be top-drawer. Readin Tommy Wrong can prove last month's Grade 1 win at Naas was no fluke

PAUL KEALY

- 1 Ballyburn 2 Readin Tommy Wrong 3 Jingko Blue

Not having any idea what is going to run doesn't help, but Ballyburn is most definitely going to be a stayer in time, and I've got it in my head that he is going to come here. If he does, it will take a very good horse to beat him. Readin Tommy Wrong obviously has the Albert Bartlett option, as does Jingko Blue, who is very promising and will run well if Nicky Henderson doesn't mind blowing a tasty mark.

TOM PARK

Ballyburn 2 lle Atlantique 3 Gidleigh Park

If Ballyburn turns up here I can't see it being anything but a formality. He might well be good enough to win over two or three miles, but I suspect this is his optimum trip and he can prove a class above his rivals. Ile Atlantique would be a strong selection in the absence of Ballyburn, while Gidleigh Park looks the each-way value if lining up.

MADDY PLAYLE

1 Ballyburn 2 Handstands 3 Gidleigh Park

This year's novice hurdlers are a muddling bunch but the consensus seems to be that Ballyburn is the best of the lot, and that he'll go for this race instead of the Supreme, Gidleigh Park showed a good attitude to notch a course win last time and will be staying on strongly, while similar comments apply to Sidney Banks winner Handstands, who isn't flashy but can be competitive.

MATT WILLIAMS

1 Ballyburn 2 Handstands 3 Lucky Place

Ballyburn is the outstanding novice in Ireland and I reckon he's way ahead of the rest. It'll be a major shock to the system if he is beaten in this (I can find reasons to take him on in the Supreme), and last month's Leopardstown win confirmed his liking for soft ground and his ability to lengthen and find when limited pressure is applied. The Brits can fill the places with Handstands, for the resurgent Ben Pauling, leading the way.

Naas success reads far from wrong

TRENDS James Hill

Eleven of the last 12 winners had notched top-two finishes in all hurdle starts

Similar to the Supreme, horses who land this are serial winners and it's a good one who has beaten them if that has been the case. This is particularly true of Willie Mullins' victors. Mullins has landed this race a record six times and all had been unbeaten over hurdles in his care, including the last two winners. Sir Gerhard and Impaire Et Passe.

Neither of them was six years old, breaking a long-running trend going all the way back to 2014, when all the winners were aged six. Four of the top half-dozen in the market are in that bracket this year so it looks like the race could revert to type.

Ireland has won nine of the last ten runnings - Willoughby Court breaking the stranglehold in 2017 - and the best recent trial has, interestingly, been the Lawlor's of Naas with Envoi Allen (2020) and Bob Olinger (2021) both doing the double in recent times.

Verdict

As you would expect, Ballyburn comes out well on the trends, but he could run in the Supreme so I'm going to have a look at another of the Closutton battalion, namely Readin Tommy Wrong, who comes out best of anything. An unbeaten six-year-old who won the Lawlor's of Naas last time, this is surely the right race for him.

Home or away?

Recent record

Ireland have dominated in the past decade, winning all but one of the last ten runnings – worse still, the home side has had only one runner (Bravemansgame, third in 2021) placed in the last four years

This year's challenge

Ile Atlantique is the leading contender to give Willie Mullins a record-extending seventh win, having been beaten a neck by his Albert Bartlett-bound stablemate Readin Tommy Wrong in the Grade 1 Lawlor's of Naas last time. Mullins also has the back-up of Mystical Power or Ballyburn should either miss the Supreme.

Slade Steel has twice been beaten over two miles by Ballyburn but the Henry de Bromhead-trained six-year-old has won a 2m4f Grade 2 on heavy ground and adds further strength to the Irish challenge, which could be bolstered further by dual Grade 1 runner-up Predators Gold.

Ben Pauling saddled the last British winner when Willoughby Court narrowly beat the Harry Fry-trained Neon Wolf in 2017 and their stables are represented here by Sidney Banks scorer Handstands and the unbeaten Gidleigh Park respectively.

Nicky Henderson, who won this in 2012 with Simonsig, is set to add numbers to the British challenge with Jingko Blue and Peaky Boy.

FORM STARTS PAGE 46

Able deputy Tommy is right call

THIS race is named after the developer who purchased Prestbury Park in 1898, going on to organise the first running of the festival in 1902.

From a purists' point of view, this is the best novice hurdle at the meeting. Winners have that perfect blend of stamina and speed with most future chasing types, while the race also produced four Champion Hurdle winners in the space of 17 years not long ago, Istabraq being the most famous of them.

He was very much an Irish banker, and we could have another this time in the shape of Ballyburn, although he also has the option of the Supreme and for that reason one of his stablemates at Closutton gets the nod here.

Ballyburn

Six-year-old bay gelding Trainer Willie Mullins

Best hurdles RPR 158 Topspeed 127 Official 155 Jumps form 111-211

Winner of two of his three starts over hurdles, he has lived up to the pre-season hype in his last two outings at Leopardstown, winning his maiden by 25 lengths before putting up a very impressive performance in a Grade 1 at the Dublin Racing Festival, beating Slade Steel by seven lengths.

Colleague Matt Williams stated there that Ballyburn was up to winning any of the three Grade 1 novices at the festival, and it's hard to disagree. He won't be running in the Albert Bartlett, so it's going to be a close call between this and the Supreme. The markets have been suggesting it will be the shorter race, but he has a better pedigree for this.

Unbeaten six-year-old for

IRISH DOMINANCE IN THE BARING BINGHAM

Harry Fry, having won a bumper and all three hurdle starts this winter, and has long been Britain's leading contender for this. Very impressive on his first two starts over jumps, although he made hard work of winning a Grade 2 at Cheltenham on Trials day, just seeing off Lucky Place by half a length to land the odds. That race turned into a bit of a sprint, which wasn't ideal, but it also highlighted he would need some give in the ground to be a major factor here, and he might be more one for the Albert Bartlett.

Handstands

5 br g Trainer Ben Pauling RPR 138 TS 109 OR 136 1111

A further unbeaten runner to add into the mix. This one has won all three hurdle starts for Ben Pauling this term. Coasted to success in first two runs at Hereford and Newcastle before stepping up to Listed company at Huntingdon last time where he was good enough to down Grade 1 winner Jango Baie (getting 5lb). Ground was turning very soft that day, but he always looked in command and clearly has loads of ability. Yard has won this before.

Ile Atlantique

6 br g Trainer Willie Mullins RPR 146 TS 120 OR - 3/122-12

Talented six-year-old who races in the Tony Bloom silks. Very good form in bumpers last term, and got off the mark over hurdles when winning at Gowran by 19 lengths in November. Was then stepped up to 2m4f for the Grade 1 Lawlor's of Naas in January. Went off 6-4 favourite there and did little wrong, but was run down by 16-1 stablemate Readin Tommy Wrong. He's clearly well regarded at Closutton and this race looks the target. Expect Paul Townend to ride if Ballyburn heads for the Supreme.

Mystical Power

5 b g Trainer Willie Mullins RPR 144 TS 110 OR -

Another exciting Mullins horse, this one in the colours of JP McManus. Bred to be a megastar, being by Galileo out of Annie Power, he has landed all three starts, including two easy wins over hurdles, notably the Grade 2 Moscow Flyer over 2m1/2f at Punchestown in January. That was the race last year's winner Impaire Et Passe took en route to winning this. Mullins has made it clear he would prefer to run him in the Supreme, However, McManus also has Jeriko Du Reponet for that, so if Ballyburn takes his chance in the festival opener, I would think this fella could turn up here

Readin Tommy Wrong

6 b g Trainer Willie Mullins RPR 149 TS 121 OR - 2/1111

Winner of all four starts under rules. Landed both bumper runs last May before getting off the mark over hurdles at Cork in November. Outsider of the four Closutton runners in the Lawlor's of Naas, but defied odds of 16-1 to run down Ile Atlantique. There didn't seem to be any fluke in that victory, the front pair pulling clear, and the form looks particularly sound. Of obvious interest in this, although is stoutly bred and also a serious contender for the Albert Bartlett.

Slade Steel

6 b g Trainer Henry de Bromhead RPR 148 TS 118 OR 146 113-112

Top-class novice this season, winning two of his three starts with Ballyburn the only horse to defeat him. Won his maiden at Naas in November when beating the classy King Of Kingsfield by more than five lengths. Then defeated Lecky Watson by half a length in a Navan Grade 2 upped to two and a half miles in December before going down by seven lengths to Ballyburn over two miles at the DRF. All form has come on soft or heavy, but his trainer thinks he'll improve for a better surface. Could run either here or in the Supreme.

Others to consider

Two others to note for Mullins are Billericay Dickie and Predators Gold. The former is unlikely to go, but Predators Gold could well be in the line-up. He has finished second in Grade 1s at Leopardstown the last twice, the last time when racing too keenly over 2m6½ f at the DRF.

Challow winner Captain Teague will turn up here if the ground is soft. He has got good festival form, having finished third in last season's Champion Bumper, but his hurdling hasn't been the best this term. No Challow winner has followed up here.

Nicky Henderson could have a couple of runners in Jingko Blue and Peaky Boy. The latter won his maiden at Cheltenham and would be an interesting outsider on soft ground.

Verdict

Ballyburn will be a warm order if he comes here. He's already proven over the trip and there is loads of stamina in his breeding. The markets are pretty even-stevens as to whether it's this or the Supreme at the time of writing, but Willie Mullins has proper back-up in any case, especially READIN TOMMY WRONG. He has top form, has yet to be beaten, and if the favourite doesn't turn up, I think he will.

Wednesday 2.10 Brown Advisory Novices' Chase

JOHNNY DINEEN

1 Fact To File 2 Grey Dawning 3 Monty's Star

Last year's bumper second Fact To File is one of the big hype horses of the season, and if he is as good as his reputation suggests he will be hard to contain. His bare form doesn't entitle him to be as short as he actually is and this is quite a deep race with the likes of Stay Away Fay, Monty's Star and Grey Dawning all holding solid claims. I will side with Fact To File, but there is no margin for error and he will have to do everything correctly.

SAM HARDY

1 Grey Dawning 2 Stay Away Fay 3 Fact To File

The home team have had seven wins in the last ten runnings and the Dan Skelton-trained Grey Dawning can boost that excellent record. He won impressively by 14 lengths in a Grade 2 at Warwick last time and looks tailor-made

PAUL KEALY

The rumour mill has Fact To File running here instead of the Turners, and that makes sense given Willie Mullins' strength in other novice chase areas. Stay Away Fay is one of the form horses and should be a player. especially if it turns into a proper slog, while outsider Broadway Boy is better than his odds suggest. I expect Grey Dawning to go to a winnable Turners if Fact To File does come here.

TOM PARK

Stay Away Fay 2 Fact To File 3 Monty's Star

I was impressed with Stay Away Fay despite his loss against more experienced chasers in the Cotswold Chase. That will have done him the world of good and Paul Nicholls will have left plenty to work on for this, so I expect him to take a big step forward. His novice chase form is strong and he looks a fair bet in a race that is sure to cut up drastically.

MADDY PLAYLE

1 Fact To File 2 Grey Dawning 3 Broadway Boy

Willie Mullins has committed Fact To File to this race despite campaigning him over shorter than three miles. That looks unlikely to pose a problem for the exciting chaser and he appears to be one of the best prospects around and could put on a show. Grey Dawning is a worthy opponent, while Broadway Boy may not have the class to win but is an appealing each-way price.

THE BETTING SUGGESTS

MATT WILLIAMS

1 Stay Away Fay 2 Fact To File 3 Monty's Star

I'm not ready to ditch Stay Away Fay after his Cotswold Chase defeat. Granted, he was exposed as being a shade under top class in terms of a proper 2025 Gold Cup contender last time. but his proven stamina and reliable jumping will make him tough to beat. Fact To File's latest win was a walkover, taking on a not-at-the-races Gaelic Warrior in a match. I do love this horse, though, and he is a tough pass, but I'll be back on him in an instant with more experience under his

Sandor Clegane looks to fit the bill

TRENDS James Hill

Only look to those who have finished first or second in a Grade 1 or 2 chase

The only winner in the last ten years who did not meet this stat was Might Bite (2017, right), and that was only because he had fallen at the last in the Kauto Star with the race at his mercy, so hardly an anomaly. Before him you have to go back to Star De Mohaison, who won with the old five-year-olds' allowance in 2006.

One stat I always make note of in this race is that as many as 20 of the last 21 winners began their chasing careers below 2m7f. This contradicts that old chestnut that the Brown Advisory is a race for sloggers. The last four winners all came into this off the back of runs at distances of less than three miles. Incidentally, that in completed starts over fences.

Verdict

There are lots of trends for this race and the two who fit them best are Sandor Clegane and Nick Rockett, with the former the more interesting. He has been placed in Graded company twice this season and has Cheltenham form, having finished third in last season's Albert Bartlett. That used to be a good guide; between 2010-16, as many as five winners had taken part in the Grade 1 novice 12 months prior.

quartet had all been unbeaten

Home or away?

Recent record

Willie Mullins has won the race five times but it is the British who hold sway this century with a 15-8 advantage, just under half of those victories for the home team coming for Nicky Henderson (four) and Paul Nicholls (three).

Three winners in recent years have landed this prize before going on to Gold Cup glory, with Nicholls' Denman (2007) and Henderson's Bobs Worth (2012) achieving the double before Lord Windermere became the most recent to complete the feat in 2013.

This year's challenge

Fact To File went into plenty of notebooks after his dismissal of stablemate Gaelic Warrior - already beaten when exiting at the last - in the Grade 1 Ladbrokes Novice Chase at the Dublin Racing Festival and heads a customary strong entry from Willie Mullins, whose unbeaten chaser Embassy Gardens and Grade 2 runner-up Nick Rockett feature in the top six in the early betting.

Last year's Albert Bartlett winner Stay Away Fay and Dan Skelton's Grey Dawning head the British challenge. The former acquitted himself well when third against seasoned campaigners in Cheltenham's Cotswold Chase last time, while the latter's form is stacking up increasingly well.

Monty's Star, whose half-brother Monalee finished second in 2018, adds another string to the Irish bow.

Analysis

THE recent roll of honour for this staying prize is hardly a who's who of chasing greats. but it is one of the few Grade 1 races at the Cheltenham Festival that hasn't been dominated by Ireland in recent times, with British-based runners responsible for seven of the last ten winners.

Paul Nicholls and Dan Skelton provide a leading contender apiece on this occasion, but the home team will have to get the better of a Willie Mullins-trained runner with outstanding claims, the Closutton handler also having been responsible for two winners since 2015.

Very much seemed to benefit from the return to three miles at Warwick last time, so having initially been under consideration for the Turners, this is surely the race connections will run him

Grade 3-winning novice hurdler who was sent off at 18-1 when pulled up behind Stay Away Fay in last season's Albert Bartlett.

Monty's Star is a big horse who was always likely to make a better chaser and, having finished a close third over an inadequate trip on December's reappearance at Fairyhouse, he improved the best part of a stone to win over three miles on heavy ground at Punchestown.

Jumping is his asset, as is often the case with chasers from the vard, but his chance $\hbox{likely hinges on getting proper}$ soft ground.

The same connections' Minella Indo, who would go on to win a Gold Cup, should have won this race in season's Albert Bartlett, albeit it was a below-average running of the race.

This former point-to-point winner has looked every inch a natural chaser this season, winning a strong novice on his reappearance at Exeter, with Grey Dawning almost three lengths back in third, and then a Grade 2 at Sandown.

Took the bold route to this race by then contesting the Cotswold Chase against seasoned performers, faring well to be beaten just over three lengths, despite a couple of mistakes, and should arrive in peak condition. His stable last won this race in

Verdict

Willie Mullins holds the key to the race, with Fact To File likely to go off as a short-price favourite after being confirmed an intended runner in this instead of the Turners.

The decision to skip hurdles with the seven-year-old looks to have paid dividends and he shot to the head of the market for this after winning the two-runner Grade 1 at the DRF in February.

Viewed as a future Gold Cup horse, the step up to three miles isn't expected to prove a problem, but in STAY AWAY FAY he meets a previous festival winner with proven stamina for the trip.

Representing the same connections as 2019 winner Topofthegame, the Paul Nicholls-trained runner is taken to keep a rare spot of British dominance at the festival going, having run so well against seasoned stayers in the Cotswold Chase.

JOHNNY DINEEN

1 Built By Ballymore 2 Lucky Place 3 Doddiethegreat

This is one of the toughest handicaps of the entire meeting and again I'd be siding with potential as opposed to seasoned handicappers. Built By Ballymore is a serious prospect and has the makings of a top-class chaser. He may want plenty of juice in the ground. Nicky Henderson's novices, Lucky Place and Doddiethegreat, are promising and have solid claims. But hopefully there is sufficient ease for Built By Ballymore to show his best and he gets the nod.

SAM HARDY

1 Might I 2 Brazil 3 Blueking D'Oroux

The Harry Fry-trained Might I was fourth in last year's Martin Pipe off top weight and is potentially well handicapped here off a mark of 142. The eight-year-old was disappointing on his last run over fences and I'm hopeful a return to hurdles could bring about improvement. Brazil won the 2022 Fred Winter and could prove the pick of the JP McManus-owned

PAUL KEALY

Built By Ballymore 2 Springwell Bay 3 Sonigino

The market has been all about Langer Dan, but I reckon that's a red herring because he has run so well here in the past. He has barely picked up a leg this season, however, and Built By Ballymore, whose trainer nearly won this with Fastorslow a couple of seasons ago, appeals more. Springwell Bay should go well if not sent to the Pertemps, while I don't know what happened with Sonigino last time, but he's better than that.

TOM PARK

Langer Dan 2 Lucky Place 3 Built By Ballymore

I'll keep this simple and opt for last season's winner Langer Dan. Dan Skelton is a genius at targeting races and he must be delighted to get Langer Dan back down to 141, which is the mark he won the race off last season. Langer Dan has a history of coming alive in the spring, so while his form looks pretty shambolic this season, you can be sure his trainer will have him in top form. Lucky Place would be interesting if connections opt to come here.

MADDY PLAYLE

1 Lucky Place 2 Sa Majeste 3 Doddiethegreat

Nicky Henderson is the Coral Cup's most successful trainer and he looks to have two excellent chances this year with the novices Lucky Place, who is first preference, and Doddiethegreat, who will surely improve for this trip. Sa Majeste is the obvious one for Mullins and JP McManus but doesn't appeal at the prices off a mark of 140, even though he defeated Noble Yeats on his

MATT WILLIAMS

1 Shanbally Kid 2 Langer Dan 3 Doddiethegreat

Shanbally Kid was fancied to run well at the Dublin Racing Festival but finished with a tame enough effort over the 3m1/2f trip and I am keen to give him another chance over this potentially more suitable distance. He remains lightly raced, is well handicapped on his best form and could go well at big odds. Langer Dan is back on a handy mark. Dan Skelton is as good as anyone with a target in mind, and last year's winner is a danger to all as he goes for a repeat victory.

Tote Trifecta explained

Forecast the first three in correct order in selected races, minimum eight

To calculate the number of lines needed for full cover, multiply the number of selections by that number minus one and by minus two. eg for six selections 6x5x4 = 120 lines.

Dividends declared to £1 stake: minimum stake 10p; takeout 29 per cent. Rollovers go to nominated race the following Saturday.

3.30 Cheltenham Betway Queen Mother Champion Chase

JOHNNY DINEEN

2 Jonbon 3 Edwardstone

What looked a match all season has turned into a three-horse race with Edwardstone laying down a marker on his latest start at Newbury. El Fabiolo has looked more assured in his jumping with every run and he is certainly the one to beat, although he will need to do everything right considering the fact he will have to come off a strong pace and probably cut down both Edwardstone and Ionbon, While I do fancy him, he is no certainty.

SAM HARDY

1 Jonbon 2 El Fabiolo 3 Captain Guinness

Many punters will have written off Jonbon after his defeat in the Grade 1 Clarence House Chase at Cheltenham last time, but I'm confident we'll see a top-level performance on this occasion. He would have won last time but for a bad mistake four out and I was impressed with the manner in which he plugged on to finish a close runner-up behind Elixir De Nutz.

PAUL KEALY

1 El Fabiolo 2 Jonbon 3 Edwardstone

Both El Fabiolo and Jonbon make their share of mistakes, but it will still be a surprise if their Arkle one-two from last year is not replicated. Edwardstone was a revelation from the front last time and could draw some mistakes out of them if he goes hard again, but he's arguably past his best at the age of ten.

TOM PARK

Jonbon 2 El Fabiolo 3 Edwardstone

Jonbon did an awful lot wrong last time and on the Arkle form he is up against it if he is going to turn the tables on El Fabiolo. However, I can't get over the impression he left when winning the Shloer Chase earlier in the season. He needs to be ridden more aggressively and I hope they look to either make all or take a lead from Edwardstone, if the latter is ridden hard from the front.

1 El Fabiolo 2 Edwardstone 3 Jonbon

Last year's Arkle winner El Fabiolo's jumping isn't without fault - although not quite as bad as Jonbon's in the Clarence House - but if he manages to stand up and produce his best, it should be sufficient. Edwardstone was right back to form with a breathtaking Game Spirit win last time and, as a previous Arkle winner, he has place claims at an appealing price.

MATT WILLIAMS

1 Jonbon 2 El Fabiolo 3 Edwardstone

On value grounds, Jonbon has to be the call. We're all waiting for El Fabiolo to make that race-ending mistake he's always promised, but his 6-6 chase record is hard to knock. Ionbon's defeat in Ianuary can be chalked down to a bad day at the office, and Nico de Boinville being back on board could make all the difference. Edwardstone turned in the most visually exciting chase performance of the season in the Game Spirit, but this is an altogether different

Jonbon has all the right credentials

TRENDS James Hill

It's Nicholls and Henderson v the Irish

In the last 16 runnings, Britain's superpowers at Ditcheat and Seven Barrows have virtually been the only defence against the visitors. Paul Nicholls has won the race four times in that period, Nicky Henderson five. Ironically Willie Mullins had not won it at all until Energumene struck two years ago and he duly followed up in 2023.

Sandown's Tingle Creek Chase is historically the top guide for this event, but in recent times the Clarence House has got stronger with as many as nine of the last 14 winners coming from the Ascot Grade 1 (the last two runnings have taken place at Cheltenham).

Another outstanding guide is the Arkle. Since 2002, ten horses who made the frame in the Grade 1 novice went on to victory in this event. Indeed, second-season novices generally have a great record in the Champion Chase with 15 winners in this period.

Verdict

The stats clearly point to both El Fabiolo and Jonbon, although it is the latter who comes out stronger. He has run in all the right races this term, landing the Shloer (six winners from last ten runnings took part in that race), Tingle Creek and finishing second in the Clarence House. Plus no trainer has won this race more than Henderson.

Home or away?

Recent record

The British lead the Irish 14-9 since the turn of the century, with champion trainer Paul Nicholls and Nicky Henderson responsible for ten of those victories (five apiece) for the home side, but the pendulum has swung in recent years.

A second victory in as many years for Energumene last season made it three in a row for Ireland after the Henry de Bromhead-trained Put The Kettle On started the ball rolling in 2021.

This year's challenge

There will be no hat-trick this year for Energumene, who was ruled out through injury, but trainer Willie Mullins still has the chance to make it three on the bounce with odds-on favourite El Fabiolo.

A stylish winner of the Arkle at last year's festival, El Fabiolo took his record over fences to a perfect 6-6 when easily accounting for Dinoblue and last year's Champion Chase runner-up Captain Guinness at the Dublin Racing Festival last time.

The stage looks set for a rematch of last year's Arkle and Jonbon is again set to be El Fabiolo's biggest threat, having scored in the Maghull, Celebration, Shloer and Tingle Creek Chases since that defeat by five and a half lengths. Some poor jumping cost him victory last time, but he still leads the British contingent, which is bolstered by runaway Game Spirit Chase winner Edwardstone.

March 2024 Cheltenham: The Ultimate Guide

Fab Fabiolo to deny Jonbon again

BETTING value is usually lurking somewhere in a race of this stature, but four of the last six runnings have been won by horses sent off 5-2 or shorter, and juicy bones to chew on may be in short supply once again, particularly if place betting isn't for you.

Unfortunately, last year's winner Energumene hasn't made the gig in search of a hattrick, but Willie Mullins still manages to roll an odds-on favourite into clear view from his conveyor belt of equine stars - step forward last year's Arkle winner El Fabiolo. The big question this year is whether he will confirm the form with the 2023 second Jonbon in a real Ireland versus Britain, Mullins versus Henderson clash.

Wasted little time over hurdles after a Navan debut success in December 2019 and is now five from 19 over fences.

The son of Arakan has posted some of the best efforts in four of his last five starts, beginning with his ten-length second to Energumene in this race last year on soft ground, before finishing second to Ionbon in Sandown's Grade 1 Celebration Chase.

A successful reappearance in Navan's Grade 2 Fortria Chase followed last November and he bounced back from an uncharacteristically poor effort (pulled up) at Leopardstown in December when third behind El Fabiolo at the Dublin Racing Festival in February. His limitations are exposed in the best company, but he has place claims once again, particularly on testing ground.

Alan King's stable star finished second in three bumpers at the beginning of his career in the 2018-19 season, and then went 3-9 over hurdles between 2019 and 2021, notching a peak official rating of 146 when third in the 2021 Betfair Hurdle at Newbury, but even better was to come over fences.

Despite an inauspicious start when brought down at Warwick in November 2021, he then returned to that venue to score readily by seven lengths, before an impressive 16-length victory in Sandown's Grade 1 Henry VIII Novices' Chase.

Two Grade 2 victories were to follow, at Kempton and Warwick, in preparation for his tidy success in the Arkle over this course and distance in March 2022.

The son of Kayf Tara returned from a break after finishing second in the Grade 1 Maghull Novices' Chase at Aintree with a nine-length Tingle Creek success in December 2022, registering a personal-best Racing Post Rating of 171.

A worrying fallow period would follow, and he didn't win again until he dominated from the front in the Grade 2Game Spirit Chase at Newbury in February, where he bounced back to his best with a 40-length victory from Funambule Sivola.

Deploying similar head-ofaffairs tactics, he should be right in the mix if getting into the same jumping rhythm.

Willie Mullins' leading contender was sourced from France after he ran third in Listed company over hurdles at Auteuil in September 2020.

The son of Spanish Moon subsequently ran three more times over hurdles, winning twice, although his most notable effort was a close second to Jonbon in the Grade 1 Top Novices' Hurdle at Aintree in April 2022, but the switch to chasing has been the making of him.

He began his novice season with a 19-length Fairyhouse success and followed up in impressive fashion in the Irish Arkle at Leopardstown.

He took revenge on Jonbon in last season's Arkle at the Cheltenham Festival, scoring by five and a half lengths, and another Grade 1 victory soon followed at Punchestown.

The seven-year-old has remained unbeaten over fences in two further starts this season, including a commanding victory in the Grade 1 Dublin Chase last time, an effort that earned him a personal-best RPR of 179.

Enjoying a rewarding late flourish to his career with three victories this season in Exeter's Grade 2 Haldon Gold Cup, Newbury's Jim Joel Trophy and a first Grade 1 success since landing Sandown's Tolworth Hurdle in January 2019 when upsetting Ionbon in the rescheduled Clarence House Chase here on Trials day in January.

Even a reproduction of the 160 RPR he registered that day is unlikely to be good enough to reach the first three, though.

Ferny Hollow

9 b/br g Trainer Willie Mullins RPR 168 TS 135 OR 160 1/2211/1/11/1

Joined Willie Mullins for £300,000 in February 2019 shortly after an imposing debut success in an Irish point at Knockanard.

The son of Westerner was 2-4 in bumpers during the 2019-20 season, including landing the Champion Bumper at the Cheltenham Festival, and returned with a hurdling debut victory at Gowran Park in November

He returned from a 380-day break to make a winning debut over fences at Punchestown in December 2021, and registered a RPR of 168 when winning in Grade 1 company at Leopardstown later that month.

Clearly in the mix in terms of ability, and recently overcame an absence of 791 days to win the Grade 3 Newlands Chase at Naas in easy fashion, but Willie Mullins was unsure if this would come too soon in the immediate aftermath of that success, and he is lukewarm on the exchanges.

Gentleman De Mee

8 b g Trainer Willie Mullins RPR 170 TS 151 OR 164 22/10/752111/U4614-24 Another from the Willie Mullins yard who enters the conversation in terms of the pick of his form, including when achieving a peak RPR of 170 with victory in the Grade 1 Dublin Chase in 2023 on yielding ground.

Yet to run to form in three efforts since, and is now 4-12over fences, but could be one to perform better than his odds suggest should we have a dry spring.

Jonbon

8 b g Trainer Nicky Henderson

RPR 171 TS 158 OR 170 11/11121/111211-112

Consistent excellence has been the hallmark of Jonbon's career with 12 wins from his 15starts under rules, and the JP McManus-owned gelding is yet to finish outside of the first two in any race.

He joined Nicky Henderson for £570,000 shortly after an emphatic Irish pointing victory at Dromahane in November 2020 and went 4-5 over hurdles in the 2021-22 season, including victory in the Grade 1 Top Novices' Hurdle at Aintree in April 2022.

He ran out an impressive winner on his chasing debut at Warwick in November of that year, and then won the Grade 1 Henry VIII Novices' Chase at Sandown by eight lengths.

The son of Walk In The Park was then less impressive in his Cheltenham prep run in the Kingmaker back at Warwick. before finishing second behind El Fabiolo in the Arkle here.

The season was to finish on a high, however, with two Grade 1 successes - in the Maghull Novices' Chase at Aintree and the Celebration Chase at Sandown.

This season began equally promisingly, with an emphatic victory over this course and distance in the Grade 2 Shloer Chase and another success on desperate ground in the Grade 1 Tingle Creek at Sandown.

Perhaps he was feeling the effects of that gruelling race when narrowly beaten at odds of 1-4 - he almost fell four out - in the rescheduled Clarence House Chase back at Cheltenham on Trials day. Certainly not one to rule out, but the fact remains that El Fabiolo arrives in much better form as they prepare to lock horns once again.

Others to consider

Towards the beginning of this campaign, the 158-rated Boothill registered a peak RPR of 160 when winning on good ground at Ascot, but his upward curve has faltered with two subsequent falls. He was struggling to get to grips with the front-running Edwardstone at Newbury on heavy ground last time, but may have more to offer on better ground here.

The 156-rated Appreciate It, the 2021 Supreme Novices' Hurdle winner, has top-six claims back at Cheltenham over a shorter trip, while the inconsistent Editeur Du Gite warrants a mention with a course victory over Edwardstone on his CV.

Verdict

Willie Mullins may land this race for a third successive year courtesy of last year's Arkle winner EL FABIOLO.

The seven-year-old is unbeaten over fences and arrives on the back of a best RPR when winning the Grade 1 Dublin Chase at Leopardstown in February.

That improved effort suggests he can confirm last season's Arkle form with Jonbon, who is admittedly capable of better than when a close second on the New course here on his latest start.

New forcing tactics showed 2022 Arkle winner Edwardstone in a really positive light in the Game Spirit at Newbury, and he may represent some place value or for the forecast behind the selection - if getting into a good jumping rhythm up front.

Jonbon, though, had him more than nine lengths away in second when they clashed over course and distance in November - a deficit reduced to under three lengths at Sandown three weeks later - and retains second-choice status.

Wednesday 4.10 Glenfarclas Cross Country Chase

JOHNNY DINEEN

1 Minella Indo 2 Galvin 3 Delta Work

The class horses should come to the fore here, with the three Grade 1 winners having a major edge over the remainder of the field. Minella Indo seemed to take to this course extremely well in December and is a potent adversary for last vear's 1-2. Delta Work and Galvin. These three are standouts, and whoever beats Minella Indo will probably win. Galvin shaped extremely well when beaten five lengths when fourth in the Boyne Hurdle. He rates the biggest danger.

SAM HARDY

Minella Indo 2 Delta Work 3 Coko Beach

Connections of Minella Indo would have been thrilled with his debut run over the cross-country course at Cheltenham in December when finishing fourth, and will be hopeful of victory now he runs off level weights. The 2021 Gold Cup winner was successful in a Grade 3 three runs back and is the class act in this field. Last year's winner Delta Work won't give up his crown easily and I expect him to make a race of it, but he may have to settle for second place this time.

PAUL KEALY

Minella Indo 2 Delta Work 3 Galvin

Minella Indo was a massive evecatcher when trying this course for the first time in December and it surprisingly took a while for him to take his rightful place at the head of the market. He has been a better horse than Delta Work and Galvin, and can prove he still is here.

TOM PARK

1 Galvin

2 Coko Beach 3 Minella Indo

Minella Indo is favourite for this, and it is easy to see why given he is a past winner of the Gold Cup and Albert Bartlett. However, I'm going to opt for Galvin, who was second in this race on soft ground last year but can reverse the form with Delta Work granted better conditions. Coko Beach could be a decent price and he was good over the banks at Punchestown. He could prove an each-way play.

1 Coko Beach 2 Delta Work 3 Minella Indo

Coko Beach looked a total natural on his first foray over the cross-country obstacles at Punchestown last time and could be underestimated if taking up his entry here. He's an incredibly likeable and consistent performer. Dual winner Delta Work, who is going for the hat-trick, is preferred over 2021 Gold Cup winner Minella Indo.

MATT WILLIAMS

1 Minella Indo 2 Galvin 3 Delta Work

Minella Indo shouldered a big weight when running a big trial for this when fourth over course and distance in December. That run really latched me on to the cross-country race, and I might even take a passing interest for once.

Riding offences

DANGEROUS

Jockey caused serious interference by:

(a) purposely interfering with another horse or jockey; or (b) riding in a way likely to endanger safety of a horse or jockey. Horse: disqualified;

Jockey ban: 10-28 days or refer to BHA

CARELESS

Jockey failed to take reasonable steps to avoid causing interference or caused interference by inattention or misjudgement, including when manoeuvring for position.

Horse: demoted behind affected horse(s) only if interference has improved its placing (no allowance to be made for any ground an incident might have cost the offender).

Jockey ban: 1-9 days or caution.

Covers improper use of the whip or striking other jockeys or horses and other forms of misconduct (includes dangerous riding that did not cause serious interference).

Jockey ban: 1-21 days or caution; whip abuse: 1-12 days, caution or refer

ACCIDENTAL

Jockey took reasonable steps to prevent the interference or it was beyond jockey's control: eq horse hangs despite jockey's attempts to prevent it; or hangs or runs down an obstacle without warning. Rule 153, amended March 2006

Wednesday 4.50 Grand Annual Handicap Chase

JOHNNY DINEEN

1 Maskada 2 My Mate Mozzie 3 Saint Segal

A devilishly difficult handicap as always and with a frantic early gallop assured it is vital the winner can travel comfortably and jump with alacrity. Maskada won this event last year and may be up to going back to back. While she hasn't really produced any similar form since last season, that win last March was a bolt out of the blue, so I'm trusting Henry de Bromhead to have her spot on once again. My Mate Mozzie and Saint Segal are others I respect.

SAM HARDY

1 My Mate Mozzie 2 Calico 3 Master Chewy

I am hoping connections of My Mate Mozzie opt for the Arkle, but if they decide to run here their eight-year-old has every chance of landing this from his mark of 146. I am also expecting a big run from Dan Skelton's Calico, twice a runner-up from three starts this season. The eight-year-old ran Jonbon to within five lengths last season and if running to that level he must have every chance.

PAUL KEALY

1 Libberty Hunter 2 Saint Roi 3 Maskada

Libberty Hunter beat a decent novice well at this track when last seen and had a bit up his sleeve, too. His trainer mentioned this or the Red Rum at Aintree for him afterwards, and he has been kept fresh for the spring. The classy Saint Roi has possibilities going handicapping, while Maskada's runaway win from Dinoblue last year is strong form. She could go well again despite a much higher mark.

TOM PARK

1 Saint Roi 2 My Mate Mozzie 3 Calico

Saint Roi holds plenty of back class and looks to have been primed for this. An effortless winner of the 2020 County Hurdle, he has run well at the past two festivals, finishing third in the Champion Hurdle and Arkle. He's a proper Grade 1 horse running in a handicap and could prove way better than these. Connections will be happy with his mark of 152, just 2lb higher than his Irish chase mark and 1lb lower than his hurdle rating.

MADDY PLAYLE

1 In Excelsis Deo 2 Libberty Hunter 3 Harper's Brook

In Excelsis Deo was unfortunate to come to grief at Sandown last time but showed good form behind Madara at Cheltenham before then and seems to have a fantastic profile for this race. He could still be well-in. Fellow course winner Libberty Hunter is a similarly strong-travelling type, while if putting in his best, Harper's Brook could surely contribute off his rating.

MATT WILLIAMS

1 Saint Roi 2 In Excelsis Deo 3 Unexpected Party

Saint Roi boasts loads of Graded chase form, some of it good, some of it garbage, but he is a classy type on his day and can come out on top, adding a Grand Annual to his 2020 County Hurdle victory. The pace is sure to be strong, which is what he wants, and that will also suit Unexpected Party, who can run into a place at least.

Wednesday 5.30 Weatherbys Champion Bumper

JOHNNY DINEEN

1 Cantico 2 Fleur Au Fusil 3 Jalon D'Oudairies

With not a lot of form to go on and Willie Mullins more than likely to have multiple entries, the Champion Bumper always represents probably the poorest betting medium of the whole four days. Gordon Elliott is another who could have quite a few entries, so any selection from me would very much be a token one. Without knowing jockey arrangements, I'll take a chance on Cantico, who was a costly failure at Leopardstown, but won very well on his next start at

1 Cantico 2 Teeshan 3 Jasmin De Vaux

You could make a case for each of Willie Mullins' runners, but the one who catches my eye is Cantico, who won a decent point-to-point. Expectations were high for his first start under rules but he finished a disappointing third, having shown greenness His last run proved he had matured, though, when routing his rivals at Navan, and further progress can be expected. Teeshan was an impressive winner on his only start for Paul Nicholls and could prove best of the British-trained runners

PAUL KEALY

You Oughta Know 2 Cantico 3 Jalon D'Oudairies

You Oughta Know and Cantico appeal the most of the Closutton brigade. Jalon D'Oudairies has decent form and can make the places. However, it's all guesswork at this stage, so take it with a pinch of salt.

TOM PARK

1 Maughreen 2 Jalon D'Oudairies 3 Teeshan

You get the sense Willie Mullins has a soft spot for Maughreen, and I'd be surprised if she isn't the pick of Patrick Mullins for this as her rout at Punchestown on her only start looked special. The 66-1 third, The Lord Maid, won next time, so the form has some substance. Jalon D'Oudairies has arguably the strongest form in the race and shouldn't be overlooked, and neither should Teeshan.

ODDS PERCENTAGES

1 The Yellow Clay 2 Maughreen 3 Jalon D'Oudairies

Jeroboam Machin is out for the season but the Grade 2 bumper at Leopardstown still looks the piece of form to follow and The Yellow Clay, who came fourth, was unlucky not to finish closer as he was stopped for a run at a crucial stage. Maughreen lengthened in encouraging style at Punchestown. Gordon Elliott's Jalon D'Oudairies has the form in the book to go close, too.

MATT WILLIAMS

1 Maughreen 2 Mywayofthinkin 3 You Oughta Know

Walk In The Park mares don't usually get my heart pumping, but Maughreen did, and you couldn't help but be blown away by her debut win at Punchestown in January. Out of a half-sister to Faugheen, the story so far makes sense and I hope she can announce herself on the biggest stage. Bumper form this season feels a bit weird and untested, so I'll stop there. My picks for the places are a bit guessy, too, as a result.

●Bookmakers stay in business by betting overround. The true chances in a three-horse race might be evens, 2-1 & 5-1 (50+33.3+16.7 = 100%). In practice the odds might be 4-5, 7-4 & 9-2 (55.6+36.4+18.2 = 110%) for an overround of 10%. This would give the bookm theoretical profit of 9% (ten divided by 110).

•To calculate the percentage each price is worth, add a point and divide into 100. So 3-1 becomes four into 100, equals 25.

1 Facile Vega 2 Iroko 3 Ginny's Destiny

Ante-post favourite Ginny's Destiny brings top-class handicap form to the table, but does have rivals who have been competing at Grade 1 level to contend with. While he is admirable and a most beautiful iumper, this is unquestionably a rise in class with the likes of Facile Vega, Gaelic Warrior and Iroko all potential opponents. Gaelic Warrior has questions to answer and Iroko has had a poor prep, so it's Facile Vega, who gets his first try at 2m4f, who gets my vote.

SAM HARDY

Ginny's Destiny 2 Facile Vega 3 American Mike

Paul Nicholls won the race last year with Stage Star and has every chance of another winner this year with Ginny's Destiny. The eight-year-old boasts a solid record at Cheltenham with three wins from four runs. including course wins on his last two starts. The form of his penultimate run where he beat the likes of Grey Dawning and Crebilly looks solid. Facile Vega would be of interest if connections decide to run here, having disappointed at trips around two miles this season.

PAUL KEALY

Grey Dawning 2 Ginny's Destiny 3 Facile Vega

You're likely to get loads wrong making suggestions this early, but if my reading of the vibes about Fact To File's destination are right I can see Grey Dawning coming here and going off favourite. He'd have beaten Ginny's Destiny conceding 3lb but for a bad mistake two out when they met here. Jumping is Ginny's Destiny's strong point, though, and he's a player. So is Facile Vega should he make an overdue step up in

TOM PARK

Gaelic Warrior 2 Grey Dawning 3 Facile Vega

I'm going to take a chance that Willie Mullins rolls the dice and sends Gaelic Warrior here. He clearly goes better right-handed, but his run at Leopardstown was too bad to have just been due to jumping right at his fences. A bigger field here should help him get extra cover, and his first two chasing performances are arguably the best pieces of form in the entire novice division over fences this season.

MADDY PLAYLE

1 Ginny's Destiny 2 Iroko 3 Djelo

Ginny's Destiny is this year's handicap improver like his stablemate and last year's winner Stage Star, and could be the main beneficiary of Fact To File heading to the Brown Advisory. Last year's easy Martin Pipe scorer Iroko made a deep impression on his chasing debut and is set to make it back in time for this, while Djelo has solid form to his name and may find an effective rhythm.

MATT WILLIAMS

1 Grey Dawning 2 Facile Vega 3 Ginny's Destiny

The novice chase won by Ginny's Destiny at Cheltenham in December holds the key to this race. Put simply, if Grey Dawning didn't make a jolting mistake at the second-last, he would be a point shorter for this because he'd have won by a cosy length or two. Ginny's Destiny has improved since, but so, too, has Grey Dawning, as he proved when winning a 3m Grade 2 at Warwick in January. Dan Skelton has trained some good horses in his career, and this grey might be the best yet.

JOHNNY DINEEN

1 Springwell Bay 2 Icare Allen 3 Chantry House

Another really difficult event with a huge field. A couple who look to have been specifically laid out for this are Icare Allen and Chantry House. The latter has dropped markedly in the weights and had a lovely prep on his recent start at Huntingdon. Icare Allen has been put away since qualifying for this event in November, and with his powerful connections he has to be feared. The one for me, however, is Springwell Bay, who has terrific course form and will be suited by this stiff test.

SAM HARDY

1 Bold Endeavour 2 Farouk D'Alene 3 Gaoth Chuil

Nicky Henderson's Bold Endeavour was fifth in last season's Coral Cup and should be seen to better effect over this longer trip. Although winless in his last eight starts, the eight-year-old has finished runner-up in four of them and has dropped 1lb from his latest start. Farouk D'Alene is potentially well handicapped on his hurdle mark of 154, having reached a chase mark of 155 just two runs back, and is Gordon Elliott's best chance of another winner in the race.

PAUL KEALY

White Rhino 2 Alpesh Amin 3 Lord Snootie

Having finished second and first here early in the season, White Rhino qualified with a third place at Huntingdon and has been kept to the same mark. He has to go well. Alpesh Amin seems to be improving at the right time, while Lord Snootie has long looked well handicapped and finally hit form when just failing to catch Cuthbert Dibble last time.

TOM PARK

I've had Springwell Bay in mind for this race for some time and I'm still keen on his chances. He has terrific course form and looks ahead of the handicapper, I do fear Farouk D'Alene, who was about to give L'Homme Presse a real race before coming down in the Brown Advisory two years ago and his second in a qualifier last time proved he still has plenty of ability. A mark of 154 makes life difficult, but a 5lb or 7lb claimer makes it a much easier assignment. I will probably back them both.

MADDY PLAYLE

1 Cuthbert Dibble 2 Icare Allen 3 Springwell Bay

Cuthbert Dibble made a seamless return to action at Chepstow and duly qualified for this afterwards at Haydock when fending off a late charge. Icare Allen ran an eyecatching race to finish third at Aintree in October and he has presumably been kept fresh for this. A former Triumph fourth, he makes obvious appeal. Springwell Bay advertised his claims for this at the track in November.

MATT WILLIAMS

1 White Rhino 2 Hyland 3 Gaoth Chuil

White Rhino is just a solid, hard-knocking, staying handicapper who probably doesn't have a lot in hand at the weights. He never runs a bad race, and performed creditably last time at Huntingdon, a venue not suited to his strengths as he is at his best on a stiff track. His improvement over the course of a year is remarkable and you could make a good case for him winning this. Nicky Henderson has a few enticing options, with Hyland appealing most.

Cheltenham: The Ultimate Guide March 2024

Thursday 2.50 Ryanair Chase

JOHNNY DINEEN

1 Banbridge 2 Envoi Allen 3 Fugitif

Banbridge is a clear form pick, but will need a soundish surface to even be given the go-ahead to take part. It's a pretty deep race, though, and cases can be made for plenty with the likes of Stage Star and Envoi Allen also holding solid claims. Banbridge is a classy horse, however, and his victory over Pic D'Orhy at Kempton really does look top-class form, and this Grade 1-winning chaser is a confident choice as long as he gets his favoured ground.

SAM HARDY

1 Appreciate It 2 Banbridge 3 Stage Star

Trainer Willie Mullins has won this race five times in the past eight years and his best chance of another success this year looks to lie with Appreciate It. Although yet to win this season, the ten-year-old was an unlucky runner-up behind Fastorslow in the John Durkan Chase at Punchestown in November. The 2021 Supreme Novices' Hurdle winner often shows his best form at the festival and I am expecting a big run.

PAUL KEALY

1 Banbridge 2 Fugitif 3 Hitman

I think Banbridge will win if the ground is no worse than good to soft, but couldn't back him yet as he probably won't run if it's any slower. There are others with better form chances than the two I've picked for second and third, but with strong favourites in the Champion Chase and Gold Cup, we could get a bigger-than-usual field here and a strong pace will suit both. They can go well at big prices.

TOM PARK

Stage Star 2 Banbridge 3 Appreciate It

Stage Star clearly goes well fresh and loves it here at Cheltenham, so I'm more than happy to forgive him for his mishap when shouldering a huge weight here on New Year's Day. Paul Nicholls is a genius and has given him plenty of time to recover and I think we'll see a completely different performance. It's hard to forget just how impressive he was in the Paddy Power.

MADDY PLAYLE

1 Banbridge 2 Fil Dor 3 Protektorat

Ground could be key this year because if conditions are decent then Banbridge looks a solid proposition after his defeat of the subsequent Ascot Chase hero Pic D'Orhy at Kempton. At the time of writing, Protektorat makes each-way appeal but could be best if it rains. Fil Dor has shaped as if this trip could unlock improvement, and he is still relatively unexposed.

MATT WILLIAMS

1 Stage Star 2 Envoi Allen 3 Banbridge

Stage Star's love affair with Cheltenham was tested in a handicap chase on New Year's Day when he was pulled up as 11-10 favourite. Paul Nicholls gave himself the buffer of time, just in case that plan went awry - and it did - but I'm expecting him to bounce back in style. Harry Cobden, the best there is on either side of the Irish Sea, will look to dominate from the front. Envoi Allen and Banbridge (good ground will force a saver) are both lively opponents who are worthy of respect.

Last year's hero in front rank again

TRENDS James Hill

As many as 13 of the last 16 winners raced prominently

This is an eyecatching statistic. Following Allaho's double strike in 2021 and 2022 (right), in which he ran the field ragged, last year we had another winner who raced front rank in Envoi Allen. His victory was also a third straight success for owners Cheveley Park Stud.

Interestingly, Envoi Allen was the fifth winner in the last ten years who had recorded their previous best RPR over at least three miles. Another stat that highlights how important stamina is in this race is that he was the eighth winner to have contested a King George. That race has been a fine guide for this event. Between 2006-14, seven had taken part in the Kempton Grade 1 before going on to score here.

Envoi Allen was also the seventh winner in the last 14 runnings to have previously scored at the festival. This year he'll be seeking his fourth success at the meeting.

Envoi Allen came out well on last year's trends and he's even stronger this time round, having matched his personal-best Racing Post Rating when second over three miles at Down Royal last time. Banbridge, another previous festival winner, also fares well on the stats.

Home or away?

Recent record

Envoi Allen continued owner Cheveley Park Stud's stranglehold on the Ryanair last season, adding to Allaho's successes in the previous two years, and extended the recent Irish dominance in the race, making it seven out of the last eight runnings for the away side.

Willie Mullins, who saddled Allaho, is the leading trainer in the Ryanair with five victories.

But British-based runners had taken the race every year since its inception in 2005 until 2015, with Nicky Henderson, David Pipe and Ionio O'Neill all successful twice, while Paul Nicholls has won it three times and provided the most recent winner (Frodon, 2019) for the home team.

This year's challenge

With Allaho ruled out, connections will be hoping that Envoi Allen can back up last year's success and take his Cheltenham Festival haul to four, having also won the Champion Bumper (2019) and Ballymore (2020).

Banbridge won as a novice at Aintree's Grand National meeting last year and had no problem accounting for Pic D'Orhy when tackling open company for the first time at Kempton on his reappearance.

Last year's Gold Cup third Conflated is an interesting candidate for this drop in trip, while last year's Turners winner Stage Star leads the line for Britain.

HARRY WILSON

Envoi can deliver more of same

ALTHOUGH generally viewed as the least prestigious of the five major races at the Cheltenham Festival since its inception in 2005, some of the best chasers of recent times can be found on the honours list, including Allaho, who won in devastating fashion in both 2021 and 2022.

For a second consecutive season, however, Willie Mullins' top-class chaser has been denied his chance to become the first-ever three-time winner of the race, suffering a sprained hock when winning at Thurles in January, an injury that will force him to miss the festival.

As a result, the race has a wide-open look to it, with Ireland, responsible for seven of the last eight winners, again expected to have a strong representation and Envoi Allen, who filled in admirably for Allaho's owner Cheveley Park Stud when winning 12 months ago, on target for a repeat in 2024.

Powered up the hill to win the 2022 Martin Pipe and immediately created a smart impression over fences, winning his first two starts, including a Grade 2 novice at Cheltenham in November 2022, with there being no shame in subsequent defeats by Mighty Potter, on ground that was too soft, and subsequent Arkle winner El Fabiolo, over a 2m1f trip short of his best in the Irish Arkle last February.

Missed last year's Turners on account of soft ground, but made his Grade 1 breakthrough in the Manifesto at Aintree, and recorded a career-best by some way on January's belated reappearance in the Grade 2 Silviniaco Conti at Kempton, overcoming some uncharacteristically sloppy iumping to run down low-end Grade 1 performer Pic D'Orhy.

More will be required again, but after just six chase starts he is very much open to further improvement.

Went for Gold Cup glory at last year's festival and arguably ran a career-best, fading late to finish just over 13 lengths third behind Galopin Des Champs, and showed more than enough in the Champion Chase at Down Royal in November to suggest he retains nearly all of his ability, running on to finish just a length behind runner-up Envoi Allen.

Was running well in defeat when unseating at the last in both the Savills and Irish Gold Cup this time around, and no surprise to see a big run from him here if ridden positively dropping in trip.

Envoi Allen

10 b g Trainer Henry de Bromhead RPR 167 TS 159 OR 164 1/1111/1111/111F/P1613/31714-32

He never did fulfil his superstar potential, winning the first 11 starts of his career, including the Champion Bumper in 2019 and the Ballymore the following year, before things fell off after leaving Gordon Elliott ahead of the 2021 Cheltenham Festival, where he fell at the fourth when a red-hot favourite for the Marsh Novices' Chase.

He did manage to bag a small-field Grade 1 en route to finishing third to Energumene in the 2022 Champion Chase, and posted a similar victory last season. He arrived a fresh horse for the Ryanair, having been off since finishing down the field in the King George, and tanked his way through the race under Rachael Blackmore before coming clear up the hill to beat red-hot favourite Shishkin.

Trained with a repeat win in mind and has missed two engagements (one on account of soft ground), so hasn't run since being narrowly denied by Gerri Colombe at Down

Henry de Bromhead's Envoi Allen comes here fresh, as he did last season, and it's hard to knock his festival form figures of 11F31'

Royal in November. That can only be viewed as a good thing with him being best fresh, and he's likely to take some stopping.

Fastorslow

8 b g Trainer Martin Brassil RPR 175 TS 133 OR 170 121/2002/25521-122 Highly progressive chaser in the past 12 months, travelling strongly en route to his second-place finish in the Ultima when just outstayed by subsequent Grand National winner Corach Rambler, and his later defeat of Galopin Des Champs in the Punchestown Gold Cup was a clear career-best.

Again too good for last year's Gold Cup hero in the John Durkan on his reappearance, when displaying plenty of speed on the drop in trip to 2m31/2f, but was no match in the Irish Gold Cup in early February and it's hard to see him improving for the extra yardage of the Gold Cup.

Connections will surely have to give the Ryanair strong consideration.

Stage Star

8 b g Trainer Paul Nicholls RPR 171 TS 156 OR 166 123/111PP/121115-1P Grade 1-winning novice hurdler who was pulled up on testing ground behind Sir Gerhard in the Ballymore in

As with many from the Paul Nicholls' stable, he has shown himself to be a significantly better chaser, and he bossed what turned out to be a weak edition of the Turners last season, getting into a good jumping rhythm and powering up the hill to score from 40-1 outsider Notlongtillmay.

Again proved too good for that rival when defying a mark of 155 in the Paddy Power Gold Cup, this time on the Old course in November, but it all went wrong faced with heavy going on the New course on New Year's Day, when he struggled to pick his feet up out of the deep ground and was pulled up turning for home.

That was far from an ideal prep for the festival, but it's reasonable to expect his master trainer to have him in top shape with so long to prepare him, the question being whether he's good enough to see off the strong Irish challenge.

Since 2005

Others to consider

The Willie Mullins-trained Capodanno is prominent in the betting, being a single-figure price in most places, but there must be some doubt about him participating having looked comfortable over a staying trip when winning the Cotswold Chase at the course on Trials day.

In contrast, a drop in trip could work for Protektorat, who has finished third and fifth in the last two Gold Cups.

He has not been far off his best form the last twice, including when runner-up in the Fleur de Lys Chase at Lingfield, and is another who would benefit from a positive ride if given the nod for this.

Ahead of Protektorat in the Denman Chase at Newbury last time was Hitman, last year's Ryanair third. The Paul Nicholls-trained eight-year-old was last off the bridle at Newbury on his second start since wind surgery, and will be suited by the drop in trip.

Verdict

Last year's Ryanair was a completely different race tactically to the previous two runnings, both blown apart by Allaho, who will sadly be absent once again.

There must be a possibility that Fastorslow diverts to this, with it hard to see him getting the better of old rival Galopin Des Champs over the Gold Cup trip, and he'd likely be sent off favourite, and be the selection, if given the nod.

There are several other Gold Cup-types who would be of interest if they dropped back in trip for this, including Conflated, who fell two out when about to take the runner-up spot behind Allaho in 2022 and was then third in last season's Gold Cup.

Banbridge, who, along with leading British hope Stage Star is dependent on a sound surface, strikes as a vulnerable favourite, so it may well be that ENVOI ALLEN, tipped in this space 12 months ago, can make it four in a row in the race for Cheveley Park Stud.

He hasn't run since missing out narrowly at Down Royal in November, but he came to this race last season straight from the King George, and it's hard to knock his Cheltenham Festival form figures of 11F31.

HOW TO ... READ NEXT RUN

NEXT RUN below each form item tells you how runners have performed since that particular race, enabling you to gauge the strength of a race. It shows the win, place and unplaced record of the first three finishers and the rest of the field on their next start as well as giving you a strength indicator - hot and cold races are denoted by red and blue blobs respectively.

•Reads subsequent races of the same code only •Covers form in Britain and Ireland, excluding the previous day's results Place definition is as standard each-way betting rules •Hot race = four or more of the runners won their next race OR 50% or more won or were placed next time, and at least two won

Cold race = six or more of the runners have run since, none have won and fewer than 33% were placed.

2 Crambo 3 Teahupoo

With plenty of old stagers involved, I am going to concentrate completely on the younger generation. The ones to consider are the Gordon Elliott-trained pair Teahupoo and Irish Point, as well as Long Walk winner Crambo. Irish Point may well be less ground-dependent than Teahupoo and the conditions may well decide who Jack Kennedy opts to ride on the day, so right now it has got to be Irish Point, although I would have healthy respect for big improver Crambo.

SAM HARDY

1 Botox Has 2 Irish Point 3 Paisley Park

With only two winning favorites in the past ten years this race has not been kind to punters, and I fancy an upset again this season in the shape of the Gary Moore-trained Botox Has. The improving eight-year-old has won two Grade 2s this season and could run a big race on only his second start in Grade 1 company. There was talk of connections bypassing this race in order to go to Aintree instead, but having won twice here in the past I think they will take their

PAUL KEALY

1 Irish Point 2 Teahupoo 3 Sire Du Berlais

Gordon Elliott said he was half thinking about running Irish Point in the Champion Hurdle, but the horse didn't seem to have any problems with the 2m71/2f trip at Leopardstown in December, and he is less ground-dependent than the same connections' Teahupoo, who ideally wants it soft enough to rule Banbridge out of the Ryanair. Sire Du Berlais has won two Pertemps and a Stavers,' and also finished second in a Stayers, and will go well again despite his age.

TOM PARK

I Irish Point 2 Paisley Park 3 Teahupoo

Irish Point has a class edge over these. He clearly loved the step up to 2m71/2f last time and is unexposed over staying trips. He was good over shorter, too, winning a Grade 1 at Aintree and getting to within a head of Marine Nationale over two miles. Paisley Park can run another heroic race in defeat, while Teahupoo is sure to be there at the finish.

MADDY PLAYLE

1 Crambo 2 Sir Gerhard 3 Paisley Park

Crambo always looked as if he was going to get on top of Paisley Park in the Long Walk and I like the fact he has been left fresh for this. He's an unexposed type in a race full of question marks. Sir Gerhard has the class, if not the jumping technique, to go close, while on this season's form the wonderful Paisley Park can't be knocked out of the frame. A strong pace would help him.

MATT WILLIAMS

1 Crambo 2 Teahupoo 3 Dashel Drasher

Crambo's Long Walk victory makes him a serious top-of-the-tree staying hurdler. This track is made for him, it'll be his first visit, but everything about his running style suggests he's going to love the test. Dashel Drasher probably can't win, but he's still running well enough to make the frame as can Teahupoo. Irish Point is a serious horse, but stamina doubts remain. He needs to prove himself at the trip in a strongly run race.

Veteran Sire Du Berlais up for repeat

TRENDS James Hill

Look at either past winners coming back for more or second-season hurdlers

There have been four multiple Stayers' winners since the turn of the century, which is a pretty good record, but more recently, seven of the last ten winners were in their second season over hurdles. This included three winners between 2018-20 who had all run in the previous season's Albert Bartlett. To add to this, five of the last seven winners were aged seven, although they are outnumbered in this year's entry by a plethora of veterans.

The Stayers' is not the strongest trends race at Cheltenham, but I do think the following is eyecatching: as many as eight of the last 14 winners had recorded a top-three finish at the previous season's Grand National meeting – that's over half. Who said Aintree form was worth nothing at the festival?

This has to be the most extraordinary race at this year's festival with 18 of the 29 entries aged nine or older at the time of writing, and if you take last year's race into account, the stats actually work out for the 12-year-old Sire Du Berlais to strike again. A former winner, a French-bred and a horse who also won at last season's National meeting, he could yet surprise us again. Long Walk victor Crambo comes out well for the youngsters.

Home or away?

Recent record

The British dominated this at the turn of the century, winning it nine times in a row between 2004 and 2012, three-time scorer Inglis Drever and four-time hero Big Buck's among them.

However, the tide has turned firmly in Ireland's favour, the away team having won the last three runnings and five of the last seven. Flooring Porter, trained by Gavin Cromwell, was responsible for two of those victories, while Gordon Elliott landed his first Stayers' Hurdle last year with Sire Du Berlais.

This year's challenge

Ireland's team could be the strongest it has assembled, led by the Elliott-trained joint-favourites Teahupoo and Irish Point. The former finished third in the race last year and returned this season with another victory in the Hatton's Grace Hurdle, while the latter thrived when stepping up in trip in Leopardstown's Christmas Hurdle last time.

Elliott is also set to run last year's hero Sire Du Berlais, now a three-time Cheltenham Festival winner, while Cleeve Hurdle scorer Noble Yeats and the resurgent Monkfish also give the visiting team a formidable look.

Crambo, winner of a thrilling Long Walk Hurdle last time, heads the home defence for trainer Fergal O'Brien. Evergreen fan favourite Paisley Park, winner in 2019, and last year's runner-up, fellow veteran Dashel Drasher, are also set to line up.

Teahupoo's time for starring role

Analysis

A RACE quite capable of throwing up a shock result, as evidenced last season with the veteran Sire Du Berlais (33-1) leading home fellow outsider Dashel Drasher (40-1).

Sire Du Berlais' trainer Gordon Elliott again holds the key to this year's race, with last season's third Teahupoo the current market leader, while the same owners' Irish Point, who is vying for favouritism in some lists, also has the option of this race.

Ireland has won five of the last seven runnings and again dominate the betting, with Crambo the only British runner currently trading at single-figure odds.

Despite Sire Du Berlais winning as an 11-year-old last season, this has been a race for younger horses in recent times, with eight of the last ten winners aged either six or

Just under 12 months on from winning the EBF Final at Sandown, Crambo has emerged as a much-needed British challenger for this

Although well beaten behind Irish Point in a Grade 1 novice at Aintree last spring, the seven-vear-old has managed to progress out of handicaps in the first part of the season, showing a great attitude to edge out veteran Paisley Park in December's Long Walk at Ascot, form that has subsequently been nicely franked.

He has been kept fresh with this race in mind, and a sounder surface seems to suit ideally, but he has won on heavy and appears to have the right tools for the race.

Switched to fences this season, starting off with a win here in November, but hasn't matched that in two Graded events back in Ireland. As a result, is being given serious consideration for this race once again, with the National Hunt Chase, not the Brown Advisory, as the alternative.

Ran well as an outsider in the 2022 running of this, rallying up the hill to finish sixth, and following an improved start to the last campaign, winning the Grade 1 Christmas Hurdle at Leopardstown in December, he was sent off just 9-1 for last year's edition.

Could manage only fifth, but was beaten less than four lengths and did make a bad mistake early in the race, so no surprise to see a big run from him this time around, despite needing to bounce back from a modest effort in the Christmas Hurdle at Leopardstown in December.

That win hinted at a big future as a stayer for the sixvear-old, although it's still unclear whether he'll take his place in the line-up with the same connections' Teahupoo just ahead of him in the market. Will be a major player if given the go-ahead.

Fell short at the top level over two miles but has won the Hatton's Grace twice. including on his reappearance in December, his only run this season, and finished third in this race when favourite last year, travelling well into the straight and not failing through lack of stamina.

Needs to have improved, but is now a year older and has been kept fresh this time around. Everything appears in place for the seven-year-old to put up a bold show.

Verdict

A good pace will be assured if two-time winner Flooring Porter reverts to hurdles for this, something that will really suit the likes of Crambo, Home By The Lee, last year's surprise winner Sire Du Berlais and 2022 Grand National winner Noble Yeats, all of whom stay really well.

Irish Point would be a major player if lining up, fitting the bill as a young, highly progressive stayer, but the same connections'

TEAHUPOO ran so well to finish third last season when just a six-year-old, despite meeting some interference on the run-in, that another big effort seems assured.

Kept fresh for the race, expect him to be played late and prove too good for several exposed, older types. Crambo, another progressive youngster and Britain's leading hope, is the main danger.

Thursday 4.10 TrustATrader Plate Handicap Chase

JOHNNY DINEEN

1 Crebilly 2 Theatre Man 3 Shakem Up'Arry

Of all the handicaps at the meeting, this one offers my most solid selection in Crebilly, who arrives here on a lenient-looking handicap mark of 140. Considering the Jonjo O'Neill-trained runner was about to beat Ginny's Destiny when unluckily falling in a chase on the Old course here in November, his current rating looks to have plenty of wriggle room As long as he can avoid bad luck on the way round, then I'd be amazed if he's not on the premises, and he rates a confident choice.

SAM HARDY

Lounge Lizard 2 Theatre Man 3 Saint Roi

I am keen on the chances of the Henry Daly-trained Lounge Lizard, based on his latest run when runner-up to Ga Law over this course and distance. Running off a mark of 130 that day, the handicapper has raised him only 3lb for that effort and he looks well in. Theatre Man was runner-up to Ginny's Destiny last time and a repeat effort would see him go close again.

PAUL KEALY

Firm Footings 2 Idalko Bihoue 3 Saint Felicien

Firm Footings has yet to go beyond 2m over fences but is a half-brother to Monty's Star, and he's surely going to be seen to better effect at this trip. Idalko Bihoue looked good when he won here earlier in the season and he'll be fresh after not running since well beaten at Kempton on his first run on a right-handed track. Saint Felicien has earned his chase mark on deep ground and wants it much quicker, so he'll be interesting if it's

TOM PARK

1 Ga Law 2 II Ridoto 3 Crebilly

I had Crebilly on my radar for this but his price has continued to get shorter and shorter to a point where I am happy to let him win. This race, more than most, is a real horses-for-courses contest so I am going to side with track specialists Ga Law and Il Ridoto. Both appear relatively exposed, but Ga Law jumped as good as he ever has here last time and his engine has never been in doubt. He might just prove a class above the opposition, while it's hard to see Il Ridoto being out of the mix

Theatre Man 2 Letsbeclearaboutit 3 Madara

Theatre Man has been running well in decent handicaps all season and stayed on to eyecatching effect over course and distance behind Turners contender Ginny's Destiny last time. His prominent racing style is another plus. Letsbeclearaboutit is a little trip-less but clearly talented and has gone well here. Dublin Racing Festival winner Madara is also in the picture.

MATT WILLIAMS

Life In The Park 2 Theatre Man 3 Crebilly

Life In The Park has been a huge disappointment since going over fences. The start of his downturn in form coincided with his last visit to Cheltenham, when he disgraced himself in finishing last in a three-runner race. Winless for more than 18 months, he is a longshot worth backing, because if (a big if) he ever produces his best form again his falling rating means a big pot like this should be well within his range. I thought he'd be winning a Ryanair Chase by now, but I was miles off. It's now or never

84 Cheltenham: The Ultimate Guide March 2024

Thursday 4.50 Ryanair Mares' Novices' Hurdle

JOHNNY DINEEN

1 Golden Ace2 Brighterdaysahead3 Dysart Enos

This is shaping up as one of the contests of the festival with the two Irish big guns going toe to toe with some really smart British-trained mares. Brighterdaysahead has been really hyped up and if she is as good as her reputation then she is going to be difficult to beat. Jade De Grugy has looked smart, as has Dysart Enos, but one at a bigger price who has really impressed me is Golden Ace, and a chance is taken with Jeremy Scott's mare to cause an upset in receipt of weight from the Irish market leaders.

SAM HARDY

1 Brighterdaysahead2 Jade De Grugy3 Joyeuse

The Gordon Elliott-trained Brighterdaysahead is potentially my nap of the meeting. The half-sister to the ill-fated Mighty Potter caught my eye when easily winning a valuable bumper at Fairyhouse last season. She has since won all her three starts over hurdles and should continue to improve in what is likely to be a strongly run race. Jade De Grugy is the obvious danger after an impressive Grade 3 win at Fairyhouse last time.

PAUL KEALY

1 Brighterdaysahead2 Dysart Enos3 Jade De Grugy

Gordon Elliott has made no secret of the regard in which he holds Brighterdaysahead and it's easy to see why given she has won all five of her races (two in bumpers). Dysart Enos would be one of the best bumper horses and has been doing it easily too, while Jade De Grugy is another who is totally unexposed and very talented.

TOM PARK

1 Brighterdaysahead2 Dysart Enos3 Jade De Grugy

Brighterdaysahead has looked a real professional in winning her five races and I'd be surprised if she doesn't prove a class above the opposition here, and she is my nap of the meeting. I respect Dysart Enos a lot, she's a top-class mare, but she's a speedy type, while Brighterdaysahead has stamina and this race has been won by the stronger stayers in the past.

MADDY PLAYLE

1 Dysart Enos2 Jade De Grugy3 Golden Ace

Dysart Enos and Golden Ace fought out the finish in the Grade 2 mares' bumper at Aintree last year and, given how the pair have taken to hurdles, they can once again be in the mix here after flawless campaigns. Willie Mullins will never be far away and Kenny Alexander's latest star, Jade De Grugy, looks an outstanding prospect.

MATT WILLIAMS

1 Dysart Enos2 Fun Fun Fun3 Jade De Grugy

Jade De Grugy and Brighterdaysahead head the betting, but I want to give top spot to Dysart Enos. She maintained her unbeaten run under rules (6-6) at Doncaster last time, with her trainer skilfully keeping her 5lb light compared to some of her main market rivals by avoiding mares' Listed races. That will help her cause big time, and I make her one of the bets of the festival.

●Bookmakers stay in business by betting overround. The true chances in a three-horse race might be evens, 2-1 & 5-1 (50+33.3+16.7 = 100%). In practice the odds might be 4-5, 7-4 & 9-2 (55.6+36.4+18.2 = 110%) for an overround of 10%. This would give the bookmaker a theoretical profit of 9% (ten divided by 110).

•To calculate the percentage each price is worth, add of point and divide into 100. So 3-1 becomes four into 100, eauals 25.

JOHNNY DINEEN

1 Perceval Legallois 2 Amirite 3 Meetingofthewaters

This 3m2f contest on the New course always offers a stiff test and things can change late on, so I'd be looking for one who is not going to be ridden too aggressively. One who fits the bill is Perceval Legallois, who was unlucky to come down at the last in the competitive Leopardstown Handicap Chase at the Dublin Racing Festival, A big fancy for last season's Pertemps Final until a setback meant he had to miss the festival, he now has the opportunity to make up for that disappointment.

SAM HARDY

1 Mister Coffey 2 Meetingofthewaters 3 Perceval Legallois

Mister Coffey could finally have his day in the sun and is the selection. Having started the season on a handicap mark of 142, the nine-year-old has dropped to 138 and should run another solid race.

PAUL KEALY

1 Git Maker 2 Bowtogreatness 3 Angels Dawn

I thought for a while that Good Time Jonny was a major plot for this, but he ran so badly at Fairyhouse recently that I can't back him at his current odds. Git Maker is still unexposed and capable of much better, while Bowtogreatness apparently wasn't as fit as connections thought at Kempton, and will come on again. Ben Pauling has a lot of faith in him.

TOM PARK

1 Cool Survivor 2 Perceval Legallois 3 Amirite

Cool Survivor was sent off 5-1 joint-favourite for the Martin Pipe last season, but finished a disappointing 15th. He was travelling very strongly when coming down three out in a Grade 1 at Aintree on his next start, and I'm convinced he has plenty of ability. I suspect his chase campaign has been geared towards this race and a mark of 137 is well within his compass (he ran off 140 in the Martin

MADDY PLAYLE

1 Good Time Jonny 2 Amirite 3 Rapper

Perhaps one of the most difficult races to figure out at this stage. Last year's Pertemps winner Good Time Johnny has been campaigned typically curiously by Tony Martin, and may have been laid out for this over fences. Amirite has the quality to go well here, while Rapper showed he was on his way back to form with a runner-up effort at Ascot.

MATT WILLIAMS

Good Time Jonny 2 Whacker Clan 3 Trelawne

Good Time Jonny looked like he jumped in at the final hurdle in the Pertemps last year, and Tony Martin. the shrewdie, is going to have him similarly handicapped for this mission over fences. It's too bleedin' obvious, I know, but I'm too scared of missing out on the obvious handicap cert of the week, so there you go. Whacker Clan impressed me when winning at the October meeting, and his trainer must have had this in mind since. This one scares me a

Friday 1.30 JCB Triumph Hurdle

JOHNNY DINEEN

- 1 Sir Gino
- 2 Nurburgring 3 Kargese

This sees one of the most solid short-priced favourites of the week, and it's hard to come up with a realistic danger to Sir Gino. If for some reason he didn't run. it would be 9-2 the field and nigh-on impossible to come up with a solid choice. He just seems to tick all the boxes with track form possibly the most important string to his bow. I'd rate him not just a proper bet in this, but he would also be worth a tickle for next year's Arkle. I can't see him being beaten.

SAM HARDY

1 Sir Gino 2 Kargese 3 Nurburgring

For many, Sir Gino will be Friday's banker and it is hard to oppose him on what we have seen. A winner in France for his former connections, he has since won both starts for trainer Nicky Henderson, including the trial for this race over course and distance in January. The Willie Mullinstrained Kargese was an impressive winner of a Grade 1 last time at Leopardstown and looks the stable's main hope of making it a hat-trick of wins.

PAUL KEALY

1 Sir Gino 2 Ethical Diamond 3 Kargese

Sir Gino was so impressive on Trials day that he is surely going to be hard to beat. I was pleased to see Ethical Diamond missing from the Boodles entries as that means he comes here after his sixth in the Spring Juvenile Hurdle at Leopardstown. I've backed him at a big price because I'm convinced he'll beat those in front of him.

TOM PARK

1 Sir Gino 2 Majborough 3 Storm Heart

Sir Gino looked something really special when winning on Trials day and it's hard to see him getting beat here. Majborough is the pick of the Irish and can take second.

MADDY PLAYLE

- 1 Sir Gino 2 Majborough 3 Storm Heart
- Sir Gino took a huge step forward from his hurdling debut to record a Racing Post Rating of 143 at the track in January, and he looks the clear pick. Although beaten by Kargese at the Dublin Racing Festival, long-term prospect Majborough looks the best of the Irish. Storm Heart was Paul Townend's pick then and could make the places.

MATT WILLIAMS

1 Sir Gino 2 Ethical Diamond

3 Majborough

Sir Gino arrived at Nicky Henderson's yard with a huge reputation after winning at Auteuil last spring. His Kempton win was very good, with room for improvement in his jumping. True to form, Henderson sorted that out and what he did to Burdett Road at Cheltenham on Trials day beggared belief. Who beats him?

TRENDS James Hill

Seven of the last nine winners made their hurdles debut in Britain or Ireland no earlier than December

This has been a trend that has been going on for some time. Between 2005-11 as many as six winners had not started over obstacles before the previous December, with two of them having begun in Britain only in late February, proving the Triumph picture rarely becomes clear until after the new vear.

Another factor that has become more and more telling is the success of French imports. Since Nicky Henderson won the Triumph with such a type in Zaynar (2009, left), there have been as many as nine victorious Gallic imports in the Triumph, including six of the last seven winners.

Verdict

higher.

No surprise Sir Gino scores highly. He fits a lot of recent trends, being a French recruit who didn't start off on these shores until December, and he's also trained by Henderson, who has won this race a record seven times.

Another factor to examine is stamina. There have been festivals recently and looking

Recent record

The British enjoyed a dominant spell when landing all ten runnings between 2003 and 2012.

However, the Irish have stamped their authority recently and have swept up the last four editions. Three of those have gone to Willie Mullins, including the last twice with Vauban and Lossiemouth.

This year's challenge

If Ireland's recent dominance is to be ended this year then Sir Gino could be the one to do it. He surged to the top of the betting following a stunning victory at the track in January and represents the race's leading trainer Nicky Henderson, who has won it seven times.

The Gary Moore-trained Salver, who was highly impressive in the Finale Juvenile Hurdle and followed up in the Victor Ludorum, adds depth to the home team.

Ireland's squad may lack a standout star but has real depth – specifically through Willie Mullins. Kargese landed Grade 1 spoils from stablemates Storm Heart and Majborough at Leopardstown last time, and all three look set to take their chances.

Gordon Elliott could be represented by Wodhooh. An easy winner at Doncaster last time, she is now unbeaten in five starts over hurdles and could be a dark horse

MATT RENNIE

Gino can turn tide for Britain

THE 2023 Triumph Hurdle was totally dominated by Irish stables, with a 50-1 shot in 11th the best the British were able to muster from a mere three runners.

Eight of the last 11 winners have been Irish-trained, the Willie Mullins juggernaut providing three of the last four. But that could all be about to change with Sir Gino looking genuine banker material following his majestic victory on Cheltenham's Trials

Mullins won last year's Triumph with Lossiemouth. who had been beaten by a stablemate in the Spring Iuvenile Hurdle at Leopardstown, and he again dominated that race in February.

Kargese

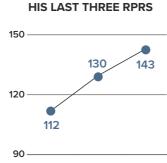

Four-year-old bay filly Trainer Willie Mullins Best hurdles RPR 133 Topspeed 70 Official -Jumps form 12-121

Willie Mullins won all eight of the Grade 1s at Leopardstown's Dublin Racing Festival, among them the Spring Juvenile Hurdle, Ireland's principal trial for the Triumph. He sent out the first four in the race, plus the sixth and eighth for good measure. It was this filly who led them home, travelling rather keenly but proving commendably tough on the run to the line as she saw off favourite Storm Heart and Majborough. Last year Mullins won the Spring Juvenile Hurdle with one filly, Gala Marceau, and the Triumph with another, Lossiemouth. With three runs at Auteuil under her belt for previous connections, and a second to Kala Conti in a Grade 2 on her Irish debut, Kargese has more experience than most in the Triumph field.

Liari

4 b g Trainer Paul Nicholls RPR 126 TS 110 OR 134 111

Bought off the Flat in France, he is 3-3 over hurdles, a debut success at Wincanton being followed by wins at Listed level at Aintree and Musselburgh, A nice prospect with further improvement in him, but the undulating track at Cheltenham may not be what he wants with Paul Nicholls hinting that the Grade 1Anniversary Hurdle at the Grand National meeting could be his major target. In common with Nicholls' last Triumph winner, Zarkandar in 2011, Liari was bred by the Aga Khan. The Boodles is his preferred target though.

Majborough

4 b g Trainer Willie Mullins RPR 138 TS 75 OR -

1-3

Successful on his only start in France, at Auteuil in April of last year, he was very much an unknown quantity when he made his debut in Ireland in the Spring Juvenile Hurdle. However, he ran a race full of promise in chasing home stablemates Kargese and Storm Heart. Perhaps did too much in front, but the way he travelled and jumped left a good impression and he's sure to improve. 00000

Salver

4 b g Trainer Gary Moore RPR 125 TS 90 OR 128 1111

Owner Keith Graves's first horse, whose comfortable victories at Warwick and Exeter were followed by an impressive display in the Grade 2 Finale Hurdle at Chepstow over Christmas. He sluiced through the deep ground at the Welsh track to win by 21 lengths, before then making all for another easy success in the Victor Ludorum Hurdle at Haydock in February. Connections have warned that if the ground is too quick then he'll wait for Aintree.

Sir Gino

4 b g Trainer Nicky Henderson RPR 143 TS 126 OR 145 1-11

Made a winning debut at Auteuil in April last year, after which owners Joe and Marie Donnelly snapped him up. The way Sir Gino breezed clear of Burdett Road up the Cheltenham hill in January was deeply impressive, and if he reproduces that sort of level here then he'll win. The form of his Kempton victory over Christmas, on his debut for Nicky Henderson, has been boosted by wins from the runner-up (twice), third and fourth.

Storm Heart

4 b g Trainer Willie Mullins RPR 139 TS 82 OR -

A Flat winner in France, he showed a fine turn of foot on the way to a wide-margin victory on his hurdling debut at Punchestown, which came in deep ground. That earned him a crack at the Grade 1 at the Dublin Racing Festival and he went off 9-4 favourite, only to find Kargese, another of the Mullins contingent, too strong. Cheltenham's stiffer track will show him to better effect, and his hurdling should improve with experience.

Wodhooh

4 b f Trainer Gordon Elliott RPR 123 TS 107 OR 128

Sir Michael Stoute couldn't prise a win out of her, but the move to Gordon Elliott and a switch to hurdles has transformed this filly. She is unbeaten in five, three wins in Ireland followed by Listed successes at Newbury and Doncaster, both times at the chief expense of Max Of Stars. She needs to up her game, but she travels strongly and is an accomplished jumper.

Others to consider

Gordon Elliott's Kala Conti has a Grade 2 win under her belt and was a respectable fifth in the Spring Juvenile Hurdle, but she looks more a staying type.

A place ahead of her in the Leopardstown Grade 1 was the Willie Mullins-trained Bunting, who deserves to take his chance, while another from Closutton, Ethical Diamond, was an eyecatching sixth and can give a good account here. Paul Nicholls' Kalif Du Berlais impressed on his debut for the yard at Kempton but may miss the festival.

Verdict

This looks at the mercy of SIR GINO, who was so impressive at Cheltenham in his trial. Majborough and Storm Heart can come out best of a strong Willie Mullins representation.

JOHNNY DINEEN

1 Under Control 2 Absurde 3 Iberico Lord

Another cavalry charge where you will invariably need a bit of luck on your side in a race which often ends in a tight finish. JP McManus would look to have a strong hand, and the likes of the Nicky Henderson pair of Iberico Lord and Under Control are of particular interest. Absurde would have a big say, particularly if the ground quickened up a bit, but I'm going to chance Under Control, who ran a cracker behind Ashroe Diamond at Doncaster and is worth a speculative stab.

SAM HARDY

1 Iberico Lord 2 Lisnagar Fortune 3 Hansard

Having won this season's Greatwood Hurdle at Cheltenham and Newbury's Betfair Hurdle last month, it is fair to think Iberico Lord could be running in the Champion Hurdle were it not for superstar stablemate Constitution Hill. This six-year-old has plenty of room for improvement off his mark of 143. Lisnagar Fortune was an impressive winner of a maiden hurdle at Punchestown last time and is possibly Willie Mullins' best chance of adding to his six successes since 2010.

PAUL KEALY

1 Under Control 2 Lisnagar Fortune 3 Guard Your Dreams

Under Control has been on my radar for this since she split two higher-rated rivals in a Listed mares' event at Doncaster. Lisnagar Fortune's second to Readin Tommy Wrong looks better than it did in November. and all he has done is win easily since, while Guard Your Dreams is certainly nicely treated on his best form, and his return from an absence here in January wasn't devoid of promise. Heavy ground was no good to him last time.

TOM PARK

1 Under Control 2 Absurde 3 L'Eau De Sud

Under Control beat a then 120-rated Iberico Lord at Sandown last season off a mark of 128 and that rates a serious piece of form. She now gets 5lb from her stablemate, who is the ante-post favourite for this having won the Greatwood and Betfair Hurdles this season. I thought she'd be competing in Grade 1s this term, but a wind issue came to light when she stopped rather quickly on her seasonal return at Newbury. I think she'll win the Morebattle and then land the 100k bonus here.

MADDY PLAYLE

1 King Of Kingsfield 2 Iberico Lord 3 Lump Sum

The novice hurdlers look to have a strong hand in this year's County Hurdle, particularly the dual Grade 1-placed King Of Kingsfield. He's a strong traveller, which is what you need in this contest. So is the Greatwood and Betfair Hurdle winner Iberico Lord, while the Dovecote scorer Lump Sum would also catch the eye if making a quick reappearance.

MATT WILLIAMS

1 Under Control 2 Impose Toi 3 Absurde

Under Control might be chasing down the bonus money if her Morebattle Hurdle raid goes to planand it won't be an afterthought. Stablemate Impose Toi has been on my mind for this race since he won at the November meeting and he's still on my mind. Not putting him the top spot grates with me and, if he wins, I'll make sure I do, too. He's saver worthy. Absurde is nailed on for a big handicap over hurdles. but I worry this is a rush job with him.

Friday 2.50 Albert Bartlett Novices' Hurdle

JOHNNY DINEEN

1 Stellar Story 2 Lecky Watson 3 Johnnywho

This is without a doubt the most difficult of the three novice hurdles to decipher, and it looks a wide-open event where it would be hard to nominate who will be favourite, never mind the winner. When horses go up to three miles and are confronted by a good gallop, you can see spectacular improvement, and indeed there have been some shocks in this over the years. I'm going to throw a dart at an outsider in Stellar Story, who could prove a revelation given this new

SAM HARDY

1 Lecky Watson 2 Better Days Ahead 3 Dancing City

Lecky Watson has been my fancy for this race since finishing fourth in last season's Champion Bumper. He was an impressive winner on his hurdles debut over 2m7f. but has since been running over a shorter trip and should be seen to better effect now tackling three miles. Better Days Ahead's only win this season came when given a staying test (2m7½f) and he could run a big race at a decent price for the Gordon Elliott stable.

PAUL KEALY

1 Johnnywho 2 High Class Hero 3 Captain Teague

I'm fairly convinced we haven't seen the best of Johnnywho, who has been getting outpaced in decent enough company over trips around two and a half miles. He is a half-brother to a 3m5f winner and his dam won over four miles and he'll come into his own over a trip. High Class Hero may prove the best of the Mullins team, while Captain Teague shouldn't be dismissed if he comes here.

TOM PARK

Readin Tommy Wrong 2 Captain Teague 3 High Class Hero

Readin Tommy Wrong's defeat of Ile Atlantique in the Lawlor's of Naas could prove exceptional form. The pair drew a long way clear of Lecky Watson and Firefox, Willie Mullins claimed after the race that it was the best novice hurdle run all season and, perhaps excluding Ballyburn's romps, he is probably right. Because Readin Tommy Wrong was a 16-1 shot that day he has been somewhat underestimated here even though he is favourite. Odds of around 6-1 are more than

MADDY PLAYLE

1 Shanagh Bob 2 Readin Tommy Wrong 3 Captain Teague

Nicky Henderson has a strong bunch of novice hurdlers and Shanagh Bob has long been earmarked for this race. Plenty of improvement can be expected from his last run, when he proved he could handle this track very well, and that form has been boosted. Readin Tommy Wrong took some notable scalps at Naas, while Captain Teague will surely enjoy this test.

MATT WILLIAMS

1 Shanagh Bob 2 Readin Tommy Wrong 3 High Class Hero

Shanagh Bob had a setback following his win over course and distance in December, but his trainer has since stated he is back on track and training well for this. Speed isn't his forte, and in-running punters can expect to beat his pre-race odds. But what he does is stay and battle, and those are the two main qualities I want in my Albert Bartlett picks. Readin Tommy Wrong brings serious form to the table stepping up in trip, and he is the obvious danger.

Unbeaten six-year-old holds sway

TRFNDS James Hill

Five of the last seven winners were six-year-olds This hasn't been a strong trends race, but this latest stat is perhaps the most eyecatching. Stay Away Fay, winner last season, was the fifth six-year-old since 2017 to land this. The previous year's winner, The Nice Guy, was aged seven, although he'd been very lightly raced.

Six-year-olds generally have had the best record, although older horses had their fair share of success in the early days.

Ireland has won seven of the last ten runnings and much its best trial is the Grade 2 novice at Limerick's Christmas meeting. Three winners had recorded a top-two finish in that event going back to 2015, while it was also the race Faugheen won (run then as a Grade 3)before landing the Baring Bingham in last ten years has been just over 20-1. In that period we've had winners as big as 50-1 and 33-1 (twice), while 2023 was the second straight year in which the winner went off

Verdict

Harry Fry has the option of both the Baring Bingham and this race for Gidleigh Park. These stats suggest his credentials are stronger for the three-miler, being an unbeaten six-year-old with winning form at Cheltenham, and Fry has won this race before.

Home or away?

Recent record Since the race's inception in 2005, the British and Irish have won nine apiece (Francois Doumen took the inaugural running for France).

Ireland won four in a row between 2019 and 2022 but that sequence ended last year when Paul Nicholls saddled Stay Away Fay to a shock success.

This year's challenge

Both teams look evenly matched, but if Ireland prevail then it could fall on Willie Mullins' shoulders once again. The Closutton trainer has three of the top four in the betting, including Grade 1 winners Readin Tommy Wrong and Dancing City.

The latter has the better Racing Post Rating following his Dublin Racing Festival success. Stablemate High Class Hero continued his winning spree at Thurles last time and follows the same path as 2020 winner Monkfish.

Harry Fry, who won the Albert Bartlett in 2016 with Unowhatimeanharry, heads the British line-up with Gidleigh Park, who also has the option of the Baring Bingham.

Britain's only Grade 1 winner in the field is the Paul Nicholls-trained Captain Teague, who looked every inch a stayer in the Challow Hurdle, Stablemate Welcom To Cartries could be a lively outsider.

Shanagh Bob, trained by Nicky Henderson, has a course-and-distance Grade 2 victory this season to his name.

MATT RENNIE

ALBERT BARTLETT FORM STARTS PAGE 94

Big shot for giant Gidleigh Park

THIS race was created in 2005 as an addition to the programme when the festival became four days. It has generally been seen as a race for the dour slogger, but two winners have gone on to land the Gold Cup, so plenty of quality has come out of it too

It's probably the most competitive of all the novice events, regularly reaching 20 runners, and this year's race could be no different as they go 7-1 the field at the time of writing. Not surprisingly, the first three in the market are all trained by Willie Mullins.

Captain Teague

Six-year-old chestnut gelding Trainer Paul Nicholls

Best hurdles RPR 143 Topspeed 132 Official 142 Jumps form 1/13-121

Third in last season's Champion Bumper and has won two of his three hurdles starts for Paul Nicholls, Made a winning debut in the Grade 2 Persian War at Chepstow in October and was 4-6 to record another success at the same level at Cheltenham in November, but was narrowly denied by 22-1 shot Minella Missile. Still went off favourite for the Grade 1 Challow at Newbury last time and ground out victory in a real slog. Not the most natural of jumpers and has to prove his stamina as well, although certainly classy enough and stable won

Dancing City

7 ch q Trainer Willie Mullins RPR 152 TS 112 OR 151 12/12-511

Winner of three of his six starts under rules, including his last two over hurdles. Was the 16-1 outsider of four Willie Mullins runners in the Grade 1 Nathaniel Lacy at the Dublin Racing Festival, but left those odds behind in defeating even-money stablemate Predators Gold by a length and a quarter. That form looks solid with the third Jetara rated 142, and he was giving her 7lb. Was a good bumper horse last term, splitting Ballyburn and Slade Steel at the Punchestown festival. Not fashionably bred, but stamina in his pedigree and form in the book. Obvious

Gidleigh Park

6 b q Trainer Harry Fry RPR 136 TS 123 OR 138

Giant six-year-old who has won all four starts under rules. including his last three over hurdles. Very impressive earlier in the season, but had to work much harder to land a Grade 2 at Cheltenham on Trials day when denying Lucky Place by half a length. Fought hard to win there and showed he stays well enough for a possible step up in trip here, and would be a serious contender if he did. Participation likely to depend on which race Ballyburn goes for at Cheltenham, as he's also a live contender in the Baring Bingham on the Wednesday. Harry Fry has won this before.

High Class Hero

7 ch g Trainer Willie Mullins RPR 147 TS 121 OR -

Another unbeaten novice for Willie Mullins, having won all four hurdles starts as well as his bumper at Listowel in June. Has since recorded victories at Galway, Listowel again, Limerick and Thurles, although biggest win came only at Listed level. Showed he has the stamina for this when winning over 2m61/2f in deep ground at Thurles in a race won by the stable's Monkfish en route to victory in this in

Lecky Watson

6 ch g Trainer Willie Mullins RPR 138 TS 113 OR 143 2/2245-123

High-class bumper horse last season, finishing fourth at the festival, and has done well in top company over hurdles this winter. Made a winning debut in a 2m7f maiden hurdle at Thurles in November, and then ran Slade Steel to half a length when second in a Grade 2 at Navan the following month. However, in the Grade 1 Lawlor's of Naas last time, he was readily seen off by stablemates Readin Tommy Wrong and Ile Atlantique. Races keenly and will have to settle better here.

Readin Tommy Wrong

6 b g Trainer Willie Mullins RPR 149 TS 121 OR -

Has won all four starts under rules for Willie Mullins, with the last two over hurdles. including the Grade 1 Lawlor's of Naas last time. Prominent in the betting for this, although shorter in the market for the Baring Bingham, and his participation could depend on which race is chosen for stablemate Ballyburn. Readin Tommy Wrong showed good depths of stamina to reel in Ile Atlantique at Naas and his pedigree suggests a step up to three miles would be no problem. Has the class to win this and would have to be on the shortlist if he runs.

00000 Shanagh Bob

6 b g Trainer Nicky Henderson

RPR 133 TS 108 OR 134 1-11

Talented six-year-old who, like Dancing City, is owned by the Donnellys. Still pretty green on the evidence of his two hurdles starts, but won them both comfortably enough. Dossed all the way when making a winning debut over 2m41/2f at Plumpton in November when scoring by seven lengths, and ran in similar vein in a Grade 2 over course and distance at the December meeting when beating Destroytheevidence by a length and a quarter. That form has worked out to an extent, although he was clearly the best and could well be capable of making the required improvement here. The trip will not be an issue, and he is interesting if he is the stable's number one as Henderson has plenty of good novices.

Others to consider

The median SP for this race in the last ten years is just over 20-1, so there can be plenty more to consider.

I'll add Chapeau De Soleil for Mullins as he'd be interesting if coming here. He made a terrible mistake early on at Naas last time, so forget that run, and has long been on the radar for a step up in trip.

Three of Gordon Elliott's to consider are Croke Park, My Trump Card and, in particular, Stellar Story.

As well as Captain Teague, Paul Nicholls has Welcom To Cartries. He finished second in the River Don at Doncaster last time, the same position stablemate Stay Away Fay filled on Town Moor before going on to win here 12 months ago.

Verdict

This could be Britain's best chance in the novice events. Shanagh Bob is usually the type of horse I'd look for to win this, but I have my doubts as to how good his form is. GIDLEIGH PARK is more interesting. He has long been touted for the Baring Bingham, but I think he'd have a better chance here. High Class Hero, Readin Tommy Wrong, Dancing City and Lecky Watson all hold serious claims for Ireland while, at a bigger price, don't discount Chapeau De Soleil.

1 Fastorslow 2 Shishkin 3 Gerri Colombe

All eyes will be on Galopin Des Champs, who attempts to go back to back following his victory last March. It's never an easy thing to do and plenty have failed, and my guess is that he will join that long list. Shishkin. Fastorslow and possibly even Gerri Colombe can put it up to the favourite, who has had a few hard races already this season, and that may well prove his downfall. Shishkin is a huge danger if on a going day, but a chance is taken with Fastorslow, who is likely to peak at the right time.

SAM HARDY

1 Shishkin 2 Galopin Des Champs 3 The Real Whacker

Connections of Shishkin would have been thrilled with his win in last month's Denman Chase at Newbury and would fancy their chances again here if their star is in the same mood. The ten-vear-old would have likely won the King George at Kempton had it not been for a slip after jumping the second-last and is the best chance of a Britain-trained winner this

- 3 L'Homme Presse

Galopin Des Champs proved himself a superior Gold Cup winner last year, and, following a couple of blips, he has been back to his best. It will take a very good one to lower his colours and Fastorslow, second to him at Leopardstown last time, is probably the most likely to follow him home. I'd love to see Shishkin win, but he hasn't jumped well at the last two festivals and L'Homme Presse makes more appeal.

2 Galopin Des Champs 3 Corach Rambler

Galopin Des Champs may well be a superstar, but I think this is a strong Gold Cup and I am more than happy to let him win at odds-on. Shishkin will need to be on his best behaviour. but if he is he can really serve it up to Galopin Des Champs. I've long thought he is a dour stayer and he will relish this test. He looks the value play against the favourite, while Corach Rambler can stay on to finish in the places.

MADDY PLAYLE

3 L'Homme Presse

Regular rivals Galopin Des Champs and Fastorslow look the key players. The former was an excellent winner of this last year and has shown his star quality the last twice. He is a more relaxed customer these days, which should help. L'Homme Presse can leave his Ascot Chase defeat behind in these conditions.

MATT WILLIAMS

1 Fastorslow 2 Gerri Colombe 3 Galopin Des Champs

Fastorslow's Gold Cup credentials were dealt only a minor blow when he was put in his place behind Galopin Des Champs last month. Watching the race live, my mind was made up. I could see him reversing the form in the Gold Cup, and I'm sticking with that. The defending champ is freaky good on his best day, but we've seen in the past he isn't unbeatable and I couldn't go near him at odds-on. I might even lay him, we've got four running for us, I reckon, and that's plenty of ammo.

Encouragement for last year's hero

TRENDS James Hill

Since 2008, just one winner had run more than three times that season

Remember that remarkable 2006-07 campaign from Kauto Star: six starts, six wins, all imperious victories, from 1m71/2f to 3m and rounded off with a memorable Gold Cup success. What a blueprint for a way to campaign a staying chaser for the future!

Erm, not really. Since then pretty much all Gold Cup winners have had a light campaign en route to Cheltenham. Even the novice Coneygree had only three runs over fences before Gold Cup glory in 2015. In fact, all winners between 2018 and 2020 had just one prep run all season, while Galopin Des Champs had only two runs 12 months ago.

Three of the last six winners had at least placed the previous year, while for 23 years up to 2018, as many as 19 winners were having their first run in the race. Gold Cup form didn't last - but the trend has changed with these lighter campaigns.

Verdict

Recent stats are encouraging for Galopin Des Champs to make it back-to-back Gold Cups. Willie Mullins was the last trainer to do it with Al Boum Photo and he has a classier horse this time. Gerri Colombe is worth a mention as he also comes out strongly with just the two runs this season, while second-season chasers have won half the Gold Cups since as far back as 1991.

Home or away?

Recent record

Britain enjoyed a golden period between 2000 and 2013, winning 11 times including with superstar chasers Best Mate and Kauto Star, Denman.

However, the pendulum has swung firmly in Ireland's favour recently, Galopin Des Champs' brilliant victory last year making it seven wins in the last eight runnings.

This year's challenge

Ireland has the classiest team on paper, headed by last year's hero. After two defeats following last year's triumph, Galopin Des Champs bounced back in stunning style in the Savills Chase in which he equalled his career-best Racing Post Rating of 184, before beating old foe Fastorslow in the Irish Gold Cup.

The Martin Brassil-trained Fastorslow had earlier defeated Galopin Des Champs in the Punchestown Gold Cup and John Durkan Chase. Grade 1 winners Gerri Colombe and Hewick, plus Gentlemansgame, could also feature in a strong Irish line-up.

The home team will be headed by the Nicky Henderson-trained Shishkin. After a dramatic start to the season, he got back to winning ways in the Denman Chase and follows the same route Native River took to Gold Cup glory in 2018.

Last year's gallant second Bravemansgame has not looked the same this term, while L'Homme Presse was beaten at Ascot over an inadequate 2m5f last time. MATT RENNIE

Galopin set for repeat gold rush

THE festival's blue-riband event lived up to its billing last year when Galopin Des Champs ran out a brilliant winner, and he is a warm order to land back-to-back Gold Cups, a feat achieved by his stablemate Al Boum Photo as recently as 2019-20. Fastorslow is 2-2 in his clashes with Galopin Des Champs and is likely to start second favourite for a race that has gone to Ireland in seven of the last eight seasons. A dual winner at the meeting, the enigmatic Shishkin is Britain's principal contender.

A final-fence error, when going best under a confident Harry Cobden, probably cost him victory in the Charlie Hall at Wetherby, with Gentlemansgame taking advantage. In testing conditions at Haydock in the Betfair Chase it was Royale Pagaille who proved the stronger, and Bravemansgame couldn't even cash in when Shishkin's departure two out left him in front in the King

Back at Punchestown for his seasonal reappearance in the John Durkan, he again proved too strong for the Gold Cup winner, who was rusty for his first start of the season, but normal order was restored in February's Irish Gold Cup at Leopardstown when Galopin Des Champs beat him pretty comfortably. Fastorslow is unproven over the 3m2½f of the Gold Cup but should stay it well.

A superb winner of this race last year at the unusual price of 7-5 favourite, pulling right away from Bravemansgame after the last. That made up for the crushing disappointment of the previous year's festival when he'd crumpled at the last in the Turners with the race seemingly at his mercy. Following last year's heroics he wasn't in the same form at Punchestown when beaten by Fastorslow, getting up on the line to beat Bravemansgame by a nose for second. Fastorslow beat him again in the John Durkan in November, a race Galopin Des Champs had won in 2022 with Fastorslow only fifth, and doubts started creeping in. But a brilliant 23-length demolition of Gerri Colombe in the Savills Chase answered those questions and he did all that he needed to do, without being as spectacular, when taking revenge on Fastorslow in the Irish Gold Cup at Leopardstown. He was held up in last year's Gold Cup, starting his forward move with only seven to jump, but seems to have enjoyed being ridden more prominently this season.

He had just his second run against established chasers in the Savills Chase over Christmas, and a 23-length defeat by Galopin Des Champs was deflating in terms of his Gold Cup aspirations. But Gordon Elliott is content for him to turn up at Cheltenham without another run and, though he may be short on experience, unlike some of his rivals there is room for improvement.

He looked to have no chance at one stage at Kempton, but Shishkin's departure at the penultimate fence changed things dramatically and he picked up the pieces as the leaders faltered. After showing up prominently in last year's Gold Cup when only headed on falling at the second-last, he may be ridden differently this time. He has been kept fresh since Kempton and should be all the better for that, while his trainer appears quietly confident of a big run should the ground come up

On his first run since his enforced 13-month absence, he beat 2022 Gold Cup third Protektorat, who was giving him 4lb, in the Fleur de Lys Chase at Lingfield. That was a pleasing return, but he didn't build on it in the Ascot Chase last time, never seriously promising to peg back Pic D'Orhy. That 2m5f trip was too short and he again jumped to his left, not ideal at a right-handed track, suggesting he'll be suited by Cheltenham where he is unbeaten in two runs, including the Brown Advisory in 2022. Decent ground would help his cause in the Gold Cun.

10 b g Trainer Nicky Henderson RPR 179 TS 165 OR 173 3/11/F111/11111/11P/3121-RU1 Would he have won the King

Would he have won the King George had he not stumbled after the second-last and decanted Nico de Boinville? The chances are that he would. but we'll never know. He turned up for Newbury's Denman Chase with a point to prove and was an ultimately comfortable winner over Hitman and Protektorat. Unfortunate not to be unbeaten in three runs over 2m7½f-3m1f, he will be trying an unknown trip over the extra furlong and a half of the Gold Cup, but he shapes as if stamina won't be an issue. This classy operator may be sharpened up by cheekpieces on the big day, having worn them only when planting himself at Ascot on his thwarted seasonal return.

Others to consider

Gentlemansgame hasn't been out since his Charlie Hall win in early November, Mouse Morris opting to sidestep the Irish Gold Cup with the grey to keep him fresh for Cheltenham. He's open to a good deal of improvement, but his lack of chasing experience will surely tell against him. Last season's Brown Advisory winner The Real Whacker has run creditably in the King George and the Cotswold Chase this winter and could improve for the slightly stiffer test in the Gold Cup. Ahoy Senor has the raw ability to go well at a big price. He also gave encouraging signs in the Cotswold Chase, and his Ascot run last time will have put him spot on.

Verdict

If GALOPIN DES CHAMPS performs to the level he did in last year's Gold Cup then he'll take a massive amount of beating, and Willie Mullins is sure to have him cherry-ripe. Shishkin and Hewick can chase him home.

How to read the

Weekender cards 1 2 6 8 13 16 17 18 19 20 22

3 4 5 7 9 10 11 12 14 15 21 Boxed reference number of previous race in Weekender results section and in Raceform official form book. Saddle-cloth number if final declarations.

Draw in brackets if Flat final declarations: starting stall position.
Latest form figures for today's code down to 9th position, most recent on right; bold if All-weather (Flat) or Point-to-point (Jumps).
Running style: • Leads, • Prominent, • Medidield, • Held up

Elimination number: number one eliminated first etc should declarations

Raised prefix reference to mention in Weekender columns: T=Training Centres, I=Interview, Horse

Pounds extra (included in weight): penalty in handicap for winning after weights were calculated. Days since run (latest in brackets if opposite code or point-to-point)

C = course winner, D = distance winner (to nearest 1/2f - 55y for Flat races

D = course & distance winner under a mile; 10% dist for Jumps)

BF = beaten favourite in last run, G = gambled on in last run

13 RTF: raised number is trainer's Running-To-Form percentage over 14 days, to previous Monday incl, minimum 5 runners. RTF is defined as: running to within 5lb of Racing Post card rating; any placing; finishing within 6L of winner up to 1m, or within extra 1/2L per furlong above 1m.

14 Age15 Weight to be carried; incl penalty; excludes jockey claim or overweight

16 OR=official rating: determines weight in handicap.
17-19 Raised number is best Racing Post Rating (RPR), adjusted for weight. 17 Wins-runs on going FIRMER than good (good to firm-hard). 18 Wins-runs on going SOFTER than good (good to soft-heavy). If All-weather, Polytrack & Tapeta are shown.

19 Wins-runs over distance (Flat: +/-55y up to 1m; +/-110y beyond 1m). (Jumps +/-10% race distance) 20 TS=Topspeed (Racing Post time-based rating) latest (L) and best (B), adjusted for weight, top-rated bold.

Best includes previous season if fewer than two runs in current season 21 RPR=Racing Post Rating (form-based), best from last 6 months Flat Turf, 12 months Jumps and Flat AW, adjusted for weight, top-rated bold. Raised number is pounds below best of latest run (x=10+).

22 Improyer pointer: horse's latest run was best RPR to date; penultimate run was best to that point. Below the card

Last five runnings:

Raised figure next to SP (starting price) is position in market.

Latest figure is on right for POWIM (position of winner in market) etc.

Friday 4.10 St. James's Place Festival Hunters' Chase

JOHNNY DINEEN

1 It's On The line 2 Ferns Lock 3 Sime Nomine

It's On The Line wouldn't have the class of some previous winners, but he is a solid, improving and genuine sort. Although he had a hard race last time at Naas, he is tough and he may well take that hardship in his stride.

SAM HARDY

1 Samcro 2 Secret Investor 3 Billaway

Samcro has not run under rules since finishing 11th in the 2022 Grand National, but he has since made a career in the point-to-point division with four wins from six starts and is my fancy here. The 12-year-old boasts a solid record at Cheltenham with two festival wins and can make it win number three. Secret Investor is unbeaten since falling at the first fence in last years race and is the main danger.

PAUL KEALY

1 Ferns Lock 2 Tea Clipper 3 Famous Clermont

Guesswork for me as I know little about hunter chasers. Ferns Lock was all the gossip last year, but was apparently always going to be saved for this year. Tea Clipper has been in the first six at three festivals and has been qualified, while Famous Clermont didn't quite get home last year (sixth) but might last longer if the ground is a bit drier.

TOM PARK

1 Its On The Line 2 Billaway 3 Shantou Flyer

Its On The Line's level of form appears to be a cut above many here, so much so that he received an entry for the Grand National. He isn't qualified to run in that now he's running in hunter chases this season, but he might get his festival success here. He just fended off Billaway last time and the 12-year-old can chase him home again, while I wouldn't rule out a big run at a huge price from the 14-year-old Shantou Flyer. He loves it here and was third in this last season.

MADDY PLAYLE

1 Its On The Line 2 Ferns Lock 3 Premier Magic

It will surely only be a matter of time before Emmet Mullins' name will be on this race's roll of honour and in Its On The Line, who finished a gallant runner-up last year, he looks to have a quality contender. He showed he was the superior staver to Ferns Lock at Down Royal over Christmas. Last year's hero, Premier Magic, can enter the picture too.

MATT WILLIAMS

Premier Magic 2 Its On The Line 3 Ferns Lock

History could repeat itself, with Premier Magic once again fancied to get the better of Its On The Line. Ferns Lock will travel as well as anything, but favourite backers will be worried late on as the tank empties and stamina becomes an issue.

102 Cheltenham: The Ultimate Guide March 2024

Friday 4.50 Mrs Paddy Power Mares' Chase

JOHNNY DINEEN

1 Dinoblue 2 Limerick Lace 3 Allegorie De Vassy

This boils down to whether or not Dinoblue sees out this extra half-mile. While she's not guaranteed to get home, I do feel that she probably will. Her form at Grade 1 level this season is on a different planet to what faces her here and even though she's going to be prohibitively priced, you'd have to think she will be difficult to beat. Limerick Lace is improving and rates her most obvious danger, but may need soft ground to be seen to best effect.

SAM HARDY

1 Allegorie De Vassy 2 Limerick Lace 3 Dinoblue

Allegorie De Vassy will have been aimed at this race all season having finished runner-up to Impervious in 2023. Sent off favourite that day, I expect punters to return to her this time and it may be worth taking an early price, especially if the Willie Mullins stable is firing in winners, which is likely. She was impressive at Naas on her latest start when routing a very good field and a repeat effort should see her thereabouts.

PAUL KEALY

1 Dinoblue 2 Limerick Lace 3 Brides Hill

Dinoblue was second in the Grand Annual last season and has taken her form to a new level this time around. If she stays she's going to be tough to beat. I'm not convinced about Allegorie De Vassy as she can throw in the odd right-handed jump, so Limerick Lace and Brides Hill are taken to fill the places.

TOM PARK

1 Dinoblue 2 Allegorie De Vassy 3 Limerick Lace

Dinoblue's form is a cut above this field and she will take all the beating provided she sees out the extra half a furlong. Allegorie De Vassy did everything right last season and jumped straight, yet she still couldn't get past Impervious and I'd rate Dinoblue a good bit better than her. Allegorie De Vassy has the tendency to jump right at times, which she can't afford to do here.

MADDY PLAYLE

1 Dinoblue 2 Limerick Lace 3 Brides Hill

Dinoblue proved she wasn't quite up to beating El Fabiolo last time but there is no shame in that as he should be very tough to beat in the Champion Chase, and she looks by far the standout mare here after finishing an unlucky second in the Grand Annual last year. Limerick Lace, in the same ownership, has enjoyed a smooth preparation. Her stablemate Brides Hill can make it a 1-2-3 for Ireland.

MATT WILLIAMS

1 Limerick Lace 2 Dinoblue 3 Allegorie De Vassy

Limerick Lace isn't as talented as Dinoblue or Allegorie De Vassy, but her proven stamina is the great equaliser, and if she can get within hailing distance of the other two turning for home she has the quality to come out on top. Dinoblue has serious star quality in a race like this, but she's a mean enough price, and is she a guaranteed stayer?

103 March 2024 Cheltenham: The Ultimate Guide

Friday 5.30 Martin Pipe Handicap Hurdle

JOHNNY DINEEN

1 Waterford Whispers 2 Answer To Kayf 3 Encanto Bruno

As always a difficult getting-out medium and, with a big field and plenty of inexperienced riders, it's highly likely you will need a bit of luck to pass the lollipop in front. Willie Mullins looks to have a strong hand and it will be interesting to see who he relies on when the time comes, but two Irish horses I like are Answer To Kayf and Waterford Whispers Coincidentally, they fought out a finish earlier in the season at Fairyhouse and will be suited by the stiff. stamina-sapping finish.

SAM HARDY

1 Doddiethegreat 2 Angels Breath 3 Built By Ballymore

The lightly raced Doddiethegreat looks well handicapped on a mark of 132, the same as when he finished fourth in the Betfair Hurdle last time. He was an unlucky runner-up at Cheltenham on his penultimate run off a mark of 131 on heavy ground and should be suited by the likely better conditions. Angels Breath is sliding down the weights and could prove a danger to all on a mark of 136, having reached 150 as a novice for his former connections.

PAUL KEALY

1 Encanto Bruno 2 Nurse Susan 3 Comfort Zone

Encanto Bruno has two ways of runnings, but he tends to go well fresh and if the ground is decent he could run well. Nurse Susan is improving and could be a player for Dan Skelton. while we haven't seen Comfort Zone for an age. but he appeals as fairly well treated should he make the

TOM PARK

Nurse Susan 2 No Ordinary Joe 3 Quai De Bourbon

Nurse Susan looks a really well-handicapped mare and, with Langer Dan likely to go for the Coral Cup for the same owner, this looks the race where she takes advantage of her mark of 135. Nurse Susan had been off the track for 18 months but has improved with every run this season, winning her last two handicaps in cozy fashion. She ran a stormer in the 2022 Mares' Novices' Hurdle to be fourth to Love Envoi. She's clearly better than her mark of 135, but she'll need to be to win a race like this.

1 Encanto Bruno 2 Quai De Bourbon 3 No Ordinary Joe

Encanto Bruno boasts two wins from three starts at this track - his only other run was a respectable 11th in the Champion Bumper on his unfavoured soft going - and will surely put his most recent efforts behind him on spring ground. Quai De Bourbon is this year's unknown quantity from Closutton, while last year's second No Ordinary Joe caught the eye with this in mind at Kempton.

MATT WILLIAMS

1 Encanto Bruno 2 Thanksforthehelp 3 Black Bamboo

Encanto Bruno won an Irish point, but most of his form is at two miles over hurdles, including a couple of lousy efforts on his last two starts. However, his impressive course win over 2m4f in October is a creditable piece of form and I love the step back up in trip, not to mention the mini-layoff - he's coming here fresh for a trainer proven at this meeting. Thanksforthehelp has other entries, as does Black Bamboo, but they deserve a second look wherever they turn up (hopefully for this).
